ARGENTINE SENATE VOTES FOR BREAK WITH GERMANY

SURPRISE IN WASHINGTON

News Causes Gratification on Account of Its Effect on South Americans.

FACTOR IN FOOD QUESTION

Curtailing of Argentine Grain and Wheat Exports to Neutrals Likely to Result.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 19.—The Argentine Senate by a vote of 23 to 1 today declared for the breaking off of relations with Germany.

The resolution now goes to the Chamber of Deputies. There is strong public feeling in favor of its final passage.

Surprise in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Gratification and considerable surprise were expressed in Washington tonight over the action of the Argentine Senate in voting to break off relations with Germany. The State Department had not been officially informed of the step and comment on the subject was withheld in official quarters, but unofficially the decision was attributed directly to the disclosure by the United States Government of the von Luxburg messages.

When the State Department made its exposure of the German-Swedish collusion the Argentine had just come through a crisis with Germany over the sinking of an Argentine merchant vessel by a German submarine. The German explanation and offer of settlement was apparently satisfactory to Argentina. But the evidence produced by the United States Government that Buenos Aires was being used as a spy centre for Germany with the connivance of the Swedish Minister angered a large part of the population, which had been inflamed over the submarine sinking, and there were attacks on German institutions, and a part of the city where there were German business houses was burned.

It is supposed here that the feeling demonstrated in these outbreaks has had its effect throughout the republic and is responsible for the action of the Senate.

Although it is understood the State Department's purpose in making public copies of the Luxburg cablegrams was only to expose the German Government's world-wide system of duplicity and intrigue, it is no secret that Argentine's participation in the war would be welcomed, and would be of great benefit to the Allies from several angles. In the first place, the ports of the republic would be open to allied warships. German merchant vessels that sought refuge in Argenine ports would be at the disposal of the Allies for carrying troops or cargoes to Great Britain, France, and Italy. Shipments of Argentine wheat and meats to neutral countries of Northern Europe would be subject to restrictions to keep them from going into Germany.

It is felt here that the breaking off of relations also would have a powerful effect on public opinion in all South American countries where German influences are known to be strong.

Reticence of Sweden.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept 19.—Sweden's official reticence concerning the exposures made by Secretary Lansing of the part her diplomatic agents have taken in transmitting German messages is regarded here largely as a cloak to cover what must necessarily be an embarrassing internal reform.

Officials of the State Department today made no effort to conceal the fact that the United States was disposed to accept the unofficial statements of regret and indignation from Admiral Lindman, Minister of Foreign Affairs at Stockholm, as a true indication of the Swedish people's attitude. Cablegrams from London have quoted a spokesman of the British Government as saying that the same admissions made to it by the Foreign Minister would be regarded there as satisfactory.

Until official admission of a measure of guilt is made, however, and promises of greater care in the future are given, it appears improbable that Swedish diplomatic representatives will receive the same facilities for the transmission of their dispatches.

Code Messages Delayed.

Although the American Government has not placed any restrictions on the Swedish Legation here, there is daily evidence that code messages sent to and from Stockholm through stations in the control of Great Britain are being subjected to indefinite delay.

Reports from Stockholm that changes in the Government would include the placing of Admiral Lindman in the Premier's seat have gone far toward convincing this Government that the Swedish sentiment has been so aroused that formal assurances will soon come that such incidents as those discovered in Argentina and Mexico will not be repeated.

The disclosure of the part played by the Swedish representative in Mexico when he acted as messenger for Minister von Eckhardt is not regarded by State Department officials as having created a situation demanding any action whatever by Mexico.

Swedes See Troubles Ahead.

Only 8 Big British Ships Sunk in Week, but 20 Smaller Ones

LONDON, Sept. 19.—British merchant ships of 1,600 tons and over sunk by mines or submarines in the last week numbered eight, according to the Admiralty report tonight. Twenty ships of under 1,600 tons also were sunk, and one fishing vessel. The statement adds that the arrivals were 2,005 and the sailings 2,737. Six vessels were unsuccessfully attacked.

ROME, Sept. 19.—The Italian shipping losses for the week ending Sept. 16, an official announcement says, were one steamer under 1,500 tons and one small sailing vessel.

The number of vessels of more than 1,600 tons reported sunk last week is the smallest destroyed in one week since Germany began her intensified submarine campaign last February. The number under 1,600 tons is the largest for any week, but one, since mid-February. The total number of ships sunk is the largest since the week ending June 24.

HOOVER SEES PERIL OF SOCIALISM HERE

Warns Business Men That It May Be Penalty of Failure to Aid the Nation.

CITES RUSSIA AS EXAMPLE

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept 19.—The delegates to the war convention of American Business Men, held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, were warned tonight by Herbert C. Hoover, Federal Food Administrator, that socialism might be the penalty of the failure of business men to realize their responsibilities and co-operate adequately with the Government.

"One looming shadow of this war," he said, "is its drift toward socialism. For the gigantic sacrifice of life the world is demanding a sacrifice of property. We will surely drift to that rocky coast unless we can prove the economic soundness and willingness for public service of our commercial institutions. It is worth while examining the developments in Russia from this point of view. There no practical or effective form of commercial regulation or distribution was undertaken. In consequence of speculation, profiteering and failure in commerce to service public interest, the condition of the industrial classes became so intolerable as to steam the not bed of revolution. Justifiable as this revolution may have been, and as great a cause of liberty as it may result, no one can deny that the whole trend of this revolution has been socialistic, and the latest phase is a development into practical socialism. This strain in the revolution, I am convinced from much experience in Russia, was the reaction from failure of the Government and the commercial classes to meet their public duty.

"The other end to be attained is of profound importance. The alternative to failure of our commercial system to maintain its place and at the same time serve public interest is rigid autocratic governmental organization of industry of the German type. Such organization is autocracy itself—it breeds beaurocracy and stifles initiative, and thus democracy, at its birth. We must organize—we must mobilize—our every national energy, if we are to win this war against the organization perfected by autocracy. Either we must organize from the top down or from the bottom up. One is autocracy itself—the other, democracy. If democracy cannot organize to accomplish its economic as well as its military defense, it is a false faith and need be abandoned.

Faith Worthy of Defense.

"The Food Administration has appealed to the commercial community to march with it to an organization, democratic in its inspiration and vital to our defense. If we succeed we shall have assisted our commercial institutions to their own stability in after years, and beyond this they will have proved that democracy is a faith worthy of defense.

"Food will win the war. Starvation or sufficiency will in the end mark the victor. Our first duty lies to our allies, and if they are to sacrifice a share of our food to neutrals, and if this is also the result of our own savings and our own productive labor these neutrals should expect to furnish equivalent service in other direction to the common pool against Germany.

"Food has since the war began gradually assumed a larger place in the economics, the statesmanship, and the strategy of warfare. The Allies are blockading the food from Germany and the surrounding neutrals are under great pressure to export their supplies both ways. The Germans are trying to starve the Allies by sinking the food ships, and all Governments are faced with reduction of consumption, stimulation of production, control of prices, and readjustment of wages. The winning of the war is largely a problem of who can organize this weapon.

"There has come about not only a limitation of supplies, but an accumulation in inaccessible markets. The result of these cumulative forces is that North America is called upon by both Allies and neutrals, for quantities of food far beyond its normal export ability.

Exports Exceed Capacity.

"If the extremely high prices thundering at every door were not a sufficient demonstration, it is possible, by actual figures, to prove that we have been exporting in many commodities actually beyond our capacity to produce. During the last year we have exported every last ounce which the country during this period was capable of producing, and our national stock of cereals and animal products, proportionate to our population, was at the be-

KAROLYI STARTS MAGYAR CRUSADE FOR EARLY PEACE

NEW PARTY IN BUDAPEST

BERLIN AGITATION GOES ON

Fear of America Spurs Peace Demand—Weakening of German Unity Admitted.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 19. — Count Michael Karolyi, President of the Hungarian Independence Party, according to a Budapest dispatch, announced at a meeting yesterday that he would agitate for an early peace between the warring countries.

He said he had been invited to participate in a peace conference at Berne on Oct. 15, and would leave for Switzerland, despite the violent attacks which probably would be directed against him.

The new Hungarian Government paper Deilyi Hirlap, says that a new party composed of adherents of Count Apponyi, Count Andrassy, and M. Vassonyi has been formed under the leadership of Dr. Alexander Wekerle, the Hungarian Premier. The party, it is understood, will favor peace without annexations.

Sees Peace Hope in U-boats' Work.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 19, (via London.)—Speaking to the National Liberal organization at Cassel, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, leader of that party in the Reichstag, said with regard to Mathias Erzberger's speech in Biberach on Sunday that there was no official English peace offer. All one could say today, he added, was that a diplomatic atmosphere had been created by disinterested parties as a basis for future peace.

It was quite natural, said Dr. Stresemann, that Erzberger, who was one of the prime movers of the peace resolution passed by the majority parties of the Reichstag, should ascribe a certain effect on alleged peace approaches to that resolution. A base for peace negotiations, he asserted, was really offered by the following forceful factors: First, the decisive effect of the U-boat war on the economic conditions of England, which could no longer be denied; second, the military, financial, and economic collapse of Russia, and last, but not least, the impossibility of defeating the Central Powers in the field, which was generally admitted now by the Entente."

Regarding certain fears of Germany's total abandonment of Belgium, Dr. Stresemann said, he had his doubts, since Chancellor Michaelis only a short time ago repeated to a deputation of Flemings the assurances given them by his predecessor.

Admits Inroads by Wilson.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19. — Organized demonstrations of loyalty to the German Emperor, accompanied by protests against President Wilson's "attempt to drive a wedge between the Emperor and the people," continue to be prominently advertised in the German press.

The Cologne Gazette in an editorial even admits that enemy diplomats have already achieved some success in jeopardizing German national unity. It complains that a large section of the German people is so infatuated with a change in the constitution that it ceases to perceive how unjustified are "dictators" like President Wilson, Lloyd George, and Kerensky in preaching freedom to other nations and how the German politician does the enemy's work in catching the ball thus thrown to him."

Austria's reply to Pope Benedict's peace proposals, says the Wiener Allgemeine Zeitung, will be handed to the Papal Nuncio at Vienna on Thursday and will be published on Saturday. The reply, it is stated, will confine itself to a detailed discussion of the Pope's suggestions. The report that it will contain new and astonishing peace proposals, the Vienna newspaper says, is absolutely at variance with the facts.

Pan-Germans Fear New Concessions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 18, (via London, Sept. 19.)—Reported decisions by the German Government in reference to war aims and peace policy in general, and Belgium in particular, continue to be much discussed in the German press.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung lathers the assertion that in response to the English peace inquiry, "about which there can be no doubt," the German Government is reported to have renounced supremacy over and any actual control regarding the territory and population of Belgium. Another Pan-German organ, the Deutsche Zeitung, states that in reply to the English question the German Government answered that it was not interested in Belgium.

Other journals contradict each other over the matter. The Cologne Gazette, referring to the recent speech by Erzberger to his constituents, says:

"His words are corroborative of statements that the answer to the Pope by the German Government has been indorsed by the Reichstag Advisory Committee as representing the majority parties. Centrists, Progressives, and Socialists—and probably also the National Liberals—while Conservative objection to it has found utterance in an irritated display of temper against the Chancellor, who is reproached with having gone back on his great and satisfactory promise not to let the reins of Government fall from his hands."

The Weser Zeitung today publishes a telegram from its Berlin correspondent reporting that no official denial has been made regarding the rumors, and adding that he has good reason to be-

American Help Is Sought In Tightening Blockade

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Lord Robert Cecil, British Minister of Blockade, and Albert Metin, Under Secretary of the French Foreign Office in charge of blockade questions, had a conference here yesterday with the object of gaining closer co-operation from the United States in a policy which aims at exercising more rigid pressure on the enemy.

This policy will be carried out without interference with the economic condition of neutral countries.

PUBLICITY EXCITES TAX CONFEREES

HOLD THEIR OWN SESSION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—For a time today it looked as if the conferees on the $2,406,760,000 War Revenue bill were hopelessly deadlocked. Angered over publicity given the tentative agreement reached yesterday on second-class postage and other features in dispute, the House conferees, insisting that there was a "leak" somewhere in the secrecy agreement, bolted the conference early in the morning and went into an executive session of their own.

The break, which lasted four hours, during which time the House conferees met in a room on the House side and the Senate conferees in their Finance Committee room, came to an end late in the afternoon, when the House men went back to the Senate side and renewed deliberations. Late tonight Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, plainly wearied over the long fight, said he believed the conferees would reach a definite understanding by Friday night.

The split, so far as could be learned, came entirely upon the proposal to put the zone system of second-class tax upon publishers back into the bill, with a compromise between the original House schedule and the McKellar substitute, which was struck from the bill in the Senate after having once been accepted by that body. The House conferees voted with the Senators yesterday to reinstate the zone system, and everything seemed settled, excepting as to the precise rates to be fixed.

Exclusion as Penalty.

When the House conferees went into conference in the morning some of them expressed impatience that the newspapers had been able to ascertain what had happened and instructions were made as to some one divulging conference secrets. The Senators indignantly denied having broken the secrecy agreement. One or two Representatives expressed disgust with the whole outcome of the conference. The resolutions pledging secrecy, solemnly adopted at the outset of the conferences, have been strengthened so that any conferee who gives out information regarding the deliberations now is subject to exclusion from further conferences.

A sharp discussion ensued over the second-class zone system, lasting half an hour. During the debate, Senators who had yielded ground and voted yesterday to impose the zone tax declared that, in view of the attitude taken by the Representatives, they felt disposed now to hold out for entire elimination of the publishers' tax, as voted by the Senate. They explained that they had yielded to the Representatives in the interest of smoothing out the differences and that the attitude of the Representatives seemed to indicate that this effort had been in vain.

At this point the House conferees left the scene en masse to decide what to do. When they returned the second-class postage tax was again taken up. Late tonight it was reported that the tentative agreement reached yesterday, with a half-way compromise between the original House scheme and the McKellar substitute, might stand, but this could not be taken as assured.

The conferees also debated again today the tentative agreement reached early in the week on the war profits tax, by which the Senate schedule of graduated tax would be retained based upon the 8 per cent. exemption embraced in the original House measure.

Assailed as Unworkable.

An expert, called before the committee at the request of Senate leaders, assailed both the Senate and House proposals as unworkable in their present form and suggested material changes, including creation of a board of adjusters to see that fair play was given to all persons and corporations and the authorization of payments of the tax on an installment plan.

Publication of the fact that a tentative agreement had been reached to throw the motor car tax back on the manufacturers, as originally proposed by the House, brought a flood of personal and telegraphic protests to the Capitol. Hope was being held out tonight to motor manufacturers that nothing definite had been done about the automobile tax rate, although a majority of the conferees are understood to be determined that the tax shall be assessed on the manufacturer and not the purchaser.

Representatives of jewelry and other interests, stirred by publication of reimposition of tax rates affecting them, reached here in numbers today, and were heard by individual conferees, while other members of both houses were deluged with telegrams from business interests in their home States protesting against the rates.

While the conferees expect to reach a definite agreement on the measure this week, it was said tonight that if they found it impossible to agree upon the

NEW PIERS TIED UP IN SHIPPING STRIKE; 6,500 MEN NOW OUT

WAR ACTIVITIES HAMPERED

NO COMPROMISE OFFERED

Three thousand more longshoremen quit work yesterday at the American, Anchor, French, and Italian Line piers on the North River, and the Ward Line piers on the East River, making a total of 6,500 shiploaders on strike in New York harbor because the International Mercantile Marine Company refused to discharge Frank Larbardo, a foreman, on the demand of the union.

The men employed by the Ward Line have taken advantage of the Larbardo incident to include a demand for an advance in wages, but the remainder of the strikers, including the 500 employed by the Holland-America Line in Hoboken, say they have quit work solely on account of Larbardo. They are all willing to go back immediately if Larbardo is discharged.

The strike has already interfered with the dispatch of transports, supply ships, and mail steamships for England and France, and officers of the Quartermaster's Department said yesterday that the Longshoremen's Union had threatened to call out the men loading Government vessels at Hoboken today if the Mercantile Marine Company stands by Larbardo.

"If they go to this extreme," a senior officer said, "it may force the President to ask Congress to conscript men so that the Government will be able to control the labor in shipyards and on docks as well, as the crews of transports and storeships are also giving a good deal of trouble. Then the longshoremen, instead of receiving from 45 to 95 cents an hour, will get $30 a month with quarters and rations as enlisted men, and will have the choice of working on piers or going to the trenches. Going off the pier for drinks during working hours against the orders of an officer will mean five days of more in the guard house.

"The question of suspending the licenses of the saloons near the Chelsea piers which are selling liquor to the longshoremen and thus delaying the departure of Government vessels is under consideration," the officer said.

P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, which owns the White Star, Atlantic Transport, and American Lines, whose vessels are now idle because of the strike, said yesterday that the company had decided to support Labardo.

"The International Mercantile Marine Company," Mr. Franklin said, "was the first steamship corporation in New York to recognize the International Longshoremen's Association and the first to make a contract with it. When men have been injured on piers or steamships the company has made a weekly sick allowance, and in case of death has given a bonus to the widow or relatives.

"There was no obligation on the company's part, as the courts decided some time ago that longshoremen were not covered by the Workmen's Compensation act, as they came under the head of maritime workers. When the dispute occurred some weeks ago over the dismissal of two men by Foreman Larbardo for disobeying orders in leaving the pier, which was followed by the longshoremen striking on Pier 60, the leaders of the union agreed to arbitrate the matter. We agreed to lay the foreman off, and if the men won the case he was to be dismissed, and if the company won he was to be retained in his position on Pier 60, and the longshoremen were to go back to work. Two arbitrators were selected and we had to get another one to form the court of arbitration and wrote to the officials of the International Longshoremen's Association to that effect. In reply, to our great surprise, the leaders said that the men absolutely refused to go on with the arbitration, and that Larbardo must be dismissed.

"In view of the unjustifiable and unwarranted manner in which the longshoremen have violated their contract with the company in which they agreed to arbitrate all matters that might arise regarding wages and work, and have broken their agreement in this case, we decided to reinstate the foreman as he had done nothing more than his duty."

Mr. Franklin and other officials of the International Mercantile Marine Company held conferences at 9 Broadway yesterday, and also saw T. V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, who arrived from Buffalo yesterday to take charge of the strike. No compromise was offered on either side. The companies have made no move toward bringing strikebreakers to the piers.

John F. Riley, President of the District Council of the International Longshoremen's Association, said late yesterday that a meeting had been held at headquarters, 164 Eleventh Avenue, at 2 o'clock, which lasted for four hours. "During that time," he said, "we argued the question of the strike from every possible angle. There were about 800 men inside the hall and 3,000 more outside, who could not get in. When the vote was put as to whether we should agree to arbitrate the dispute over Frank Larbardo the men voted enthusiastically against it and flatly declined arbitration in this case. Apart from this matter we have no cause for complaint against the International Mercantile Marine Company. It has paid the men when they were away through sickness and compensated the families when longshoremen were killed, while other lines have not given a cent because the Workmen's Compensation act does not protect longshoremen. We stand firm for our rights in this matter and if the company refuses our demands for the dismissal of Larbardo we Carries Queens Also While Bennett Gets the Other Three.

MANHATTAN FOR MITCHEL

KINGS GAVE HIM A BIG VOTE

Returns from yesterday's primary election received up to 2:30 o'clock this morning indicate that Mayor Mitchel has defeated William M. Bennett, his rival for the Republican Mayoralty nomination, by a majority of about 2,000 votes. Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, asserted that the Mayor's majority would be at least 3,000. Luther B. Little, Chairman of the Mitchel-Fusion Committee, declined to make any comment on the result. Governor Whitman early this morning also declined to make any statement.

According to the latest figures in 1,910 out of the 2,060 election districts in the city Mitchel had 82,803 votes and Bennett 81,074, a majority for Mitchel of 1,729 votes.

From the returns it would appear that Mayor Mitchel had carried Manhattan and Queens, and Mr. Bennett the Boroughs of Brooklyn, Bronx, and Richmond. Mayor Mitchel's majority in Manhattan was 8,534, with 131 election districts missing. Mr. Bennett's Brooklyn majority was 5,871, with 91 election districts still to be heard from out of a total of 779. The Mayor carried the Borough of Queens by 238, while Mr. Bennett's majority in the Bronx was 229. His majority in Richmond was 340. When these returns came in 40 election districts in Queens, 59 in the Bronx, and 17 in Richmond had not been heard from.

In the Borough of Brooklyn every Assembly district was carried by Mr. Bennett with the exception of the Eighteenth, in which F. J. H. Kracke, Commissioner of Plant and Structure, is leader, and the Twelfth district which is controlled by U. S. Senator William M. Calder.

The following table shows the vote in the five boroughs for the Mayoralty nomination:

Borough.	MITCHEL.	BENNETT.	EL.DIST. MISS'G.
Brooklyn	11,896	17,767	91
Queens	2,045	2,303	40
City total.	30,653	29,356	318

Mr. Bennett has announced that in the event of his defeat in the primaries he would withdraw from the Mayoralty race. This will leave Mayor Mitchel as the only opponent of Tammany's candidate, Judge John F. Hylan. There is still a Socialist and a Prohibition candidate in the field.

Surprise to All Parties.

The remarkable run made by Mr. Bennett, a man comparatively unknown in politics, and without the backing of the Republican organization in any one of the five boroughs, was a surprise to political leaders of all parties. On the eve of the primaries a letter was sent out by the Fusion forces signed by such prominent Republicans as Charles E. Hughes and Governor Whitman, urging all Republicans to support Mayor Mitchel. The letter was signed also by the leaders of the Republican organizations in all the five boroughs. Bennett made a lone fight after being excluded from many of the Republican organization clubhouses. He made his principal appeal that he was an enrolled Republican who had been active in party politics, while Mayor Mitchel was enrolled under the emblem of the opposition party.

The returns showed that Controller Prendergast and Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, his running mates, were making a good showing, each defeating his opponent.

The vote in Brooklyn showed that Mayor Mitchel was running at least 3,000 behind Bennett. The votes from 363 election districts in that borough out of a total of 779 gave the vote as Mitchel 9,589 and Bennett 13,924.

In the Bronx Mayor Mitchel, on returns received just before this edition went to press, ran 113 ahead of Mr. Bennett. Out of the 264 election districts in the borough 200 had been heard from at that time. The indications showed that Bennett was running slightly ahead of Mitchel. In Queens returns from 150 out of 180 election districts gave Bennett a majority of 206 votes. In Richmond the latest returns showed that Mr. Bennett was running two to one ahead of the Mayor.

Aside from the Mayoralty fight in the Republican primary the most interesting feature of yesterday's contest was the fight between Surveyor of the Port Thomas E. Rush and John V. McAvoy for the nomination for the Supreme Court in the Democratic primaries. Politicians were looking to this battle

MANY DRAFT MEN FAIL TO HEED CALL

Nearly One-fifth of Those Ordered to Camp from Manhattan Reported Absent.

NONE LISTED AS DESERTERS

Patriotic Demonstrations Mark Departure of Trainloads of Young Soldiers.

Nearly one-fifth of the selective draft men who were ordered to Camp Upton, from nine Manhattan districts, failed to report at their district headquarters yesterday morning and were subsequently reported by the board chairman as called but failing to respond. Reports received up to 10 o'clock last night from nine of the twelve Manhattan districts that sent men yesterday, showed seventy-seven missing from a total of 395, who were ordered to report for military duty at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. In some of these districts one of every four men called failed to report and in one district the number of absentees at the mobilization hour was seven more than one-fourth of the total. This district was the 96th, at 8 East Third Street, which reported twelve of the forty-one men missing when the special train on which the troops went to Camp Upton left Long Island City.

Only two of the thirteen Brooklyn districts, whose second quotas went to Camp Upton yesterday, had sent in their reports last night, these districts being the 24th and 28th. The 24th reported six absentees, and the 28th two men as missing and unaccounted for. There are still eleven Brooklyn districts to be heard from. The districts in Manhattan whose reports were not available last night were the 91st, 92d and 93d. If the average of the other districts is maintained in these three it will make the Manhattan total of absentees about 100 or not quite one in every five called.

Roger B. Wood, in charge of the selective draft law operations in New York City, was hopeful last night that a large number of the men who failed to appear yesterday would be able to give good excuses.

"None of these men are listed as deserters yet," said Mr. Wood, "and none will be until all the facts are in the possession of the Government. I know that in a few instances the men reported missing are out of town, one man when last heard from being in California. Several others are said to have joined the regular army or the National Guard since they were called for examination, and these men will, of course, be ordered to report at Camp Upton as soon as they are located. Enlistment in any other branch of the service after a man has been called by his board is absolutely null and void.

"While some of the board reports indicated that as many as one-fourth of their men were missing yesterday, this was not generally the case, and we have reason to hope that the districts still to be heard from will make a much better showing and reduce the average to much more pleasing proportions. Orders have been issued to have all the missing men sought out immediately, and as rapidly as they are located they will be sent to Camp Upton to take the places now filled by their alternates. In every case where a "red card" man failed to appear an alternate took his place so New York City's second contingent went to camp at the required strength."

All races and creeds are represented in the list of men who failed to report, among them being three Chinamen from the Ninety-fourth Exemption District. The list of men reported as having failed to appear by nine of the twelve Manhattan boards follows:

PLANNING FOR ARMY OF 2,300,000 MEN

NEW DRAFT MEN IN JANUARY

Ten Million Registrants Will Be Examined to Complete Man-Power Census.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. — Carrying $7,000,000,000, the War Deficiency bill is today in the Senate's hands, following its passage yesterday by the House without a dissenting vote. The Senate probably will act promptly after its Appropriations Committee reports.

The Committee today began hearings on the bill with Secretary Baker appearing as the first witness. He presented estimates for additional appropriations of $287,416,000, principally for ordnance and the engineering service.

"The submission of all these estimates," he said, "is made necessary in order to provide increased facilities for the manufacture, issue and storage of ordnance material; for equipment of an additional half million men in anticipation of a call for that number; for procuring additional rifles and an additional supply of small arms ammunition for machine guns, rifle and pistol target practice of an army of 2,800,000; for construction work with which the engineer corps is charged in France, and for equipment of special troops operating in the theatre of war in Eufope."

Mr. Baker explained to the committee the need of money as follows:

Ordnance service	$10,000,000
Ordnance stores and supplies	40,000,000
Ordnance stores—ammunition	33,750,000
Small arms, target practice	76,676,000
Rock Island Arsenal	500,000
Engineer operations in the field	86,000,000
Engineer equipment of troops	7,800,000

The Secretary said tonight that what he said before the committee regarding preparations for drafting eventually another contingent of 500,000 men had nothing to do with filling out the National Guard organizations. The Secretary explained that when the first call was fixed for 687,000 men, allowance was made in the computation for filling out the National Guard. The first call was intended to raise not only a national army force of 500,000 men, but also to make up what the regular army lacked of its authorized war strength of 300,000 men and also covered what the National Guard was short of 400,000 men.

It was intended, when 687,000 men were called, that as many of that number as might be needed to fill the gaps in the regular army and round out the guard would be obtained from this call. It is not necessary to take from the second 500,000 men to raise the first 687,000 men. The entire registration list would be exhausted if necessary to obtain these 687,000.

The draft law did not give the War Department power to raise a third national army force of 500,000 as such, but did give authority, after raising the first 500,000 and the second 500,000 and enough men to bring the regular army and National Guard to war strength, to raise such number of men as might be necessary, from time to time, to keep these forces at maximum war strength, which means that if casualties were heavy enough the Government could proceed until it exhausted the entire 10,000,000 man containing the necessary man to be sent into the projected reserve reservoirs for training.

to demonstrate the strength within party lines of the party leadership of Charles F. Murphy. Returns from the contest received at an early hour this morning covered 700 election districts out of 781 in Manhattan, and showed 5,796 votes for McAvoy, Murphy's candidate, to 1,699 votes for Rush.

In Brooklyn, Lewis H. Pounds, Fusion candidate for Borough President, defeated Robert R. Lawson two to one. Returns from seventy-six election districts at midnight give Pounds 1,573 and Lawson 563.

Mayor at the Theatre.

Comparatively, Bird S. Coler made as good a fight in Brooklyn against the McCooey candidate, Edward Riegelmann, for Borough President, as Bennett did against Mayor Mitchel. While the returns at a late hour showed that Coler was defeated, he ran well up against Riegelmann. Fifty election districts out of 779 gave Coler 776, to 973 for Riegelmann.

Unexpected strength developed against Borough President Maurice Connolly in Queens, who was a candidate for renomination in the Democratic primaries. His opponent, Martin Mager, practically unknown, ran Connolly a close race.

Mayor Mitchel and Mrs. Mitchel, accompanied by Corporation Counsel Lamar Hardy and Mrs. Hardy, spent the evening at the theatre. When he returned to his home at 258 Riverside Drive the Mayor said that he did not know what the results of the primaries indicated, and announced that he would have no statement to make.

Ex-Senator Bennett received the primary returns at his home, 294 Central Park West. When he learned at midnight that the returns from more than half of the city showed Mayor Mitchel leading by 1,000 votes, he said that he would make no statement until it was definitely known who had won the Republican nomination for Mayor. When Mr. Bennett was reminded that, even if he lost, he had made a much better fight than the Mitchel forces expected, he said:

"A very good fight won't do me any good. I have nothing to say until I am told that I have been nominated."

Tammany Hall remained open until midnight, but Charles F. Murphy did not put in an appearance, nor did Congressman Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany. A Tammany man who was at the wigwam said that telephone calls received at the hall had indicated an unusual interest among the voters regarding the outcome of the primaries of the opposition party, the Mitchel-Bennett contest.

The Early Vote Light.

Reports of the early voting from all parts of the city indicated that it was very light. In Assembly districts where the most interest was shown the average vote for an election district in the primaries of all parties was not more than twelve in the first hour after the polls opened. The average enrollment of votes for an election district is about 350.

On the Democratic side there was no contest for the Mayoralty nomination, so the chief interest was in the fight between John F. McAvoy and Surrogate of the Port Thomas E. Rush for a nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court. Mr. McAvoy was the Tammany candidate; Mr. Rush, though a Tammany district leader, was an anti-organization candidate. Even this contest, where the strength of Tammany was arrayed against the foe within its party lines, failed to bring out a crowd at the ballot boxes, except in the old Twenty-ninth, Surveyer Rush's own district.

On the Republican side the same apathy during the early hours of the voting was apparent, but the fact that in the Republican primaries the Mayoralty nomination was contested by Mayor Mitchel and former State Senator William M. Bennett. The party workers, however, declared that the late balloting would make up for this early apathy.

In the Republican territory on the upper west side, where both Mayor Mitchel and Mr. Bennett live, the contest did not bring out any vote to indicate a real live interest in the issue. Republican leaders explained this by saying that the victory of Mayor Mitchel in the Republican primaries in Manhattan was a foregone conclusion.

The east side of Harlem was one of the battlegrounds in the early voting, owing to the fight between Municipal Court Judge Leopold Prince for a renomination against William Sloyan, another Tammany candidate. An Aldermanic fight in the Thirteenth Aldermanic District was another factor contributing to a comparatively lively vote in the eastern section of Harlem. In Charles F. Murphy's district, the Twelfth, the vote was as light as anywhere else in the city during the early hours.

In Brooklyn, where the leaders had looked for a heavy vote, owing to a more lively interest in the Mayoralty fight in the Republican primaries and to fights for the Borough Presidency nomination both in the Democratic and Republican camp, the early vote did not come up to expectation. The principal fights in Brooklyn were between State Senator Robert R. Lawson and Lewis H. Pounds in the Republican primaries. On the Democratic side the fight was a three-cornered one, between Sheriff Edward Riegelmann, the regular organization candidate, former Borough President Bird S. Coler, and Frank J. Prial. The real contests in the Democratic primaries was between Sheriff Riegelmann and Mr. Coler.

All through the city the balloting was very quiet, and there was no arrest for illegal voting anywhere. When the polls closed at 9 o'clock last night the political workers estimated that approximately 30 per cent. of the enrolled voters in all parties had participated in the primary balloting.

Bennett Ran Well in Brooklyn.

The first returns from Brooklyn showed that Bennett had considerable strength in the borough. The first ten election districts out of 779 gave Bennett 222 and Mitchel 155. The same returns showed that Prendergast, while running behind Mitchel, was still ahead of the Bennett ticket, for he got 180 and Judson G. Wall 147.

The returns from the first ten election districts out of 781 in Manhattan showed that Mayor Mitchel's lead in his own borough more than offset Bennett's vote in Brooklyn. Mitchel got 134 and Bennett 55.

The early returns showed that Bennett was running ahead of Mitchel in Richmond. Ten election districts in that borough out of forty-eight gave Bennett 183, and Mitchel only 67.

The first ten election districts in Queens gave Bennett 123 and 114 for Mitchel. The same districts gave Prendergast 128 to 113 for Wall, Bennett's running mate for Controller, and 140 for Adamson, candidate for Aldermanic President on the Mitchel ticket, to 104 for Wilsey, candidate on the Bennett ticket.

The first Bronx report covered ten election districts, which gave Bennett 122 votes to 101 for Mitchel, and Prendergast 118 votes to 92 for Wall.

MITCHEL TO TALK TO WOMEN

Will Address Committee of One Hundred at Luncheon Today.

Mayor Mitchel will make his first speech as a Mayoralty candidate at a luncheon at the McAlpin Hotel today to be given by the Women's Committee, Miss Elisabeth Marbury of the committee said yesterday:

"At the luncheon we will try to impress upon the citizens of New York our belief that never in the history of our city has a municipal election held such vital issues. In this world crisis the defender of the Port of New York is the Mayor of the City of New York. Our municipal campaign this Fall has, therefore, national aspects of the first importance. We are in the campaign because we believe that war conditions make the maintenance of a stable and efficient government more than ever imperative."

Dr. Katharine B. Davis, Chairman of the Parole Commission, and Mrs. Frederick B. Nathan of the Consumers' League are also officers of the committee of 100. The luncheon is in charge of Mrs. William P. Earle, Chairman; Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Mrs. William Curtis Demorest, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman.

$70,000,000 MORE FOR ALLIES

$50,000,000 Advanced to Britain and $20,000,000 to France.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. — Loans of $50,000,000 to Great Britain and $20,000,000 to France were made by the Government today, bringing the total thus far advanced to the Allies up to $3,591,000,000.

POLICEMAN KILLED IN POLITICAL FEUD

FATAL AFFRAY NEAR POLLS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—This city is aroused by murder and riot in the Fifth Ward, known as the "Bloody Fifth." The murder, that of a policeman, by a man declared to be a gunman imported from Jersey City was the outcome of a bitter political fight between rival Republican factions for the control of the ward, which skirts the river front.

For weeks the battle has waged, culminating today when the primary election was held for the naming of candidates. James A. Carey, holding a rather prominent city office, and Isaac Deutsch were the opponents for the nomination for Select Councilman from the ward on the Republican ticket. Early in the day, Carey, while making the rounds of the ward, was attacked by a man alleged to be Jacob Mascia of Jersey City. He was struck from behind with a sandbag and then black-jacked.

At the same time J. H. Maurer, an Assistant District Attorney, was attacked. Policeman George A. Eppley of the Vice Squad went to their rescue, and, it is alleged, Mascia placed a revolver against his abdomen and fired. Eppley died later in a hospital. On his deathbed he identified Mascia as his assailant.

Mascia was arrested, and along with him John Costello, also of Jersey City. The police questioned them for an hour and later announced that both men had confessed they were hired in New York or Jersey City with nineteen others and brought here yesterday to vote.

"We were brought here by a man known as 'Little Neck' to vote in the Fifth Ward," Costello's statement, which is in writing, declares. "We were to vote for Deutsch. We were taken to a club in Pine Street, between Fourth and Fifth. There we were met by a man wearing eyeglasses, who told us to walk around the town, and we were to meet him later at Sixth and Delancey Streets, where we were to vote. I was arrested as I walked up the street. When I was arrested I heard a shot, but I don't see who fired it."

Mascia is charged with murder and Costello with being an accessory. Mascia denied that he did the shooting, but witnesses say he is the guilty man. Each prisoner wore a small piece of white ribbon in the second buttonhole of his vest, which the police say was used as a mark of identification. It is said the other men brought to the city with Mascia and Costello were similar ribbons. A loaded revolver, with two exploded shells, was found on Mascia, while Costello carried a blackjack. Mascia, according to the police, was under the influence of drug.

The rioting began last night, when about thirty thugs attacked the Finletter Club, the Republican organization headquarters in the Fifth ward, and shot up the place. Six men were sent to the hospital. Carey's friends declare this was a prearranged affair organized by the opposition for purposes of intimidation.

Afterward Isadore Stern, a member of the State Legislature, telephoned to Mayor Smith of this city, who was at his Atlantic City cottage, informing him of what he described as the outrage permitted by the police, who, he charged, were aiding the Deutsch faction, and urging him to come to Philadelphia at once and put an end to the participation of the police in the contest. Mr Stern also informed the Mayor, he says, of the bringing of gunmen from New York into the Fifth Ward. He reiterated the charge today after the murder.

SAYS ENGLAND NEARS END OF TEA SUPPLY

Arthur J. Lindley, a London banker, who arrived in New York yesterday from England, said there was only six weeks' supply of tea in the country when he left, and it was expected that tea cards would be issued in January in additions to the sugar cards. The shortage of tea was due, Mr. Lindley continued, to the action of the Government in the early days of the war in allowing thousands of tons of tea to be exported to Germany via Denmark. Many of the merchants in Mincing Lane, London, protested against the tea being taken from the bonded warehouses and shipped out of the country in such large quantities, but their objections were overruled.

The Government officials, said Mr. Lindley, thought it would be a good idea to sell the tea to Germany and thus help drain the country of its hoard of gold. France had the same idea apparently and allowed Germany to get shiploads of wine through Copenhagen. Both England and France were paid by Germany in securities, no gold being sent.

NEW APPEAL FOR DRAFT MEN

Governors May Request Local Boards to Reopen Dependency Cases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Men summoned for service under the draft, and who have been denied discharge by local or district boards because of dependents, have still a means of appeal where they can show there has been error or misapplication of the law in their cases. On such a showing Governors of States, to whom appeal may be taken, are authorized to request local boards to reopen cases.

There is no appeal to the President, however, except where exemption has been sought on the ground of industrial employment, and denied by the district board. The rulings communicated last night to State officials make this clear in the following language:

"The only cases in which there is a right of appeal to the President are cases of claims for exemption or discharge based upon engagement in industry or agriculture. Further than this it is impossible to go.

"If any of the millions of individual cases within the original jurisdiction of local boards are to be considered in Washington, then all ought to be open to consideration here. This is manifestly impossible. Therefore administrative authority will not address itself to particular cases in the jurisdiction of local boards.

"The President has directed the War Department not to decline to discuss cases pending before local or district boards or entertain any communication, suggestions, or statements concerning them.

"It is the intention now to proceed with the examination of every man registered in the recent draft. The War Department has been sounding the views of Governors and in a few days orders will be issued to continue the examinations until the entire registration list of about 10,000,000 men has been scanned.

This examination will proceed leisurely, and the call for the second 500,000 men will come, it is believed, about the first week in April, by which time enough men will have been examined in advance for every man, whose number was drawn in the lottery, to know whether he will or will not be subject to mobilization under the second call to the colors.

This examination of every man on the registration list will enable every man, not examined for the first 687,000, to ascertain whether he can pass the physical examination. It will also enable the Government to take complete stock of its man power and ascertain whether it can raise its force of 2,300,000 men (regulars, guardsmen, and drafted men) out of the 10,000,000 young men who are registered.

CARD INDEX DRAFTED MEN.

Authorities Will Learn What Work Each Is Best Fitted For.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Under the direction of Brig. Gen. Henry P. McCain, the Adjutant General of the Army, the War Department is making what it regards as a comprehensive occupational and educational census of the men drafted for service in the new national army. The object is declared officially to be to carry the selective service law to its "logical conclusion" and to increase the efficiency of the army by putting the right man in the right place.

With this in view, a personnel organization has been established in each of the sixteen cantonments. The previous occupation, education, and preference for service of every man are recorded on individual cards, which are filed and analyzed at the divisional personnel office in each cantonment. An analysis as to the entire 687,000 men of the first increment can readily be made from these records.

In this work the War Department is having the assistance of a body of civilian experts organized as the "Committee on Classification of Personnel in the Army" and including a number of professional employment managers loaned to the Government by large industrial and other concerns. The data collected will be used within the divisional organizations to assist division commanders in making the best possible assignment of their men. It will also be of importance in locating men fitted for special branches of the service, such as aviation, the Ordnance Corps, and other arms for which it may be necessary to assign men from the cantonments.

MEASLES ATTACK THE 165TH

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP MILLS, HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Sept. 19.—The first illness among the men of the 165th Regiment was reported yesterday when Privates Lawrence Murray, Company G, and Thomas McGarney, Company I, were away from roll call because of measles. They and their tent companions are in quarantine. The first case of measles was brought to camp by the Alabama Infantry and about thirty cases are under treatment. The two cases in the 165th are attributed to contagion from that source, possibly due to a few of the Alabama men breaking out of their quarantine quarters some days ago, when they tried to "rush" the sentries of the 165th and get away from camp.

At the invitation of the managers of the Queens-Nassau Agricultural Society, at Mineola, which will open next Tuesday and continue to Saturday, Major Gen. W. A. Mann, commander of the Forty-second Division, has granted permission for 400 of the soldiers to drill on the fair grounds daily, between 3 and 4 o'clock. Other details will join these men and take part in a parade and review at the grounds.

Members of the Victory Hose Company of Hempstead had 150 members of the Military Police as guests tonight at a clam chowder supper, a testimonial from the volunteer firemen in recognition of the excellent work done by the police in maintaining order within the township.

Two members of the 165th Regiment were married at the camp today. The ceremonies were performed by the Rev. Father Francis J. Duffy, the Chaplain.

SUPPLIED OIL TO U-BOATS?

American Schooner Seized on Suspicion at a Gulf Port.

A GULF PORT, Sept. 19.—Seizure of the American schooner Goldfields near this port and the arrest of its crew on charges of aiding the enemy was made by agents of the Federal Government today. All arrested men, with the exception of the skipper, are said to be Spaniards, and according to reports the vessel was suspected of supplying oil to German submarines, while en route here from a Southern European port.

The Goldfields ran aground off this port late last week. She was towed into this harbor Sunday, when Federal agents learned of her presence.

YAPHANK GREETS NEW ARMY RECRUITS

VETERANS GIVE WELCOME

Soldiers of First Quota Meet Those Who Came Ten Days Behind —Hike for Recreation.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Sept. 19.—The first quota of the second increment of recruits for the Seventy-seventh Division arrived this noon on schedule time. There was a noticeable difference between the men who reported today and the recruits of last week. The first increment jumped off the trains singing, waving flags, and bearing inscriptions with dire prophecy as to the fate of the Kaiser once the Seventy-seventh Division arrived in France. This holiday spirit was absent among today's recruits. They were more businesslike. There were flags in plenty, but instead of boasting today's recruits showed a grim determination to see the thing through.

At least a third of the men were not from the city but from Long Island towns and districts from the east shore of the Hudson. They were a sturdy lot, who were looked upon with approval by officers meeting the trains. Two men from the Cherry Hill district of Brooklyn fell off the train locked in one another's arms intent upon a little war of their own. The young Plattsburg Lieutenant in charge of this district rose to the emergency, without undue force parted the combatants alone and placed them under guard of four other recruits. Although this was the first time the young officer had ever been placed in charge of men, his quick but dignified action was an indication of the new officers detailed to the national army.

Today's recruits arrived in three special trains and were marched immediately to their barracks. A large number of last week's increment were at the station in their new uniforms. The remainder of the afternoon was spent at the barracks, where the recruits expressed preferences for the branch of the service they wished to enter. Tomorrow the men will be examined by physicians and assigned to regiments the day after. The staff of doctors at the camp hospital has been increased, making it possible to examine 2,000 men a day. Tomorrow the second quota of the second increment will report and will be temporarily quartered.

Since the Camp Upton Station is not on the visiting list of most of the trains on the main line of the Long Island Railroad, a special train schedule has been arranged for the convenience of soldiers at the camp. It will now be possible for men with leave to reach New York after the theatre, returning to the camp late at night. A special train will be run from the Camp Upton Station daily at 5:32 P. M., reaching the Pennsylvania Station at 7:32. A train will leave the Pennsylvania Station and the Brooklyn station at 11:45 P. M., arriving at the camp at 1:45 A. M. On Saturdays a special train will leave the camp at 1:30 P. M., arriving at New York at 3:26, although the regular round-trip fare between Camp Upton and New York is $3.81, men in uniform will pay 60 cents to New York and return. Special rates for visitors are arranged at $2.50 for the round trip.

The civilian employes of the Constructing Quartermaster's office gave an entertainment last night, at which Major General Bell and his chief of staff, Lieut. Col. E. E. Booth, were guests. General Bell, in an address to the men, said:

"I have seen you at work here, but I never knew who you were. I want to commend you for the work you have been doing here. It is no mean thing to come into practically a virgin forest and carve out a home for 45,000 people. Many of you men have spent large sums of money for your education, and I appreciate that at this critical time you are not holding the Government up. I believe that the average American citizen would not do such a thing in a crisis like this. Again I want to commend you for your efficient and honest service."

POUR IN ON CAMP DIX.

National Army Men of New Jersey and Delaware Respond.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Sept. 19.—The second contingent of the young Americans drafted from New Jersey and Delaware for the national army training camp arrived here today. The week-end will see approximately 9,000 rookies from these States assembled here, and about one-third of this number got in today. With an auto escort of hundreds of cars that stretched out in a five-mile procession over country roads Burlington County brought its second contribution to the army of democracy to the camp this afternoon.

Led by a little Boy Scout with a big American flag and with their bands and drum corps playing the liveliest of airs, the county's unit marched to their headquarters, a mile and a half inside the lines. Hundreds of citizens, including G. A. R. veterans, left their cars to march with them.

Official confirmation of rumored plans for enlarging Camp Dix came this afternoon from the office of Major Skinner, Camp Construction Quartermaster. A 40 per cent. increase in the size and number of the "kultur coffins," as the Nationals are calling their barracks, is contemplated. Organization of companies increased from the old war strength of 150 to the French system of 250 men makes the enlargement necessary.

All the afternoon and until late this evening the long lines of recruits filled the roads leading from the railroad station to the centre of the camp, where they were diverted either to the 311th or 312th Infantry or the 308th Field Artillery. Two special trains brought in several hundred men from the Passaic districts and North Jersey counties. As rapidly as their officers could handle them they were distributed to the regimental hospitals for a preliminary examination and then taken to the barracks.

The number of men who left for Camp Upton from twenty-five New York districts yeaterday was 1,036, of whom 507 were from districts south of Fourth Street in Manhattan and the rest from districts in Brooklyn. The Manhattan soldiers who left from Long Island City at 11:22 A. M., were accompanied by 20 per cent of the quotas of the Yonkers, Mount Vernon, Mamaroneck, and other Westchester County districts. Parents of those they were joined by the men from Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

The first Manhattan man to arrive at the East Thirty-fourth Street Ferry ready for duty was Solomon Lif of 226 Henry Street, who was the quota from District 93. Lif got permission to report at the ferry, and accompanied by his family, arrived there in an automobile shortly after 8 o'clock. From the back of his machine a banner waved on which appeared the words, "First off to Yaphank, Sept. 19, 1917." A few minutes after Lif arrived the rest of the men from his district appeared on a big motorbus. They had a banner on which was inscribed:

Practically all of the boards sent their quotas to the ferry in automobiles, and every board had a banner of its own, in addition to several big American flags. In every instance the drafted men were accompanied by the members of the district boards. The men from Board 100, which is one of the Greenwich Village districts, came to the station headed by the Boy Scouts' Brass Band, and carried a banner which read: "Old Greenwich Village all the way to France and to Germany."

About 5,000 relatives and friends of the men journeyed to Long Island City to join in the demonstration that preceded the departure of the special trains for Camp Upton. At least two-thirds of the crowd were women and girls. Some of the women kin of the drafted men broke down at the last moment, but for the most part everybody joined in the farewells, which were joyous rather than sad. All the soldiers were happy, and from the moment they arrived at the station until the special departed for Camp Upton it was one cheer after another for the United States and victory.

Among the happiest of the men from District 94 were Lee Pon, Tom Sun, and Gam Tun, all American-born Chinamen. Each man from Board 99 wore a white rose in the lapel of his coat and a brassard on his arm, on which was printed the district number and the letters "N. A."

As the second and last of the special trains left for Camp Upton the Boy Scouts' Band played the "Star-Spangled Banner," and every man in the station bared his head. Similar scenes marked the departure of the Brooklyn units from the Flatbush Avenue Station of the Long Island Railroad.

The second contingent of men from twenty-nine Manhattan and thirteen Brooklyn districts will leave for Camp Upton this morning. One-half of the Manhattan contingent will go from the Pennsylvania Station and the other half from Long Island City. The Brooklyn units will entrain at the Flatbush Avenue Station. The Manhattan units will total 1,144 men and the Brooklyn contingent 383 men.

The districts affected by today's call, with the number of men ordered to the colors from each and the place and hour of entraining, are:

The third New York contingents will be tomorrow morning and the fourth and fifth contingents on Saturday and Sunday. The third call for New York men will be issued the first of next week and will affect about 10,000 men.

Adjutant General Charles H. Sherrill returned from the convention of the Chambers of Commerce of the United States at Atlantic City last night and was asked by a newspaper man if he cared to discuss the fact that one hundred men had failed to report for transportation to camp.

"Why, there were not twenty slackers for the whole State of New York in the first quota as the official records show," declared General Sherrill. "This is a record which the State of New York is justly proud of. I am confident from what I learn here since my arrival tonight, that most of the one hundred men either missed their trains or were otherwise unavoidably delayed.

"In the first five per cent. contingent, for instance, when at first there were reported thirty-seven delinquents in New York City, we found that there were only six. I think the proportion will be smaller in relation to the hundred men recorded as absent today. I think you will find that about all of them will be ready and that their excuses for not being at the station today will be found to be reasonable.

"I do not think we should too severely criticise these absentees now. How many people do you suppose miss trains in the Grand Central station every day?"

ASKS NEW EXEMPTION LAW.

Two Brothers in One Family Enough, Board Says.

The District Board for New York City, of which Charles E. Hughes is the Chairman, memorialized the Government in Washington yesterday, recommending a law or regulation which will make it possible to grant exemption to men who are members of families in which two or more brothers are already in the army or navy. The recommendation was drawn up by Edgar M. Cullen, George W. Wickersham, W. W. Mills, and Herman T. Radin, all of whom are members of the District Board. It reads:

"The board has had its attention directed on several occasions to an apparent defect in the selective draft law or the regulations under it, whereby any number of sons in one family who may be within the draft age, if called for examination and passed, must be accepted for service unless it can be shown that one or more of them is the sole support of a dependent parent or other near relative, or other ground for exemption or discharge exists as specified in the law and regulations.

"In the opinion of the board, the existing emergency does not require that more than two sons of one family should be called for military service, even in the absence of pecuniary dependency of a parent or other relative. The board, therefore, respectfully calls the attention of the Government to this subject and respectfully urges enactment of such law or the adoption of such regulation as will discharge from liability to service under existing conditions any man within the draft age who already has two or more brothers in the military or naval service of the United States.

"Resolved, That a copy of this minute be transmitted to the Secretary of War and the Provost Marshal General of the United States Army."

The number of appeals which have been decided by the District Board is now nearing the 10,000 mark.

PLANS CAMP NEWSPAPERS.

Y. M. C. A. Council, with Publishers' Aid, Will Get Out Weeklies.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Plans for publication of a soldiers' weekly newspaper in every national army and National Guard camp beginning with the week of Sept. 30, under the auspices of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., were announced here today by John Stewart Bryan, publisher of The Richmond News-Leader, who arranged details of co-operation among many other publishers.

Among contributors will be Colonel Roosevelt and many of the best-known newspaper workers and cartoonists. President Wilson has indorsed the plan. The general management of the papers will be under the personal direction of Mr. Bryan, and the co-operating publishers will compose a supervising board.

"It seemed hardly probable at first that so large an undertaking could be carried out," said Mr. Bryan today, "and it probably would not have been but for the assistance of H. O. Adler of The Chattanooga Times, who suggested that if the papers carried no advertising and were not sold there were no reasons why local publishers would not co-operate to the fullest measure.

"The plan was thereupon worked out by which the Y. M. C. A. could furnish 4,000 papers to each of the cantonments; four of these pages to be supplied from the New York office to the co-operating publishers, and the other four pages of camp news to be set up, and all the press work done by the local newspapers."

Mr. Bryan said that among the newspapers and publishers who had joined in the undertaking were: The Birmingham News, under the direction of Messrs. Glass and Hanson; The Montgomery Advertiser, with C. H. Allen; Clark Howell of The Atlanta Constitution; the Messrs. Anderson, Macon Telegraph; Bowdre Phinizy, Augusta Herald; F. C. Withers, Columbia State; W. B. Sullivan, Charlotte Observer; Bruce Haldeman, Louisville Courier-Journal; James M. Thomson, New Orleans Item; D. D. Moore, New Orleans Times-Picayune; Frank B. Noyes, Washington Star; Don C. Seitz, New York World; Charles H. Taylor, Jr., Boston Globe; James Kearny, Trenton Times; Frank P. McLellan, Topeka State Journal; Gardner Cowles, Des Moines Register; Victor F. Lawson, Chicago Daily News; Frank S. Baker, Tacoma Tribune; George J. Palmer, Houston Post; Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Colonel Charles S. Diehl, San Antonio Light, Elmer E. Clarke, Little Rock Democrat, and E. K. Gaylord, Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

GUNFIRE IS HEAVY ON WESTERN FRONT

Berlin Tells of Repulsing a Wide French Attack East of the Meuse, with Losses.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Very heavy artillery fire is in progress on the Ypres front in Flanders and in the region northeast of Verdun, but no serious infantry activities are indicated by either the British or French War Office reports today. Raids are being made at various points, and the Germans are being foiled in many attempted attacks.

The deadliness of the present campaigning on the western front, devoid though it is of large actions, is illustrated by the figures of British casualties for the week ending yesterday, which were announced today. They total 27,059, and include: Killed or died of wounds, 135 officers and 4,755 men; officers wounded or missing, 431; men wounded or missing, 21,848.

The official report from British Headquarters in France tonight reads:

Our airplanes on Tuesday continued to observe for our artillery in spite of most unfavorable weather conditions. One hostile machine was driven down out of control; two of ours are missing.

There is nothing to report except great artillery activity, which continues on both sides in the Ypres sector.

The day report reads:

The successful raid against the German positions in Inverness Copse, reported in last night's communiqué, was made by troops of the York and Lancaster regiments.

There was nothing of special interest to report.

The day report of the French War Office says:

There was marked activity by the artillery on both sides in the sector west of Froidmont Farm and toward Hurtebise.

An enemy surprise attack on our trenches northwest of Nancy was checked.

East of Craonne our fire broke down a German attack which was being prepared south of Juvincourt.

Northwest of Rheims in the region of Godat our detachments penetrated into the German trenches, destroyed material, and took prisoners.

On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) the artillery combat continued to be waged violently upon the Hautmont-Bezonveaux front. Owing to the energetic action of our batteries the enemy was not able to launch a single attack.

In the Woevre and in Lorraine our raids into the enemy's line northwest of Limey and in the direction of Bioncourt netted us prisoners.

In Upper Alsace there were encounters between patrols near Ammerzwiller.

The official communication issued by the French War Office tonight reads:

The Germans this morning attacked a salient of our lines west of the Froidmont Farm. After a short but violent engagement we ejected the enemy from a trench of the salient in which he had gained a foothold.

On our side we carried out a surprise attack in the region of Four de Paris and inflicted losses on the enemy, bringing back material.

The cannonade was intermittent on the rest of the front, but spirited and sustained in Champagne, in the regions of Souain and Teton.

The Belgian communication, issued at Havre, says:

"In the last two days our artillery has frequently shelled the enemy communications, particularly near Leke, Finadyck, Hoogiandeken, Pessen, Predikboom, Clercken, Gearrem, and Kruistratt, in reprisal for fires carried out at various points in the region of Ramscapelle, Oostkerke, and St. Jacques Capelle. There was bombing around Dixmude which ended to our advantage. Our airplanes have been engaged in pursuit and reconnoitring.

BERLIN, Sept. 19, (via London.)—Violent waves of artillery fire, which were directed with increasing intensity yesterday upon the German lines between Houthoist Wood and the Lys on the Flanders front, developed last evening and this morning into drumfire, Army Headquarters announced today. The Entente infantry, however, did not attack.

The statement reads:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht—In Flanders yesterday there was an increase in the artillery fire throughout the day between Houthoist Wood and the Lys. The destructive fire of the enemy batteries, which was visibly affected by our strong counterfire, was again directed in the most violent waves on our defense zone, and during the evening and this morning the enemy several times opened drumfire, which was not followed by infantry attacks.

Near Lens and St. Quentin there was lively fighting activity.

On the eastern bank of the Meuse the French, after short and powerful preparation, advanced to attack on a front of three kilometers west of the Beaumont-Vacherauville Road. The storming waves of the enemy, yielding quickly to our defensive fire, were followed by deeper serried reserves, who rushed forward and renewed the attack. This strong thrust also broke down under our fire and hand to hand fighting, and our artillery found especially good objectives in the retreating masses. The day again cost the French heavy losses without gaining them the slightest advantage.

Sixteen enemy airplanes were shot down yesterday.

The supplementary report this evening from General Headquarters reads:

The artillery battle in Flanders continues.

Otherwise there is nothing of importance to report.

Two Deaths in Pershing's Army.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The War Department today announced two deaths in the American expeditionary force in France, as follows:

Myron Bertman, Captain of Engineers, on Sept. 18, as the result of a tumor.

USE SAWDUST ON WOUNDS.

Rumanians in Urgent Need of Medical Supplies for Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Rumania is so short of medical supplis that wounds of her soldiers are being dressed with sawdust, says a cablegram received here today from the American Red Cross Commission to Rumania, which left for Jassy yesterday after being enthusiastically received at Petrograd.

"After conference with Rumanian Minister and parties just returned from Rumanian front," the cablegram reads, "find conditions there urgently require immediate supplies, medical, surgical instruments, hospital supplies, equipment of everything, including bandages, bed linens, and clothes for patients."

The cablegram adds that the Rumanian railroad system is badly crippled and that there is urgent need for ambulance transport, with drivers and mechanics.

The commission, which is headed by Henry Watkins Anderson, expects to reach Jassy Saturday.

SOLDIERS IN TRENCHES SING UNDER HOT FIRE

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENT'S HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 19.—The day, that is to say, a week or ten days ago, the Germans began to bombard a section of our trenches pretty heavily with 5.9s, which are big things making a horrible noise and a worse mess. In that part of the line there happened to be a battalion of Royal Fusiliers, who are mostly London men, and it must have surprised the enemy a good deal to hear through the din of the shellfire the sound of singing. It was a popular song called "These Hard Times," and it was roared out in a great chorus by men who knew they might be blown to bits between one verse and another.

Last night I heard some of the same men singing the same song. It was a big hall of sticks and canvas which holds 500 men, and is so designed that it can be removed and put up elsewhere in a couple of days. Five hundred men were there, packed tightly, and with all eyes fixed with fascination upon the little lighted stage, where there was a bit of comedy and song, which witched these men's souls away from war.

The fighting zone was not far away as gun range goes. When I came out of this soldiers' theatre the night sky was filled with the flashing of shells and with the white glare of signal lights going up along the lines. The men came out into the darkness, back of their billets and camps, whistling and humming the songs they had heard, and laughing still at the thought of the trick cyclist who rode his "bike" any old way with marvelous skill and fearful grimaces.

The tenor and baritone had done a duet from one of Verdi's opera's as well as one could hear it on the London stage. The men whistled with shrill siren blasts to show their appreciation of the high class "stuff," but of course it was laughter they liked most and they had their fill of it when a tall, droll-faced jock played the simpleton sublimely, and when a mimic Charlie Chaplin twirled his ridiculous hat.

"It takes organization," said the officer in charge of the entertainment, "but it's worth it a hundred times. We might have lost this war if it hadn't been for laughter. Imagine what it is for men just out of the trenches to see a show like this. It is fairyland to them. They just drink in the light and the music. Besides, it keeps up esprit de corps."

Unlike conditions in the early days, when men who craved for music had to fall back on combs and tissue paper, and a few old mouth organs, there are many bands in the field. I have seen them playing in the queerest places close to the battle line, where the crash of gun fire thundered above the big drums.

All this helps to keep human nature alive in the war, which otherwise might deaden the spirits of many men. In the men themselves there is a natural vitality which makes them recover very quickly from hammering under shell fire, and the heart of youth in them is so absolutely determined to live that not even the most frightful conditions will kill it or the sense of comedy which belongs to it as long as there is life itself.

ITALIANS KEEP FOE BUSY BY ATTACKS

ROME, Sept. 19.—The official report from Italian Headquarters today reads:

Yesterday in several sections of the Trentino front we caused the enemy alarm, inflicted losses on him, and damaged his defensive works by the activity of our reconnoitring parties and the concentration of our fire, in the direction of Carzano, in the Sugana Valley, one of our parties succeeded in going beyond the enemy lines, capturing about two hundred prisoners.

On the Bainsizza Plateau local enemy attacks were vigorously repulsed. On Sunday the enemy blew up a big mine in front of our positions on the line of Mount Cengio, Martini, Piccolo, and Lagazuoi. The vigilance and promptiness of the defenders frustrated the enemy's plans.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 18.—There is a pause in the fighting on the Bainsizza Plateau as far as attacks and counterattacks on a large scale are concerned.

Isolated assaults are still being conducted with the object of eliminating Austrian salients and straightening the Italian line, and these result in the capturing of fairly numerous batches of prisoners. Behind the immediate front, however, the bee-like activity of the Italians continues with that astonishing thoroughness and organization which has aroused the whole-hearted admiration of American and all other visitors to the battle area.

Roads are being constructed and cannon are being transported to make the plateau invulnerable and a favorable jumping-off place and for the consolidation of recent gains, which are still feverishly contested.

GIVES ENVOY FULL POWER.

Italy Appoints Ambassador Macchi di Cellere High Commissioner.

ROME, Tuesday, Sept. 18.—Count V. Macchi di Cellere, the Italian Ambassador at Washington, has been appointed High Commissioner of Italy for America.

The appointment indicates that the Italian Government has given up the idea of following the example of France and England in filling such a post by a separate appointment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—At the Italian Embassy it was said the appointment of the Ambassador as High Commissioner would facilitate negotiations now going on with American officials. Instead of having two Missions, one permanent and diplomatic, the other temporary and economic, with a separate head for each, all the Italian negotiations will be handled by the permanent Embassy.

While experts in different lines will be from time to time on the Embassy Staff, the governing head will be Count Macchi di Cellere.

LAUD ROOSEVELT'S WORDS.

Rumanians Strong for Austria-Hungary's Dismemberment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ODESSA, Sept. 18, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Colonel Roosevelt's latest speech has given intense satisfaction to the Rumanian people. I had an interview on the subject with Take Jonescu, who said:

"I have said and written many times that the only means of bringing about lasting peace and to prevent Germany from renewing her criminal attempts is to split up the present artificial State of Austria-Hungary. It is necessary to create a great Czech-Slovak State, with more than 12,000,000 inhabitants, not only as a measure of justice, but in order to preserve the peace of the world.

"There is no doubt that the noble and generous American nation, which seeks no advantage to itself, but only the triumph of justice and liberty, will not lay down its arms until the absurd feudal State of the Hapsburgs, of evil repute, is completely done away with. All who know the Hapsburgs, their abominable policy, and their unparalleled perfidy, as well as those who realise that after this war Austria will be nothing but an adjunct of Germany, agree with Colonel Roosevelt that the welfare of Europe and the world at large necessitates the dismemberment of Austria-Hungary.

"In my opinion, if the Allies permit even a smaller Austria to exist, they will commit an unpardonable mistake."

RUSSIAN CABINET SURE OF ITS GRIP

Sends Assurances to Wilson That War Will Be Pushed With All Resources.

PETROGRAD COUNCIL SPLIT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Hopes that the military and political pendulums are about to swing the right way again in Russia to the advantage of the nations allied against Germany were revived late this afternoon when it became known that Boris Bakhmeteff, the Russian Ambassador, had received from Petrograd assurances of the determination and ability of the Russian Government to win.

On the basis of his confidential instructions Ambassador Bakhmeteff will tomorrow deliver to Secretary of State Lansing oral assurances from the Petrograd Government voicing its firm determination to carry forward the war with all of Russia's resources and asserting its ability to overcome all obstacles, both internal and external, with the adoption of the strong measures planned, or already put in force. Among the obstacles enumerated are the activities and influences of the Bolsheviki in the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies and the weakened discipline in the army. The latter is being steadily remedied by the firm hand with which General Alexieff has taken hold of the military situation in succession to General Korniloff.

On Monday the Embassy, as stated in THE NEW YORK TIMES, was notified that the Russian forces on the Riga front, which had retreated out of a difficult position when the Germans captured Riga, had within the last week advanced seven miles over a wide front toward the city. A dispatch to the Embassy this morning said that the Russians had strongly intrenched themselves in their new positions, and were not only showing a splendid fighting spirit and fine morale, but were equal to any offensive the Germans might attempt should they try to resume their threatened advance from Riga, which was halted by Hindenburg's instructions.

A supplementary message received this afternoon stated that the army had resumed the offensive on the Riga front and had forced the Germans to evacuate several villages, which the Teutons destroyed as they fled.

This seeming ability of the Russians to hold their own, partly the result of vigorous steps taken to put the Russian army in better shape and partly the result of the withdrawal of some German units for use in reinforcing the Austrians, who are being hammered incessantly by the steady offensive of the Italian army. Both Germany and Austria fully realise the dangerous weakness of the Austrian lines along the Italian front where General Cadorna is now preparing to assault Monte San Daniele.

PETROGRAD COUNCIL NOW OUT OF CONTROL

Chiesde and Entire Executive Committee Resign, Leaving Extremists to Go Alone.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 19.—Following the ascendency of th Bosheveski element in the Petrograd Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, which at the plenary session on Saturday showed that it controlled the council by an overwhelming majority, the bureau or Executive Committee, has resigned in a body. Among those who tended in their resignations were President Chiesde, Vice Presidents Annismoff and Gots, and MM. Skobeleff, Tseretelli, and Chernoff.

Their action was based on the adoption of the Maximalist resolution demanding, among others things, that the governing power be assumed by the Council, that all representatives of the propertied classes be excluded from the Government and that private property be abolished.

With Premier Kerensky away at the front conferring with the army leaders, the Council yesterday turned its efforts toward completing plans for the democratic congress of 800 delegates to be held in the capitol on Sept. 25, when the social revolutionary elements are expected to muster their strength against the Conservatives.

Invitations to attend the congress were sent out to the representatives of all groups of workmen, soldiers, and peasants, but none was issued to the bourgeoisie or to former members of the Duma. The call for the congress expresses the desire to "organize a strong revolutionary power."

A dispatch from Odessa declares the Maximalists in the army groups there strongly oppose the order issued by Premier Kerensky forbidding politics in the Army. Their Executive Council demands the abolition of the death penalty.

Announcement is made by Foreign Minister Tereschenko that all the soldiers participating in the recent massacre of officers on board the Russian battleship Petropaviovsk at Helsingfors have been arrested.

The Government has abolished the post of Military Governor of Petrograd and re-established the office of commander of the troops of the Petrograd district. Colonel Polkovnikoff has been appointed commander, with powers to settle questions relating to the food supply and transport.

It is expected that the Cossack incident shortly will be closed in a satisfactory manner, says the Russian official news agency. Cossack officers have submitted to the Provisional Government a petition requesting that the order for the arrest of General Kaledines, the Cossack leader, be countermanded, alleging that the affair is entirely the work of political agents. A delegation of loyalists from Moscow has gone to the Cossack headquarters to make an investigation on the spot.

A Cossack Council met yesterday amid great excitement at Novo Tcherkask, the capital of the territory of the Don Cossacks, to discuss the order to arrest General Kaledines. Three hundred deputies attended the meeting, which was led by Under Hetman Bogasensky, who read a communication from General Kaledines.

The Cassak leader, according to Bogasensky, was suspected of organizing a revolution when he was only traveling through the territory trying to increase the bread supply. General Kaledines learned of the order for his arrest and voluntarily went to the station of Oblitzkaja with a guard of only 100 Cossacks and waited there for two hours vainly for the Government Commissioner to arrest him.

Bogasensky said the Cossack leaders were trying to restrain the passions of their men, and then added: "But if General Kaledines be summoned to trial I'll follow him."

General Korailoff, it has been decided definitely, will be tried by court-martial with a jury. At the instance of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates the Government has agreed that the trial shall be held at the front instead of in Petrograd.

LEADERS' FAITH IN FUTURE.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 18, (via London, Sept. 19.)—Watching events here and judging them only at their surface value, one might easily become cynical. The faults of the old régime are mingled with the faults of the new one. Principles of right and wrong are subordinated to the interests of parties and cliques, and the result is chaotic and demoralising.

The revolution is a fierce and cruel test of character and capacity. Reputations are made and lost in a month. Individuals and groups are tried in the furnace and found wanting and are mercilessly flung on the slag heap.

All this does not mean that the revolution has failed. It means that certain narrow and subjective conceptions of the revolution are inadequate; that the revolution is not at an end, but beginning; that Russia, once set free, is only slowly and with very great difficulty finding herself.

Russia is very much bigger than is indicated by all the formulas offered in explanation of her caprices, and the process by which she is finding herself is broader and deeper than any of us can quite understand. She can and will survive convulsions that would wreck States more compact and more highly organized.

It can hardly be said that the men on top are guiding Russia except in a very limited sense. They are rather guided by an inevitable and inexorable course of events. For the nation's allies and friends, faith in Russia is not so much faith in particular persons and parties as in that larger process which, with all its suffering and tragedy, is tending toward final liberation.

Theoretically the formation of a complete government is left until the conference summoned for next Monday; but in the days pass the prospects of this conference having any decisive influence steadily lessen. The Government has given orders that all revolutionary committees with their amateur police and detectives who were last week set in operation to combat the counter-revolutionary movement, should now cease work and surrender their functions to the normal organs of justice.

FINLAND GOVERNOR QUITS.

Former Minister Nekrasoff Appointed to Succeed Stakovich.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 19.—Michael Stakovich, Governor General of Finland, has resigned. N. V. Nekrasoff, who has occupied a prominent place in several Cabinets since the revolution, has been named to succeed Stakovich.

The situation of the army officers in Helsingfors, the capital of Finland, has been critical since the Korniloff revolt, M. Stakovich said, but that was due to Russian, not Finnish influence.

State Secretary Incell of Finland says that the propaganda for the separation of Finland is not connected with the declaration of a republic in Russia, although they occurred simultaneously. He said that the watchword of the campaign for elections to the Landtag was "the independence of Finland."

RUMANIANS GAIN GROUND.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 18.—Rumanian forces yesterday attacked the Austro-German positions south of Grozechti, in the Ocna region, and occupied one of the heights there, says the official statement issued by the Russian War Department. The text of the announcement follows:

Western (Russian) Front—Apart from fusiliades of varying intensity on several sectors of the front there were no military operations.

Rumanian Front—In the Ocna region Rumanians attacked a section of the enemy positions south of Grozechti and occupied one of the heights. On the rest of this front there were fusiliades, more intense in the region north of Irechti and east of Gerlechti.

BERLIN, Sept. 19, (via London.)—The following bulletin was made public today by the War Office:

Eastern Theatre, Front of Prince Leopold—Near Dunaberg (Dvinsk) and in the bend around Lutsk, the firing activity of the Russians perceptibly increased.

Front of Archduke Joseph—The Rumanians directed strong attacks against our hill positions south of the Oituz Valley. The enemy, who at first succeeded in breaking in south of Grozechti, was thrown back by a powerful counterattack, and was repulsed elsewhere by our fire, sustaining sanguinary losses and losing numerous prisoners.

DUTCH CANNOT SELL SHIPS.

Government Permission Needed If Owners Wanted to Dispose of Them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 19, (Dispatch to The London Daily News.)—As far as the Netherlands owners are concerned, there is no truth in the report that they have declared themselves ready to sell to the United States their ships now lying in American harbors.

Under the Dutch shipping laws the permission of the Government is necessary before Dutch ships can be sold abroad.

The owners, who received cables from America sounding them as to their willingness to sell, have replied that the Government has not given any such permission.

GEN. KUHN SLATED TO SUCCEED SCOTT

WANTS TO BE AT THE FRONT

Suggested That He May Move Headquarters to France to be in Closer Touch with Pershing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Major Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, who has seen more actual modern warfare than any other man in the American Army, is to succeed Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott as Chief of the General Staff of the United States Army. General Scott will reach the retirement age of 64 years Saturday. Whether General Kuhn will take up the work of Chief of Staff as soon as General Scott retires or will wait until Major Gen. Tasker H. Bliss goes on the retired list on Dec. 31 is not definitely known, and Secretary Baker would not discuss the matter tonight.

Major Gen. Bliss was acting Chief of Staff during General Scott's absence in Russia on the Root mission. It has been intimated for some time that when General Scott is retired General Bliss will receive a chance to round out his career by acting as Chief of Staff until his retirement, and would then be succeeded by General Kuhn.

Major Gen. Kuhn's rise has been as rapid as that of any other general officer on the active list of the army. Only a little over two years ago he was a Lieutenant Colonel. In 1915 he became Colonel, in 1916 a Brigadier General and head of the Army War College, and this Summer was promoted to be Major General in the national army and assigned to active duty in command of the Seventy-ninth Division at Camp Meade, near Annapolis Junction, Md.

It is intimated that after the elevation of General Kuhn to the post of Chief of the General Staff, and when American forces have been sent to France in sufficiently large numbers to justify their use in the fighting trenches, a large part of the General Staff, including probably General Kuhn himself, will go to France to establish headquarters practically on the fighting front. General Kuhn has been anxious to go to France ever since war was declared, and it is stated that as Chief of Staff he will recommend the transfer of the principal part of the General Staff to France so that he will be in close touch with General Pershing.

General Kuhn will be eminently fitted for the position of Chief of Staff. For two years he was military observer with the German forces in the present war, and on his return to the United States, in December, 1915, he was made Chief of the War College, which has been in charge of creation and consideration of plans for raising a great army.

General Kuhn was graduated from West Point in 1885 at the head of his class and was assigned to the Corps of Engineers.

He served five years as instructor of civil and military engineering at West Point and supervised the erection there of the new academic building. He became a Captain in 1896, and was assigned to the office of the Chief of Engineers of the Army, where he served as assistant for four years.

Returning to West Point, he took charge of the erection of the officers' mess and the remodeling of the library building. Then he spent six months in the Philippines.

He was an observer attached to the Japanese Army in the war between that country and Russia, and he has served as military observer in nearly every other war in the last twenty years.

General Kuhn was appointed attaché at Berlin after Colonel Langhorne was recalled in April, 1915. He visited the German fronts until the Fall of 1916, when the German General Staff considered it unwise longer to allow American military officers to observe what was going on along the fighting lines.

What General Kuhn learned in Germany has been of the greatest value to the War Department in the development of its plans for the creation of a great army. When General Kuhn returned to this country the regular army had scarcely 150,000 men in its ranks, a large proportion of them on overseas service in Hawaii, Panama, and the Philippines, and the National Guard not more than 150,000 men available for service on the Mexican border. Today there are about 311,000 men in the regular army, nearly 400,000 in the ranks of the National Guard, and 687,000 drafted men in various stages of transformation from civil to military life. There will be nearly 1,250,000 men in the regular army, national army, and National Guard army by the end of October, and the War Department plans to have next year another million men in the field.

Besides his vast store of military knowledge and experience General Kuhn will bring to bear upon his work as Chief of Staff the advantage of youth. He is only 53 years old, eleven years below the army retirement age.

REFUSES REQUEST OF JEWS.

Italy Will Not Permit Exports of Palm Branches to Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 19, (via London.)—The Jewish Union of Frankfort-on-the-Main some time ago received a request by Jews of Warsaw and other occupied provinces to ask the Italian Government to permit the exportation of palm branches, without which they cannot celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles. The Frankfort Union therupon applied for a sufficient quantity of palm branches for the Jews of Germany, Poland, and Lithuania.

The Italian Government declined, and now the Frankfort Union has addressed a request to the Pope to use his influence with the Italian Government.

OPPOSES IMMUNITY TO DEPUTY TURMEL

Procurator General Appeals to French Parliament Against Suspected Spy.

PARIS, Tuesday, Sept. 18.—The Procurator General of the Appeal Courts has addressed a communication to Parliament asking for the suspension of immunity in the case of Deputy Louis Turmel.

The Procurator General pointed out that Deputy Turmel gave three different explanations concerning the origin of the money found in his locker, and further remarked that Magistrate Gilbert, charged with investigation of the case, twice served a subpoena on Turmel yesterday, but the latter ignored the summons "under circumstances from which it is permissible to presume that Turmel's dealings in Switzerland, given by him as the source whence he drew the money that was found, were of a fraudulent nature, coming under the law prohibiting French citizens carrying on economic relations with enemy subjects."

The committee of eleven elected by the Chamber of Deputies to report on the demand for the authorization of legal proceedings again Deputy Turmel met after the Chamber adjourned today. The committee voted unanimously in favor of authorizing the legal proceedings, which it held to be the best course even in the interests of Turmel himself. It is expected that the committee's report will be submitted to the Chamber at the opening of the session tomorrow, and little doubt is expressed that the required authorization will be voted rapidly.

It is understood that the judicial authorities at first did not intend to prosecute Deputy Turmel, but desired first of all to obtain a sworn statement from him, and to do this a charge was laid against "X" of trading with the enemy, in connection with which Turmel was called as a witness. He frustrated this proceeding by refusing to obey the summons.

It was stated tonight that the judicial authorities, as a result of the facts obtained through Magistrate Gilbert's investigations, contemplate changing this original charge to the much graver one of treasonable dealings with the enemy, which is punishable by death. Should the charge be changed the case would be transferred from the civil to the military courts.

BOND BILL APPROVED.

Conferees Make Only Minor Changes in $11,538,000,000 Measure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Agreement on the War Credits bill, authorizing $11,538,000,000 of new bonds and certificates, was reached today by Senate and House conferees with no change in the issues proposed. Adoption of the conference report tomorrow by the Senate and by the House Friday is planned.

Minor changes, only, were made by the conferees. They adopted expense allowances of one-fifth of 1 per cent. for the bonds and war-saving certificates, as originally recommended by Secretary McAdoo, and one-tenth of 1 per cent. for the Treasury certificates of indebtedness. They eliminated Senator La Follette's amendment fixing the rate of interest on the war-saving certificates at 4 per cent., and retained the House provision giving the Secretary of the Treasury full authority to determine the rate, which is expected to be slightly more than 4 per cent.

The bill authorizes $7,538,000,000 of new convertible 4 per cent. bonds subject to income surtaxes and war excess profit taxes. Of these $4,000,000,000 are for new loans to the Allies, the remainder to convert the 3½ per cent. Liberty Loan and to refund miscellaneous bond issues. Issuance of $2,000,000,000 of war savings certificates and the same amount of short-term Treasury certificates of indebtedness also was provided.

BAR ACCESS TO CENSORS.

Stricter Regulations Mark Transfer of Paris Bureau.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The transfer of the Censorship Bureau from the faraway Rue Grenelle to the central Place de la Bourse meets the approval of the press, but it is questionable whether the censors share the enthusiasm.

Instead of inhabiting spacious suites bedecked with priceless cornices and carvings, they are now huddled in a bare garret-like room on the fifth floor of what was formerly the Bourse telegraph office. On the first floor, at a narrow landing, one meets a disgruntled band of doorkeepers and mobilized attendants, who mourn loudly for the vanished comfort of the Rue Grenelle lobby. Hence the censors mount five winding flights of stairs to their workroom, for the elevator through long disuse is rarely in working order.

For the correspondents, all access to and communication with the censors is now barred. They can no longer invite personal discussions on disputed points. A telephone message, "Your dispatch has passed" or "Ten lines have been cut out," is about the limit of the information vouchsafed.

With typical French ingenuity the doorkeepers have devised a means of communication with the heights above, which saves them a tedious climb. Messages are placed in a wooden box attached to two parallel cords hanging from the roof. An attendant hoists this hand over hand by means of a string passing through a pulley. A tiny bell, such as one sees around the necks of pet cats, announces the box freight's arrival to the attendant above.

Strangely enough the box forming this improvised dumbwaiter bears the label of an American automatic doorcloser, a symbolic warning to the correspondents that the censorship is indeed a closed portal.

the Swedish Government in connection with the German telegrams forwarded from Buenos Aires through the Swedish Legation are by no means over. The question of the hour is whether the United States will rest satisfied with the tone of the Swedish communication issued last Saturday.

It would surprise no one here if Secretary Lansing of the Washington State Department were to call for a clear and unequivocal statement to the effect that the forwarding of American communications in language open to the Swedish authorities and with the knowledge and consent of the governments concerned was in no wise comparable to the services rendered to Germany by Sweden.

The wording of the two Swedish communications, it is pointed out in political circles, unfortunately left the way open to Germany and Germany's friends here and in other non-belligerent countries to bring charges on the old adages about habitants of glass houses and the respective blackness of pots and kettles.

The Entente Ministers and Ira Nelson Morris, the American Minister to Sweden, held one of their customary conferences on Monday afternoon, when it is understood, the situation created by the sending of German telegrams from Buenos Aires and Mexico City was considered.

WASHINGTON REFUTES A CHARGE BY GERMANS

Denies Sending Cipher Cables for Bernstorff Without Knowing Their Contents.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—A Wolff Bureau dispatch from Berlin, the semi-official news agency, says:

"The American Government continues to emphasize the alleged breach of neutrality by Sweden in forwarding German cipher cables, but forgets the numerous cases in which the American Ambassador at Berlin sent German cipher cables to Washington, and the State Department at Washington transmitted cipher cables to Berlin without knowing the contents. These cables were routed by way of London, but the American Government apparently saw no breach of neutrality therein at the time."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The State Department has authorized the statement that no messages ever were transmitted for Germany to or from Berlin through the department without knowledge of their contents. Many dispatches were forwarded for Count von Bernstorff, particularly when the American Government was lending the Ambassador every aid to facilitate his negotiations over submarine warfare, but their language was known and understood before they were put upon the cables.

PUBLISHERS RENEW PROTEST ON EXTRA TAX

Assert That Newspapers Are Bearing Additional Burdens — and Not Deriving Profit.

At a meeting of the Publishers Association of New York City in the Hardware Club yesterday, the following resolution was adopted:

The Publishers' Association of New York City respectfully renews and reiterates its earnest protest against the imposition of any special war tax upon publishers exclusively.

They desire to remove a false impression that seems to prevail among some members of the Congress that newspaper-making is in some respects a war industry and that newspapers in some mysterious manner profit by war.

There is not a newspaper in the United States that is not bearing additional burdens of expense by reason of the war, and we do not know of a single newspaper that is deriving profit from the war. Increases in circulation, where they have occurred, do not, at current prices for white paper, bring increased profits.

The newspaper publishers recognize the wisdom, the justice and the necessity of imposing heavy tax burdens at this time upon all those who are able to bear them, and the newspaper publishers expect and desire to pay their full share of all such taxes that are imposed upon all businesses.

But the newspaper publishers respectfully urge that while they are deriving no profit from war, they are necessarily one of the chief agencies of Government in making successful vital policies like the Conscription act and the Liberty Loan; that they have co-operated with the Government at all times promptly and willingly, without expense to the Government and with great expense to the newspapers, and without any advantage to the newspapers except the high satisfaction that all citizens feel in doing effective work for their Government.

The policy urged by a few Representatives and Senators in Congress to impose a special tax on publishers, either by the zone system or otherwise, will tend to destroy the business saved, without compensating advantage to the Government in taxes. It will tend to restrict that freedom of communication, the dissemination of common knowledge and information which are necessary to the unity of the nation. A great statesman, Daniel Webster, once said: "Next to the Christian religion I know nothing to be compared with the influence of a free intercourse in softening asperities, removing prejudices, extending knowledge and promoting human happiness."

Teuton General Foresees World Opposition; Thinks Trench Warfare Was Mistake

ZURICH, Sept. 19.—General Baron von Freytag-Loringhoven, Chief of the Supplementary General Staff of the German Army, has published a pamphlet entitled "The Results of the World War," in which he says:

"The general political and economical situation of the world works only in favor of our enemies, and the German soldiers will be defrauded of the fruits of their victories."

The General thinks that trench warfare was a great mistake, and says that only an aggressive attack could have brought successes. He added, however, that the German offensive was not strong enough to overthrow the Allies.

The Post of Munich expresses the hope that the reasonableness of the General's utterances will teach the Pan Germans, "who would right to conquer the whole world with their mouths," to estimate correctly the limitations of Germany's military power. The Post continues:

"Our world economic position must be changed completely by a new administration of our foreign policy based on democratic principles. Therefore, we do not require a strong peace against the east and the west which would bring us into opposition with all the great powers, but a far-sighted and lasting peace by agreement."

Kerensky Gets Gompers Message.

PETROGRAD, Tuesday, Sept. 18, (Delayed.)—David R. Francis, the American Ambassador, presented to the Russian Provisional Government tonight the telegram addressed by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, to Premier Kerensky, pledging the support of American labor in the war and urging the aid of Russian democracy. The telegram included the text of the resolutions adopted at the Minneapolis convention.

TELLS OF SUBMARINE BATTLE IN NORTH SEA

Devonian Survivor Describes Fight in Which 4 German and 11 British Ships Were Engaged

SAW ONE U-BOAT TORPEDOED

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 19.—A vivid tale of an exciting battle between eleven British and four German submarines off the Irish coast, during which the liner Devonian and another steamer of a fleet the British warship was convoying was sunk, was told today at the State Employment Agency on Chapel Street by Cecil Troutman, a survivor of the Devonian. Troutman was adrift for nearly four hours before he was picked up by a patrol boat.

"We left Liverpool," he said, "early in the morning, a group of fifteen vessels, to be conveyed through the danger zone by eleven British submarines going along the surface. About thirty-eight miles off the Irish coast four submarines of the U-boat type were seen in the distance.

"We immediately received orders to put on speed and make the greatest headway we could, sailing in pairs. Six of the English submarines submerged until they were half awash, while the remainder threw a cordon around the merchant ships.

"It took just ten shakes of a lamb's tail before the crews were at the guns on the underwater boats' decks, and then things began to happen. You could fairly hear the shells scream as they whizzed through the air and dropped through the surface of the sea, in the direction in which the submarines were first seen.

"Suddenly two periscopes, well to our starboard and on a line almost with the ship, were seen following us. One was quite near, the other a little distance off. From one of the half submerged submarines a white streak shot out under the surface straight toward the U-boat. There was a dull explosion. The periscope disappeared. Oil floated on the sea. She had gone down.

"Almost simultaneously a streak of white shot out from a place near where the other U-boat had been seen. Then another. Both traveled in our direction. The ship right in back of us was hit. She got it right amidships and sank in a few minutes. A second after another torpedo struck our ship near the stern. Two men were immediately killed by the explosion, the ship carpenter and his assistant.

"I was on the promenade deck when the thing occurred. I was so fascinated by the spectacle that I hardly realized the danger. Far away I heard the hum as of a mighty bee. The volume increased. Others were heard. I looked about and up. Coming toward us at a mighty pace of speed were a number of airplanes. Over us they began to soar about like seagulls. Swooping up and down, circling, criss-crossing and swerving, they dropped bombs that sank silently into the sea.

"Suddenly, as if by signal, they all flew toward one point. Slower was their speed. They were trailing a sub. From down on the horizon came a number of submarine chasers. They trailed after the planes, some caught up—shot ahead of them in sprays of sea, and kept their positions there. They were waiting for the time when the submarine they were chasing should come up for air.

"It all took less time than it takes to tell it. Our ship was rapidly sinking. Men were leaping overboard, others were frantically getting the lifeboats down. I decided that I would have a better chance if I got hold of a bit of some of the wreckage that littered the sea than in one of the crowded boats.

"I jumped overboard and got on a large floating box. I was on this nearly five hours. The other ships did not stop to pick us up, but, according to Admiralty orders, kept on going."

AMERICAN SHIP SUNK; NINE OF CREW DROWNED

Captain Among Those Lost When the Platuria Is Destroyed by a Submarine.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The American steamer Platuria was torpedoed by a German submarine on Saturday.

Forty-five survivors have been landed by the Italian steamer Andrea. The master of the Platuria and eight of the crew were drowned.

The Platuria was a tank steamer of 3,445 tons, owned by the Standard Oil Company, and was formerly known as the Diamant. She left Newport News in July with a cargo of oil for Italian ports.

Her Captain, John Leslie, lived at 200 Sherman Avenue, Jersey City. All told there were forty-one members of the crew and thirteen naval gunners. Among the crew, including the Captain, were sixteen Americans, as follows:

K. H. Nillson, first mate, South Perry, N. Y.; A. Seelbach, second mate; T. J. Gilroy, third mate, 1,534 East Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; W. W. Neely, wireless operator, Rayland, Ohio; H. CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Sept. 19.—German submarines have sunk the Norwegian steamships Facto, of 2,872 tons, and the Thomas Krag, of 3,569 tons, it was announced today at the Norwegian Foreign Office. Two men from each vessel were lost.

TWO U-BOAT TALES DENIED BY CAPTAINS

One Says Submarines Were Not Sunk, Another that Edison Device Was Not Used.

The Captain of an American transport which arrived recently at an Atlantic port from France said yesterday that there was no foundation for the reports that had been sent to New York to the effect that submarines had attacked the transports in numbers of six to ten and that several submarines had been sunk.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the U-boats attack the convoys singly and endeavor to take us by surprise. Their aim is to appear suddenly in the midst of two or three ships under escort, fire two or even three torpedoes, and then submerge.

"Recently two supply ships were going up the English Channel under the escort of two destroyers, one on each side circling around looking for the enemy craft. Suddenly there was a loud explosion, and the officer on the bridge of one vessel saw ten feet of her stern go up in the air and then fall into the water. No one of any of the four vessels saw anything of the submarine or the torpedo. The injured steamship was towed by two patrol boats, which were called by wireless, and managed to reach the nearest port."

The officers of an American steamship, which arrived on Sunday at an Atlantic port, said there was no truth in the report that their vessel was protected with an invention of Mr. Edison's which deflected torpedoes from their course. The torpedo fired at their ship on Sept. 9 off the Irish coast did jump out of the water as it passed the stern fifty feet away, but it continued its direct course afterward, the officers said. It missed the ship, they added, because she was just swinging on her zigzag course when it was fired.

REPORT 2 U-BOATS SUNK.

Christiania Hears One Was Destroyed by an American Steamer.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 19.—Two German submarines have been sunk by British naval forces, reports the Bergen correspondent of the Tidens Tegns. Six men from the U-boats were taken prisoner.

An armed British steamer in the North Sea sank a German submarine which was shelling a neutral sailing vessel. The second submarine was sunk by a British destroyer while attacking an armed steamer.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 19.—The Bergen correspondent of the Aftonbladet says that the armed steamer which sank a German submarine in the North Sea while the U-boat was shelling a neutral sailing ship was an American steamer.

SUSPECT PLOT IN SINKING.

Explosion on the Port Kembla Attributed to Infernal Machine.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The British steamer Port Kembla has been sunk by an explosion in her forward hold while near Cape Farewell, New Zealand, says a Lloyds dispatch from Nelson, New Zealand. The crew were saved. The Port Kembla, of 4,700 gross tons, was bound from Melbourne to London.

A Reuter dispatch from Melbourne says the Captain of the Port Kembla reports that the explosion was caused by an infernal machine, according to his belief.

8,000,000 PRIMERS BAD.

Frankford Arsenal to Employ New Process, Chief Inspector Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Hearings were closed today by the Special House Committee investigating the manufacture of defective cartridges at the Frankford Arsenal.

Major J. B. Monroe, Chief Inspector of the plant, told the committee that 8,000,000 primers had been condemned since the defect first was discovered, and that, with a new formula, manufacture of primers would be resumed as soon as additional dryhouse facilities were completed.

Big League Captain Ready for War.

ARLINGTON, N. J., Sept. 19.—Although married, John B. Miller, captain and second baseman of the St. Louis National League baseball team, sent a telegram to his home last night from St. Louis, saying he would not claim exemption and that he was awaiting a call from the Board of District 5, Hudson County. He was examined and passed in St. Louis.

POURTALES INSISTS RUSSIA CAUSED WAR

OFFICIAL DECEIT CHARGED

The Czar, Who Wanted Peace, Declared to be Under War Party's Control.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 19, (via London.)—The Petrograd announcement that now that counter-rebellion has been suppressed, the Soukhomlinoff trial will immediately be resumed, has stirred German imagination. The confessions of Soukhomlinoff and Januschkewitsch have, rightly or wrongly, convinced the German people that now there can no longer be any doubt as to who was really responsible for beginning the war, and the revelations of the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, concerning the Kaiser's attempt to form a German-Russian-French alliance (in 1904-5) have strengthened the German belief that even England was feverishly at work on the policy of encircling the Central Powers that finally led to the catastrophe of 1914.

There has been much speculation as to the views of Count Pourtales, who in his capacity of German Ambassador to the Czar's court was one of the principal characters in the greatest tragedy of history, but the Count was away on vacation in Switzerland.

On his return to Berlin last night THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent had a long conversation with him concerning his impressions of the trial. The Count thought the testimony of the two Russian Generals of extraordinary importance, because he said they presented absolutely incontestable confirmation of the contentions always held by Germany regarding the causes of the war.

"This trial," the Count said, furnishes to the world new and enlightening material and fully confirms my reports at the time to the imperial Government supplementing them in many important points. Concerning the events of July 28, 1914, I would like to point out the following: On July 29 M. Sazanoff communicated to me that a Russian mobilization against Austria had been decided on and would be made public within a few hours; I characterized this step as very dangerous to peace and referred, as I had done several times previously, to the fact that the mobilization against Austria was also directed against us, since our treaties with that power were generally known.

"Besides, at this very moment, despite Sazanoff's assurances, the Russian military sections adjoining the German frontier were in a state of complete mobilisation. In these circumstances, I need hardly explain, the German military attaché could not believe General Januschewitsch's statement, given him several hours later at 3 o'clock on his word of honor."

THE TIMES correspondent asked when the Ambassador first heard of the Russian military preparations.

"Certain information was obtained by me concerning Russia's military preparations," answered the Count, "and I gave a strong warning. A consequence of this conversation were the earliest assurances which Soukhomlinoff that same evening gave on his word of honor, which even then conflicted with the facts. The official report on these conversations you may find in the German white book."

THE TIMES correspondent then asked some questions regarding the Czar's personal attitude. To these Count Pourtales replied:

"In the revelations of the Soukhomlinoff trial one point is especially interesting and quite new, namely, the fact that Czar Nicholas, in consequence of the attempted mediation and on account of telegraphic messages by Kaiser Wilhelm concerning the same, was moved to withdraw the order for mobilisation already issued.

"On July 31, when the general Russian mobilization had already been made public, but before Germany submitted an ultimatum, I made another attempt during the audience I had of the Czar to obtain a withdrawal of the mobilization order, which, as I took pains to make quite clear, would make war unavoidable.

"This attempt failed. The Czar was very pale, and his speech seemed somewhat uncertain when he answered with the same arguments, which, as I gather from the accounts of the Soukhomlinoff trial now, were used against himself by his advisers, namely, that for technical reasons it was impossible to cancel the mobilization order.

"It is my conviction, and it has gathered strength by the revelations of the Soukhomlinoff trial, that the Czar personally was against war. But the Russian war party placed him in a position that compelled him to go to war.

"Events as far back as the conference of Europe in 1905, the details of which were recently published by the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, Kaiser Wilhelm as well as Czar Nicholas had only in mind the preservation of European peace. What combination could have been better adapted to preserve peace than that of Germany, Russia, and France, which the two monarchs south to attain? If they did not succeed, it is only France's fault, who would not sacrifice her prospects of revenge, which England's encircling policy against Germany, even then under way, seemed to offer.

"I consider of essential importance," continued Count Pourtales, "General Januschkewitch's testimony to the effect that Germany had known very well that Russian military preparations would be completed by 1918, and, therefore Germany had intended to attack Russia at once, when despite Soukhomlinoff's vainglorious 'we are ready,' they were still in the midst of preparations. This is a frank confession that Russia, and even more so the Entente, were preparing for a war that could only be directed against Germany and the Central Powers."

The German White Book, issued Aug. 3, 1914, to which Count Pourtales refers, was composed of a 5,000-word introduction, the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum to Serbia of July 23, some newspaper articles, and twenty-seven brief dispatches.

Count Pourtales's contributions to this are four. The only one bearing on the subject discussed in the above interview is a report of a conversation had by the German military attaché with General Soukhomlinoff. This reads:

July 27, 1914—Military attaché reports concerning talk with Minister of War:

Said Sasonoff had asked him to explain the situation to me. The Minister of War then gave me his word of honor that as yet no mobilization order had gone forth, that for the time being merely preparatory measures were being taken, but that not one reservist had been summoned nor a single horse requisitioned. He said that if Austria should cross the Serbian frontier the military districts in the direction of Austria—Kiev, Odessa, Moscow-Kazan—would be mobilised, that those on the German front—Warsaw, Vilna, St. Petersburg—would not be under any circumstances. He said that peace with Germany was earnestly desired. To my inquiry as to the purpose of the mobilization against Austria he shrugged his shoulders and referred me to diplomatic channels. I told the Ministry that we appreciated the friendly attitude toward ourselves, but would look upon the mobilization against Austria alone as very menacing.

SAYS FORTS WERE USELESS.

Soukhomlinoff's Explanation for Ordering Them Dismantled.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 19.—Witnesses in the trial of General Soukhomlinoff, the former Russian Minister of War, who is facing a charge of high treason, having concluded their evidence, the General today was invited to give any explanations he might wish to make.

The former Minister appeared exhausted by the long judicial proceedings. Speaking in a weak, tired voice, he endeavored to prove the necessity of dismantling Russian fortresses for which he had given orders. He declared that owing to the conditions of modern warfare the fortresses long had lost all their strategic importance and would only have been traps for the retreating troops.

"At the time of the Russo-Turkish campaign," he said, "I gained the conviction that provisional defensive works constructed while hostilities were in progress were of far greater practical utility."

General Soukhomlinoff concluded by saying that he never concerned himself with politics, but worked exclusively for the welfare of the Fatherland.

PROMISES FRANCHISE TO CANADIAN WOMEN

Premier Borden, if Re-elected, Will Also Extend Naturalization to Women Aliens.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 19.—In the event of Premier Borden's return to power, it is his intention to confer the franchise upon women generally and to make important amendments to the naturalization act, relieving women from discrimination as compared with men. In a letter to Mrs. J. U. Perry of Vancouver, the Premier says:

"In case I am returned to power, it is my purpose to place upon the statute book a measure granting the franchise to all women of British birth, and conferring upon women of foreign birth the right to seek and obtain naturalization on their own behalf, so that they may thus become endowed with the same privilege after suitable residence in this country and perhaps after suitable educational tests.

"The measure should provide that a woman of British citizenship should not lose that citizenship upon her marriage except with her own consent."

Ossining Hires a Policewoman.

OSSINING, Sept. 19.—The Trustees of Ossining went out of town today for a policewoman and selected Mrs. Daniel O'Shea of 927 East 180th Street, New York, for the post. One of her duties will be to crusade against "spooning." She is described as "married, about 30 years old and medium weight." The village voted to pay her $75 a month. Mrs. O'Shea has done probation work and is now taking a course in the School of Philanthropy. She has also been identified with the "Big Sister" organization.

TYPHOON KILLS 600; STEAMERS ASHORE

AMOY, China, Monday, Sept. 17.—More than 600 natives were killed by the typhoon which struck Amoy without warning at the end of last week. Eighty-five per cent. of the watercraft in the harbors near by was destroyed. No foreigners have been reported lost.

Outlying districts cannot be communicated with, and it is feared great damage has been done there. One village on the Island of Amoy reports that only 16 out of 200 fishing boats were saved.

The Japanese steamship Amakusa Maru, of 2,356 tons gross, is on the rocks opposite Kulangsu, and it is doubtful if she can be salvaged. The former German steamship Keong Wai, of 1,777 tons gross, is in a hopeless position on the Kulangsu rocks. The Chinese steamer Kango was driven ashore at Kulangsu and the British hulk Shanghai was beached at Amoy. Both of these vessels, it is believed, can be saved.

CAPRONIS TO FLY SATURDAY

Big Italian Machines Will Visit Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Saturday has been tentatively set as the date for the first cross-country flight to be made by the Italian military air pilots now at Langley Field, near Newport News, Va., with nine Italian military airplanes, including two large Caproni. If weather conditions are favorable four of the Italian airmen will fly to Washington and return from Newport News on Saturday. The passengers are to be American officers.

The flight from Newport News to New York will be held on a day next week when weather conditions are favorable. It is planned to transport ten passengers in the New York flight. There will be air exhibitions by the Italian pilots at New York and Washington, according to present plans.

JAPANESE SOLDIERS CLASH WITH CHINESE

Three Are Killed in a Fight Over Lumber Interests—Japanese Seize a Town.

PEKING, Friday, Sept. 14, (delayed.)—A clash between Chinese and Japanese soldiers and policemen has occurred along the Yalu River over the question of lumber interests. Two Chinese and one Japanese were killed and many were wounded.

Japanese troops have crossed into Manchuria and seized the Chinese town of Tsianhsien, which they are holding pending an investigation.

The Chinese Government alleges that the trouble was started by the employes of a lumber company and not by Chinese soldiers, and denies all responsibility. The Japanese officials say that Chinese soldiers incited the trouble.

SOLDIER HELD AS SLAYER.

Found in New Britain with Throat Cut, Lying Near Dead Woman.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Anna Tobin, 25 years of age, of this city, was murdered early today, and William J. Wise, a private in the Quartermaster's Department at Fort Slocum, is charged with the murder. The woman was found dead in the street with her throat cut, and a short distance away Wise was found suffering from a deep cut in the throat. Near by was a razor. Wise was taken to a hospital, where his recovery is expected.

According to the police, Wise, when questioned, claimed that while he was walking with Mrs. Tobin, a man whom he was unable to describe, knocked him down and also struck the woman. The stranger then thrust his hand into Wise's pocket, and drawing out his razor slashed the woman's throat and that of Wise, and then disappeared. The police say letters in their possession exchanged between Mrs. Tobin and Wise refer to their mutual love.

Wise is about 25 years of age, and before enlistment in the regular army made his home in this city.

Walk-Over SHOES

PARIS, where fashion originates, is the home of two of the largest Walk-Over Boot Shops in the World.

In England, where an uncomfortable shoe is not tolerated, there are twenty-two Walk-Over Stores.

THESE facts together are evidence of the two chief virtues of the Walk-Over shoe—a shape that is attractive to the critical Parisian eye, yet so comfortable that the outdoor Britisher, who cares so little for the looks of a shoe, buys it.

THE American who demands both appearance and ease sometimes doubts that both can be present in the same shoe, until his feet lead him into

J. M. BECK URGES FIGHT ON SEDITION

Insidious Forms of Disloyalty Through Publications Must End, He Says.

TO AROUSE THE COUNTRY

Prominent Men of City Meet for Purpose of Checking Covert Attacks on the Government.

For the purpose of making an end of sedition in all forms, a group of prominent men met at a luncheon at the McAlpin Hotel yesterday to start a national movement.

James M. Beck, ex-Deputy Attorney General, was the principal speaker. The next step in the campaign will be the holding of a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden. The luncheon yesterday was held under the auspices of the American Defense Society.

At the speaker's table were S. Stanwood Menken, President of the National Security League; W. H. Gardner, W. H. Beebe, Henry C. Quinby, H. F. Osborn, Austin B. Fletcher, the Rev. Charles Stelzle, and Lemuel E. Quigg. Others present were George I. Brownell, Robert Appleton, George A. Hurd, Louis J. Ehret, Robert W. Chambers, Bartlett Arkell, Austin G. Fox, Walter Damrosch, Cushing Stetson, George F. Canfield, C. Ward Crampton, Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, George Gray Barnard, Colgate Hoyt, Robert Olyphant, James Brown Reynolds, Everett P. Wheeler, De Forest Hicks, and Lee de Forrest.

The keynote of the meeting was sounded by R. M. Hurd, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society, who presided.

"America is waging a life and death struggle for her national existence," he said. "Germany, the most powerful and most vindictive nation in the world, without conscience, honor, or moral restraint, has adopted with national enthusiasm the aim of enslaving the world. Their methods are those of terrorists. Our enemy is well known to us. There can be no compromise with Germany. You cannot compromise with a man-eating tiger. The issue is clear. It is to be a battle to the death."

Mr. Beck Gives Warning.

Mr. Beck said that it must be remembered that the war was now something of a deadlock and a slip on either side might mean disaster. He saw in the weakening effect of the pacifists and seditionists in this country a grave danger that America might weaken when the test came.

"We have had a test," he said, "in the manner in which we have responded to the inspiring call to arms, and we have met that test. But, nevertheless, the test is really coming when thousands of American homes are in mourning, when the great masses of the American people commence to feel the pinch of the war; and, therefore, while there is at present a sufficient body of militant public opinion to meet the necessities of the immediate hour, I believe it is true that it is of the utmost importance that there should be built up a greater and more militant public opinion that shall stand against that evil hour that is yet to come, when the soul of America is to be tested as it has never been tested since those times that tried men's souls between 1861 and 1865."

Mr. Beck told how at the Merchants' Association dinner for Balfour, Joffre, and Viviani, the late Joseph H. Choate ended his speech by saying, "For God's sake, hurry up!"

"Now that expression," said Mr. Beck, "implied that we were not speeding up our preparations for war with sufficient haste, and to that extent it was an implied criticism of the Government. And yet 'For God's sake, hurry up!' carried with it such a potent lesson that instead of it being Joseph H. Choate alone, I would to God that ten millions of intelligent Americans, men of substance and character, would cry out, 'For God's sake, hurry up!'" (Prolonged applause.)

"While we would not limit that criticism, I will give you what I read within forty-eight hours, another kind of criticism. It was so ambiguous and its force was so great that its obvious purpose was to reach the people in a way which was quite beyond the processes of law. It was in a newspaper, and this paper is one of the most influential newspapers. With the other papers of the same organization it is one of the most influential newspapers. The editorial in this newspaper commenced with this sentence—I am quoting from memory—'The Red Cross,' it said, 'has appropriated $10,000,000 to suffering in France and a little over $1,000,000 to the suffering in all the other countries.' It proceeded quite insidiously to say just that. And yet, as no one had ever raised a question as to the division of the Red Cross fund, what could have been the effect upon the thousands of uneducated minds that read the editorial except to feel—the Italian, the British subject, the Serb, the Armenians or any of the other allied nations—to feel that they were being treated unfairly? That was the obvious and unavoidable effect, to create in the minds of thousands of people in this city that everything was being done for France and very little was being done for those in the other countries.

"I picked up an evening paper of New York the next day and I saw a special dispatch from Washington. It said Italy was feeling badly about the great failure of support from one of the Allied nations, and it went on to say that it was not France, it was not Great Britain, it was not Russia, but it could probably be readily guessed what nation it was that had failed in the support of Italy. What was the purpose of that special dispatch except to suggest to thousands of Italian citizens of this country that Italy's armies, which are making such a gallant struggle on the crest of the Alps, were being slighted in this country?

"How are we going to get after those people? We cannot, because a newspaper correspondent insidiously suggests that Italy is not getting due treatment from the United States, or that the Red Cross is giving everything to France and nothing to Russia or Italy or England, say that that criticism is necessarily seditious or traitorous.

"In my study of human life the greatest power of human society appears as not the Government, nor the spiritual power of the church, but as public opinion. And if there be public opinion militant enough it can reach these seditious newspapers and speakers. Suppose the best citizens of New York would get together in a kind of quasi-jury, and if all the men were large enough they could stop the sowing of the seeds of sedition. They could say to the owners of these seditious newspapers, 'Unless you stop these seditious editorials, we will not advertise in your papers.' In other words, let the newspaper that is deliberately sowing sedition feel this public opinion in the only way it is likely to feel it, namely, in the receipts over the advertising counter."

JURY CALLS MOFFETT.

District Attorney Finds That Law Is Adequate in Sedition Cases.

Cleveland Moffett of the American Defense Society, who went to the Criminal Courts Building last Wednesday to appear before the Grand Jury, but was told by a representative of the District Attorney's office that his testimony was not wanted, received a subpoena as he was about to leave the city yesterday afternoon on a patriotic speaking trip. He will appear before the Grand Jury this morning.

District Attorney Swann issued a statement in which he said that the law was adequate to deal with the problem of street corner sedition.

"There has been such conflicting expressions of opinion as to the law on this subject," he said, "that designing persons may be led to believe that the law is inadequate to reach them. The law is adequate in itself, but the only contention of the District Attorney was that not all cases, but only the serious classes of offenses, should be put through the Grand Jury room, and that the lesser offenses should be dealt with summarily by the City Magistrates; thus it will be seen that all cases of violation of the law may be properly dealt with either through the Grand Jury or by the City Magistrates."

The Grand Jury in the presentment handed up to Judge McIntyre on Tuesday said of the soap box orators:

"They are virtually conspirators against the well being of the community and the nation. Yet the arm of the law does not seem adequate to mete out to them the proper punishment for their offenses."

The presentment also said:

"And it has come as a shock to many of our citizens to be told that the law, as it stands, appears powerless against such offenders."

Whether the law is inadequate or adequate, the District Attorney announced yesterday that he was going ahead vigorously and asked all good citizens who had evidence of unlawful assemblage to help him.

John D. Moore, National Secretary of the Friends of Irish Freedom, whose commitment for disorderly conduct at street meetings has been upheld in the Supreme Court, obtained an order yesterday from Justice Tierny directing the authorities to show cause why further proceedings against him should not be stayed pending his appeal to the Appellate Division.

KAROLYI AT WORK FOR EARLY PEACE

lieve the alleged decision has not been finally reached.

The Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung puts it in this way:

"There were during last week deliberations about Belgium and certain conclusions were reached as to how the Belgian question should be dealt with."

This paper believes no actual decisions have been reached yet and regards it as impossible under any circumstances that Germany can declare she is not interested in Belgium.

The Cologne Volkszeitung prints today a message from Berlin saying that there would be nothing about Belgium in the German reply to the Pope and adding:

"It is satisfactory to learn that the Chancellor had refused even to consider the question of any indemnity to Belgium."

Vorwarts holds that complete restoration of an independent Belgium is corollary to the Reichstag's July resolution and "if the German Government declared itself in favor of that it would be no surprise, while a decision in the opposite sense would be a surprise."

An extract from Erzberger's speech, which it is now possible to quote, is as follows:

"The German answer to the Pope will be a great disappointment to the Pan Germans. We are going with great strides toward a just and lasting peace—a world peace which will be reared on the principles of the Reichstag's July resolution. The basic condition of that peace will that no nation must be subdued by another. To suppress whole peoples is impossible and the Pope was right when he said that nations do not die."

Dread America's War Preparations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—A dispatch to The Morning Post from Amsterdam says:

"Should it prove that Michaelis, who is a Junker, is really inclined to surrender Belgium, this will be a victory for the Reichstag majority and its policy of reconciliation. At the same time it will show how desperately anxious the rulers of Germany are not to be forced to embark on another Winter campaign.

"I learn, too, from a person who is well informed as to the views of the German Government that it is extremely uneasy with regard to the preparations of the United States, and that this will probably have great weight in inducing it to moderate its war aims."

NEUTRALS PREPARE FOR PEACE

Washington Learns of Steps Taken for Common Action.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—With the expressed belief that the war would soon be over, representatives of the Scandinavian countries at a conference at Stockholm in July recommended that the neutrals should take common action to save their interests both now and after the war.

This information has been brought to Washington in dispatches which tell of an official memorandum issued by the Swedish Government in which it was set forth that the neutrals had the same interest in a lasting peace as the belligerents and in the establishment of an international judicial régime, and proposed that the neutrals arrive at a mutual agreement concerning their rights.

Among the subjects discussed at the conference were the treatment of submarines, dirigibles and airplanes, the disposition by the warring powers of neutral prizes, the right of asylum for prizes, the establishment and use of blacklists, the commercial policies of neutrals during and after the war and the adjustment of economic affairs.

It is understood that these conferences were the outgrowth of a Swedish proposal made at a meeting at Christiania, Norway, in March, 1915, when the Presidents of the Councils and Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the Scandinavian countries were discussing the policies of neutrals during the war. The questions were not taken up formally until this year, when the Stockholm meeting was held.

GERMAN LOAN CAMPAIGN ON.

Krupps Take $12,500,000—Appeal to Fear of England.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—Germany's seventh war loan campaign is in full blast. Subscriptions to the loan opened at the Reichstag today, and will close Oct. 18.

Conspicuous advertisements tell the public that the loan "can, must, and shall succeed, else we encourage England to go on fighting."

The banks and insurance companies offer facilities to small investors of 100 marks or so, who will be required to pay 10 per cent. in cash and the rest in easy instalments, covering a period of from ten to twenty years. Land owners and farmers are expected to subscribe largely, as they are reputed to have plenty of cash available.

The Krupps have subscribed for 50,000,000 marks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. — The reported conference between Ira Nelson Morris, American Minister at Stockholm, and the Bulgarian Minister to Sweden was officially declared today not to have been in pursuance of any instructions from the Government at Washington.

It was added that Minister Morris had made no report on the subject, and that if there was a conference that it was on the initiative of Mr. Morris or the Bulgarian diplomat.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Present conditions emphasize the opportunity open to women in the field of business. The outlook is promising to those who wish to take up the work as well as those who are now employed. Business is not sentimental. Women who shoulder equal responsibility with men receive equal consideration.

It is unnecessary to point out that training is essential. The high rewards do not go to the unprepared.

There are many women who will succeed in business with proper training. There are a large number now engaged in financial and commercial work who should be preparing for greater responsibility.

22 Young Men Out of 40 Rejected at Recruiting Stations Because of Bad Feet

THE New York Evening Mail not long ago called attention in an editorial to the fact that in a physical test of 40 young men eager to enlist in the army, 22 were rejected because of "broken arches, distorted toes, callouses, bunions, corns, various troubles from which they would break down on the march of an army."

This startling condition of America's feet would be remedied if everyone would wear the

CONGRESS TO PUSH ALIEN DRAFT BILL

Authors of Various Measures Agree on One That Is to be Submitted to Lansing.

MAY DEPORT SLACKERS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Congress is about to take the final steps toward an alien slacker law, and the text of the latest legislative proposal on the subject will be presented to Secretary Lansing tomorrow by Representative Rogers of Massachusetts. As soon as the State Department approves of the text the Rules Committee of the House will present a special rule making the legislation in order and guard it against vitiating amendments.

The situation regarding the various alien draft bills in Congress had been considerably muddled until today, when the various authors of bills and resolutions on the subject got together and agreed not to allow personal pride to stand in the way of enacting the proper measure. The State Department has let members of Congress know that it will go to extremes in getting into the drafted army the aliens now registered but exempt from military service because of their lack of citizenship status, or because of international treaties.

The impression that the opposite was the truth had begun to make some headway at the Capitol. This was surprising, because when Representative Rogers of the Foreign Affairs Committee drafted the first measure directing that diplomatic negotiations be undertaken to clear away obstacles existing by treaties, the Administration went on record as favoring the bill.

Other resolutions were introduced to take care of the subject, one of them by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, another by Representative Burnett of Alabama, Chairman of the Immigration Committee of the House. Senator Chamberlain's resolution amended the present draft law by putting the aliens into the army, while Representative Burnett's resolution merely provided for punitive measures against the resident aliens who took advantage of their status to claim exemption.

After conferring for several days with Secretary Lansing, Counselor Frank Polk, and other officials, Representative Rogers drafted amendments for the Chamberlain resolution which will be submitted to Secretary Lansing.

The principal sections of the Chamberlain resolution as amended by Representative Rogers, which will be studied by the State Department tomorrow, provides:

That in the execution of the Selective Draft act authorized by the acts of Congress approved May 18, 1917, entitled "An act to authorize the President to increase temporarily the military establishment of the United States,"

(1) All aliens resident in the United States, who are not subjects of an enemy country and have not declared their intention to become citizens, shall be subject to selective draft for military service pursuant to all the remaining provisions of the above act in the same manner as citizens of the United States, except so far as otherwise provided in the ensuing paragraphs of this section.

(2) Subjects of countries other than an enemy country shall be exempt from the draft if exemption is claimed and if any provision of a treaty with any such country, now in force and unwaived, exempts its subjects in the United States from compulsory military service; but aliens who receive exemption under any such treaty and this paragraph shall forever be denied the right of becoming citizens of the United States. Any alien or aliens or group or classification of aliens receiving such exemption may at any time, by proclamation of the President and under rules prescribed by him, be deported to the country of origin or be permitted to depart from the United States.

The rest of the measure is substantially as passed by the Senate.

The members of the House interested in getting quick action on the legislation feel that the Rogers amendment leaves the labor situation in a better shape than it would be under the original Chamberlain resolution. The proposed amendment, as outlined in Section 2, authorizes the President to deport aliens if he sees fit, but allows them to remain here if economic conditions demand it. In other words, the Government desires to have the choice of saying whether or not the aliens shall stay here, and not turn over that valuable prerogative to the aliens themselves.

Members of Congress understand that diplomatic negotiations have taken place between this country and the allied Governments whereby treaty obstacles in the way of military service of the nationals of the allied countries will not be applied. The Senate adopted the McCumber resolution, authorizing the State Department to go ahead with diplomatic negotiations to clear away any treaty obstacles, although the State Department already had power to take that course. The only treaties in force with allied Governments, touching on the subject of exemption of nationals from military service here, are with Japan, Italy, and Serbia.

Figures compiled by Representative Rogers show there are now enrolled under the registration law aliens to the number of 1,275,000. Of this number 55 per cent. are from the allied countries, 31 per cent. from the Central Powers, and the balance from neutral countries. The plan is to enact legislation which will get the largest possible number of these men into the ranks of the national army.

BOSTON PAPER PRINTS PROHIBITED MATTER

Repeated Violations of Voluntary Censorship Will Cause Military Authorities to Act.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Repeated and flagrant violations by a Boston newspaper of the censorship restrictions imposed by the Government upon the publication of certain classes of news relative to the movement of troops are to be the basis of action by Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, Commander of the Twenty-sixth Division, and Brig. Gen. John A. Johnston, Commander of the Department of the Northeast.

On several occasions when the newspaper has published a story calculated to furnish information of military policies, plans and movements to the enemy, the matter has been overlooked on the apology of the editors and the agreement to use more judgment and foresight in the future. Now, however, the military authorities have come to the conclusion that the desire of the offending newspaper to "beat" its contemporaries has been allowed to outweight its partiotism, and the facts are to be submitted to the Adjutant General's Department at Washington, both as to the Boston paper referred to and a New Haven paper.

The story which has precipitated the present action is one published today wherein several hundred men are reported as absent from one of the training camps of the State without leave, when, as a matter of fact and according to the report of the officer in command only twelve of his men are absent, and those on accredited leave.

"It is of the utmost importance that all leakage and sources of information be stopped," said General Johnston. "The press, having imposed upon itself the rules of the Committee on Public Information approved by the Council of National Defense for the protection of the lives of our sons, has placed itself on honor to observe secrecy in absolutely all matters of the movement of troops."

'FLOUR FAMINE' A MYTH.

J. H. Barnes Scouts Alarmist Reports—Farmers Selling More Wheat

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—"There is no flour famine nor will there be one," said Julius H. Barnes, President of the Food Administration Grain Corporation, tonight. "The movement of wheat is increasing, but there is no likelihood of large stocks of wheat or flour this season. Farmers will sell a little wheat all the time. Extremely small stocks of wheat and flour have been hard for the Food Administration to overcome, but we are progressing.

"Farmers are beginning to understand the situation, and are selling more wheat. All the inequalities that have appeared in the handling of the wheat are being adjusted, and as the trade comes to a better understanding of the situation there will be fewer complaints. I think the trade is feeling better after the conferences of the past two days.

"There never have been so many divergent conditions at work as at present, which makes the situation a difficult one to comprehend. We are, for instance, importing flour at Los Angeles from Australia, which is selling at $9 a barrel. As to elevator storage rates, they are to remain the same as they have been."

BIG SHOE STRIKE IS ENDED.

12,000 Lynn Workers Will Return to Work on Monday.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 19.—Twenty shoe factories, employing 12,000 workers, closed since April 18, will re-open Monday morning as the result of an agreement reached late today at a conference between representatives of the unions and the manufacturers.

Henry B. Endicott, Executive Manager of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, arranged the conference, drew up the agreement, and urged both sides to accept it, in view of their civic responsibilities in times of war. Under the plan as arranged, Mr. Endicott will act as arbitrator of the controversy over wages that caused the shutdown of the factories.

The agreement, besides providing for a return to work next Monday, stipulates that the men shall receive the same wages as were paid on April 18, and that labor unions and manufacturers shall agree that there shall be no strike or lock-out for three years.

PUTS TIGHTER REIN ON 'LANGUAGE' PRESS

MUST FILE TRANSLATIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—With few changes in the measure as passed in the Senate, the joint conferees approved today, the Trading with the Enemy Act, giving the President broad powers in the regulation of commerce during the war. One change widened the scope of the provision to prevent publication of seditious utterances or disloyal criticism of the Government in the conduct of the war.

In the Senate bill there was an amendment by Senator King of Utah, compelling all German language publications to print, in parallel columns, an English translation of any criticism of the Government. This was replaced by one written by Judge Lamar, Assistant Attorney General, embracing publications printed in all foreign languages and stipulating that, instead of printing the parallel column in English, they must file an exact translation accompanied by an affidavit, with the Post Office of the city in which the publications are located. Publications violating this provision may be deprived of the use of the mails. The amendment as accepted by the conferees follows:

Ten days after the approval of this act and until the end of the present war it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association to print, publish, or circulate, or cause to be printed, published, or circulated, in any foreign language, any news item, editorial, or other printed matter respecting the Government of the United States or any nation engaged in the present war, its policies, international relations, the state or conduct of the war, or any matter relating thereto;

Provided, That this section shall not apply to any print, newspaper, or publication where the publisher or distributor thereof, on or before offering the same for mailing, or in any manner distributing it to the public, has filed with the Postmaster at the place of publication, in the form of an affidavit, a true and complete translation of the entire article containing such matter proposed to be published in such print, newspaper, or publication, and has caused to be printed, in plain type, in the English language, at the head of each such items, editorial or other matter, on each copy of such print or publication, the words:

"True translation filed with the Postmaster at —, on —, as required by this act."

Any print, newspaper, or publication, in any foreign language, which does not conform to the provisions of this section, is hereby declared to be nonmailable, and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association to transport, carry, or otherwise publish or distribute any matter which is made non-mailable by the provisions of the act relating to espionage, approved June 15, 1917.

Provided further, that upon evidence satisfactory to him that any print, newspaper, or publication printed in a foreign language may be printed, published, and distributed free from the foregoing restrictions and conditions without detriment to the United States in the conduct of the present war, the President may cause to be issued to the printers or publishers of such print, newspaper, or publication a permit to print, publish, or circulate the issue or issues of the print, newspaper, or publication free from such restrictions and requirements, such permit to be subject to revocation at his discretion. And the Postmaster General shall cause copies of all such permits and revocations of permits to be furnished to the Postmaster of the Post Office serving the place from which the print, newspaper, or publication granted the permit is to emanate. All matter printed, published, and distributed under permits shall bear at the head thereof in plain type in the English language the words: "Published and distributed under permit authorized by the Act of — on file at the Post Office of —."

A person who shall make an affidavit containing any false statement in connection with the translation provided for in this act shall be guilty of the crime of perjury and subject to the punishment provided therefor by Section 125 of the Act of March 4, 1909, and any person, firm, corporation, or association violating any other requirement of this act shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or in the discretion of the court, may be both fined and imprisoned.

Another change in the bill makes more specific the provision to prevent the export of gold from the country during the war. This provision gives the President power to investigate all banking transactions having to do with export trade.

AGAIN DELAY PRICE FIXING.

Talk of Drastic Bill Unless Steel and Copper Men Yield.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Further delay marked the efforts of officials to fix the price of copper and steel today. There were reports that the Government might seek more stringent legislation at once, perhaps the adoption of the Pomerene bill, giving the President control over all basic materials, unless an agreement were reached speedily.

Following reports that the price of copper might be known within a few hours, Frank A. Scott, Bernard M. Baruch, other members of the War Industries Board, and Commissioner Davies of the Federal Trade Commission called at the White House for a long conference. Then came another meeting of the War Industries Board, but no announcement was made.

One rumor started was that $68 a ton had been proposed as a price for steel if the industry would consent to provide it at that figure to the Allies and the consuming public as well as to the Government. The copper price, it was understood, had been fixed at around 23 cents a pound, contingent upon the supply being available to all.

While no official statement could be obtained, it was said by some that the copper and steel interests had failed to consent to so sweeping an agreement, and while entirely willing to furnish the Government at a low figure with the supplies it needed, were still holding out against an agreement which would open the industries to the Allies and the public on the same terms.

A late report tonight was that the price of copper might be made known within forty-eight hours and that it would be based on a figure at which the Government felt the industry could supply the United States, the Allies, and the public at a profit which would stimulate production. This price would then remain effective if the Pomerene bill became a law and the President saw fit to use the power contained in it to bring recalcitrant producers and manufacturers into line.

Gives $5,000 Each to Five Sisters

An estate estimated at more than $500,000 is disposed of in the will of Stephen Duncan Pringle, who died on July 15 last at the Villa Pringle, Biarritz, France, where he had lived since 1900. He gave $50,000 to the Civil Hospital of Bayonne, France, and an equal amount to each of his five sisters, four of whom live in Biarritz and the other Mrs. Charlotte D. Radcliffe, in South Wales.

NEW POST FOR ADAMSON.

Will Leave Congress for Place in Customs Appeal Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Representative William C. Adamson of Georgia, Chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, will be appointed to the Court of Customs Appeals in New York. The position is one of the best within the gift of the President, as it pays $9,000 a year and the appointment is for life.

The change will take from Congress one of its most picturesque figures. "Judge" Adamson, one of the most careless dressers in the House in years, is also the author of as much important legislation as any man in the recent history of the United States. He is credited here with being the father of the Panama Canal legislation, having drafted the original bill, bringing together the warring elements in the Senate and House and finally pushing the measure through for enactment. He is the author of the recent eight-hour law; the physical valuation of railroads law and the Interstate Commerce Commission Act; and drew the bill for the creation of the present quarantine system and the Public Health Service. His latest work in Congress was to engineer the passage through the House the soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill.

Representative Adamson is held in the highest respect in Congress. He was indorsed for the position on the Court of Customs Appeals by the entire Georgia delegation in the Senate and House.

How To Have Health Happiness

If you can eat bountifully, sleep soundly, work vigorously, you enjoy life to the limit and those around you enjoy being near you. You radiate health happiness.

The great secret is plenty of rich, red blood bounding through your veins. For the blood is the stream of life. If it is thin, watery, and sluggish, poisons breed and keep the general health constantly below par.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan
"The Red Blood Builder"

Take Pepto-Mangan if your strength is not equal to your ambition, if your listlessness makes you a quitter, if you are generally run down.

Study this picture so you will know how genuine Pepto-Mangan looks.

As a rapidly flowing river irrigates and enriches its bordering soil, so does the blood when abounding in healthy red-blood cells give strength and vigor to the body.

Unless you are afflicted with a serious organic disease Pepto-Mangan will probably help you. It builds the body by enriching the blood, by creating thousands of new red-blood cells which, as they course through the system, drive out poisons and carry health to every part of the body.

Friendly Warning: There are many imitations. Refuse them—accept only the genuine—Gude's Pepto-Mangan. You can tell by the package and bottle. Never sold in bulk. Read the circular wrapped around the bottle.

October Records

His initial offering is that classic baritone solo, the "Largo al Factotum" aria from Rossini's "Barbiere di Siviglia." And never has baritone equaled Stracciari's magnificent rendering of this rollicking air. You will marvel at the new master's sweetness of tone; his flexible, resonant voice; his marvelous control; his subtle artistry.

Raymond. (Thomas.) Overture. Part II. Philharmonic Orchestra of New York under direction of Josef Stransky.

Lucy Gates sings "Ave Maria" with a tenderness that brings a little ache to your throat. It is all the richer, all the sweeter, for the haunting melody of Gittelson's violin obbligato. On the back is "Sing, Smile, Slumber."

Josef Stransky himself leads the New York Philharmonic through the brilliant measures of the "Raymond Overture"—Macmillen's throbbing violin renders the incomparable Beethoven "Minuet in G" and on the other side, Drdla's "Souvenir"—Vernon Stiles contributes "Daddy" and "Forgotten" with the tender sympathy such matchless things require.

These are only a few of the splendid Columbia Records for October. There are dance records; popular song-hits that everybody is singing; whistling pieces; saxophone numbers; bagpipes; hymns—a brilliant, varied selection for you.

With the release of the machine-gun reorganization this afternoon it is now possible to give the table of divisional formation as it will stand uder the reorganization. It is: Divisional Headquarters; troop of two officers and 111 enlisted men, and 104th Machine-gun Battalion, composed of four companies of 172 men each, organized from the First Cavalry.

Fifty-third Infantry Brigade: Brig. Gen. R. E. L. Michie commanding, 105th Machine-gun Battalion, three companies 172 men each, organized from Squadron A, and the 105th Infantry, (formerly the Second,) and the 106th, (formerly the Third,) each regiment raised to 3,605 strength.

Fifty-fourth Infantry Brigade: Brig. Gen. James W. Lester, commanding, 106th Machine-gun Battalion, three companies, 172 men each, organized from the First Cavalry, and the 107th Infantry, (formerly the Seventh,) and the 108th Infantry, (formerly the Twenty-third.) Regimental strength, 3,605 enlisted men.

Fifty-second Artillery Brigade. Brig. Gen. C. I. Phillips, U. S. A., commanding, 102d Trench Motor Battery organized from the First Cavalry, and the 105th Field Artillery, (formerly the Fifth,) 106th Field Artillery, (formerly the Second,) and the 107th Field Artillery, (formerly the Third heavy.) With this brigade are included these units: 102d Engineers, (Twenty-second and train;) 102d Supply Train, and the 102d Ammunition Train.

Though both the Seventh and the Twelfth are marking time pending the arrival of the rest of the infantry regiments, both organizations are keeping in trim by light drills. Today men from the Seventh started the rudiments of bayonet combat drill, and several squads were out hurdling wire entanglements. Cleaning up camp and ridding their sites of the last of the tree stumps and debris left from the camp construction has, however, kept the men out in the open. Up to date not a single case of illness has been reported.

GEN. BELL HAS MAYOR'S PLAN

Former Will Decide Whether to Keep City Employes in One Unit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Secretary of War has sent to Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, commanding the Seventy-seventh Division of the national army at Camp Upton, Yaphank, the letter from Mayor Mitchel in which he suggested that employes of the New York City Government who were selected for military service under the selective draft law be formed into a separate regiment. Secretary Baker did not commit himself on the Mayor's proposal, but he indicated that men previously associated should be brought together in the same military unit. In writing to Mayor Mitchel Secretary Baker said:

"I do not know whether this suggestion is practicable, as, of course, it must be considered in connection with the classifications to be made of men, both from a military and industrial point of view, at the camp itself. I am, however, taking great pleasure in sending your letter to Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell for his consideration."

The War Department understands that a feeling exists among the New York City authorities that all the drafted men from the city should be kept in the same regiments. Secretary Baker said today that the selective draft law provided that this plan should be followed whenever feasible.

TO SEND COMMANDERS OF DIVISIONS ABROAD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Regular and National Guard general officers commanding divisional training camps are to be sent to Europe on an observation tour of the battlefronts, returning to carry on their training duties at the close of the tour. Formal announcement of this plan by the War Department is expected.

Under the voluntary censorship specific movements of general officers may not be published without authorization of the military authorities. For this reason the list of divisional commanders already selected to make the tour will be available only when the department's announcement is made. It is assumed, however, that, if possible, every division commander will receive an opportunity to familiarize himself with actual war conditions abroad.

The early stages of the mobilization and training of the National Guard and national army divisions will be left to the brigade and regimental commanders, leaving the officers of the divisional staff to handle the larger questions.

The first weeks of training camp work will be devoted largely to getting the men equipped and classified to the various arms of the service, and that period will be devoted, wherever possible, to the observation tour abroad for general officers.

GEN. O'RYAN BACK.

Commander of 27th Division, Here on Business, Praises Troops.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh Division of the Federalized New York National Guard, returned yesterday from Camp Wadsworth, at Spartanburg, S. C., to attend to military matters concerning his command. He was accompanied by Colonel Harry H. Bandholtz, Chief of Staff, and Lieutenant Charles P. Franchot. General O'Ryan was enthusiastic over the progress of his men in the hard work that has been the daily rule since the units went into training.

"The men at camp are doing fine work," he said. "They are all training with an earnestness of purpose that is bound to place the New York division among the best troops. Everything is progressing in the most satisfactory way."

Immediately after his arrival here General O'Ryan consulted with Majors Olmsted and Loree at division headquarters in the Municipal Building, and went to his home. He did not know how long he would be absent from camp, but expects to be here several days. In his absence the command of the camp will go to Brig. Gen. Phillips. Holmes O'Ryan, the 7-year-old son of the General, who went with his father to Spartanburg, did not return. The boy has been placed in school there and insists he will remain so long as there is a soldier in training. If Mrs. O'Ryan sees her son within a month or two she will have to go to Spartanburg to do so, is the opinion of General O'Ryan.

Kuppenheimer Clothes For Fall and Winter

More vigorous, more youthful, more worthy, wider in variety, and for many more reasons far more desirable than ever before.

Presented by Brill Brothers

The Exclusive Kuppenheimer Dealers in Greater New York

This new 1917-18 Fall and Winter season is and will be the most critical from a clothes standpoint that the present generation has known. With the extraordinarily increased cost of woolens and production, real values will be harder to secure than ever before and if there ever was a time when it was of utmost importance for every Man and Young Man to know who and what is back of the clothes he buys, that time is now.

Kuppenheimer Clothes sold in New York exclusively by Brill Brothers are made especially to appeal to Men and Young Men who appreciate real value as opposed to mere cheapness. When you buy them you get a standard product of known merit with the Kuppenheimer name, reputation and resources for good clothes making back of them, and added to that the name of Brill Brothers and their reputation and record of thirty years of service, dependability and real value giving.

The new Kuppenheimer styles display to a marked degree that trim, military influence which gives the wearer, whatever his age, that well set up, smartly turned out appearance which is rapidly becoming one of the wants of American Men to-day.

Kuppenheimer Suits, and Overcoats for Fall, $22.50 to $45.00

Suits and Topcoats which cannot possibly be excelled anywhere for real worth and value at these prices. They measure right up to that high standard of big value giving which has made the Brill stores famous, in spite of the present limited purchasing power, as applied to good clothes, of so small a sum as $15.00 or $20.00. See them to-day or to-morrow in one of the Brill stores in almost every pattern, design or fabric desired by men this season.

LINKS KING TRAGEDY TO LOSS OF FORTUNE

Dooling Declares Exposure of Widow's Financial Affairs Was Near When She Was Shot.

MRS. MELVIN WATCHED NOW

Afton Means Gives New Detail of His Movements at Time at Scene of Shooting.

The mysterious death of Mrs. Maude A. King at Concord, N. C., followed closely upon the receipt of information at Concord that there was no hope of probating the second alleged King will and no chance of continuing to conceal the dissipation of Mrs. King's fortune of $1,800,000, it was stated yesterday by John T. Dooling, Assistant District Attorney.

Only a few days before the death of Mrs. King word was conveyed to Gaston B. Means, Mr. Dooling said, that Charles E. Hughes, after a brief investigation, had definitely refused to have anything to do with the case. Just as hope disappeared that a lawyer of high standing could be engaged, it became known also, Mr. Dooling said, that the other heirs to the King estate had become active in attacking the second will as a forgery.

The exhaustion of the fortune of Mrs. King, alleged to have been accomplished by numerous frauds and forgeries, and the failure of plans to rehabilitate it by the so-called second will, combined to make imminent the exposure of the practices from which Mrs. King had suffered, and her death occurred just as exposure became certain if she lived, according to District Attorney Swann, who is preparing a mass of documents to send to Concord to sustain his charges.

The purpose in puzzling Mrs. King by slipping under her door mysterious letters written in New York by Gaston B. Means, but marked "Somewhere in the Chesapeake" and "Washington, D. C.," was to hold the woman at Concord, according to Mr. Swann, while Means was making his efforts to launch the will contest.

Deposit Box Empty.

Additional proof that practically nothing was left to Mrs. King of her estate, which less than two years ago was worth $1,800,000, was found yesterday when her safe deposit box in the Nether by Mr. Dooling in the presence of representatives of the State Banking Department and others. This box had contained securities worth $500,000 several months ago. When Mr. Dooling swung the door open yesterday nothing appeared in the large chamber except half of a rubber band.

The last time Mrs. King visited this bank was in March, 1916. She was accompanied by Gaston B. Means. What they removed on that occasion is not known by the bank officials. Mr. Dooling found yesterday among the effects of Gaston B. Means a number of letters written by W. R. Patterson, father-in-law of Means, from Chicago suggesting various methods of reinvesting money for Mrs. King so that it would draw larger interest. Other correspondence between Patterson and Means showed that Patterson had early in this year played the Chicago cotton market for Means with hundreds of thousands of dollars, sustaining losses which amount to considerably more than $100,000. Other letters showed that Patterson had been employed by Means in shaping the case for probating the second will, which has been shown, according to District Attorney Swann, by overwhelming proof to be a forgery. Patterson was present at Concord during the period before the death of Mrs. King, when efforts were made to induce Mrs. King to stay at Concord, although she was bent on leaving.

Some information concerning the intricate state of marriage and blood relationships which would affect the disposition of the fortune of Mrs. King, as it existed in fact and potentiality, was disclosed yesterday by Afton Means, brother of Gaston B. Means, who was questioned at length again by Mr. Dooling.

Afton Means said that Mrs. Julie Patterson Means, the daughter of W. R. Patterson and wife of Gaston B. Means, always called Mrs. King and Mrs. Melvin by the name of "auntie." He said also that Mrs. Mary C. Melvin, a sister of Mrs. King, had been the godmother of Mrs. Julie Means. These facts strengthened information which has been received from friends of the family in this city and Chicago that it was understood that Mrs. Means was to have been the heir of Mrs. Melvin, who is the principal heir of Mrs. King. Gaston B. Means married Julie Patterson at Chicago in 1913.

Miss Dolan's Trip Fruitless.

Since her sister's death, Mrs. Melvin has been kept continuously at the home of the family of Gaston B. Means at Concord. Efforts of the representatives of the family to remove her from the immediate proximity of Means and his family have failed. Interviewers who were for a while admitted to the Means residence were not allowed to talk to her except in the presence of others. Miss Ann Dolan, the nurse who was formerly in attendance on Mrs. King, returned yesterday from Concord, saying that she had found it impossible to talk privately to Mrs. Melvin. Miss Dolan said it was evident that she was closely watched as soon as she arrived at Concord, for the reason that immediately after her arrival she found that nearly every one she met in the town knew that she was there. She said she put in a long distance telephone call soon after her arrival, and that this seemed to have resulted in spreading the news about her.

"About half and hour after I put in this call," she said, "Gaston Means arrived at my hotel with an automobile and asked me to come to his parents' home to see Mrs. Melvin, who was ill. I found her somewhat nervous. I was greeted cordially by the family of Mr. Means, all of whom seemed confident that the death of Mrs. King would be proved an accident. I saw Mrs. Melvin immediately after my call at the house, but found it quite impossible to talk to her alone. Always Gaston Means, or some member of the family, would be at my elbow.

"They insisted at my staying at the home instead of at the hotel and I did so, thinking I might have an opportunity to talk to Mrs. Melvin. It was arranged that I should share her bedroom and I expected to talk to her there, but I found that one of the sisters also was to share the room.

"Mrs. Julie Means became rather agitated when I told her of the discovery of the dictagraph at the Means apartment, but she said that her husband 'Bud' would never have used the instrument to learn of conversations in the house, and she was sure that the dictagraph had been 'planted' by the police.

"Mrs. Melvin said that the fuss over the death of Mrs. King was all due to the Northern Trust Company of Chicago, a trustee under the first King will. She said that this company had incited the newspapers to print a great deal about the case and had caused the holding of the second autopsy at Chicago. This view was embraced by other members of the family."

Soon before the plan was adopted of keeping Mrs. Anna L. Robinson in ignorance of the whereabouts of her daughter, Mrs. King, Mrs. Robinson and others went to a hotel at Asheville, N. C., with W. R. Patterson, who wrote a detailed account of their arrival to Gaston B. Means, who was then in New York. In the letter Patterson referred to Mrs. Robinson as "Old Seventy-six," that being the age of Mrs. Robinson.

"I wired you upon arrival at the inn," wrote Patterson, "Party arrived safely. Every one well. We went through the preliminary roughhouse and visited the other hotels before engaging some of the rooms reserved. As usual, Old Seventy-six had to have the best in the house, and that was not satisfactory.

"Mrs. — has already trimmed her lamps, but they will not attract any moths here, or I am not a judge of class. Yours truly will manage to play along in the Blue and Gray."

In a letter which Gaston B. Means wrote from Chicago in 1916, while he was active on the second King will, to his brother Afton in New York, Gaston said that he had "staked his life" on his plans. He wrote:

"I want you to understand, and understand clearly, that I would say nothing to you about the matter if —— had not received a letter this morning from —— that may lead him to New York City, and in such a case it would at once interfere with my plans. * * * I am in the midst of the fight of my life, and the result of my success or failure means the future success of myself, Julie, yourself, ——, ——, and —— I am staking my life on the success of the proposition I am now working on."

Afton Means became angry during his interview with Mr. Dooling yesterday and stalking about the room, threatened to "make it hot" for Mr. Dooling when he made his visit to Concord. He said that he was angry because the newspapers had not properly presented his brother's side of the case; because the Assistant District Attorney had kept him waiting while he was talking to reporters, and because he said the New York authorities were going beyond their province in investigating the case. At one time Afton said to Mr. Dooling:

"Now, tell me frankly, is there any charge against me?"

"Not as yet," said Mr. Dooling.

"Is there any charge against Dietsch?"

"Not as yet," was the reply.

After the interview with Means Mr. Dooling said;

New Version of Tragedy.

"Afton corrected one of the statements he made to me in the first interview. He told me on the first occasion that, while the party of four were going to the spot where Mrs. King was shot, Captain Bingham suggested that they should walk a few steps in another direction. This was done, and as a result Captain Bingham and Afton were about 100 yards away and Gaston Means and Mrs. King were alone when the shot was fired.

"Today Afton told me that it was he and not Captain Bingham who suggested that they should take the short walk which resulted in their being removed from the spot when the shot was fired."

CLEMENT READY FOR INQUEST.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. C., Sept. 19.—Solicitor Hayden Clement spent several hours this afternoon in Concord making arrangements for the reopening of the inquest into the death of Mrs. Maude A. King. Assisting him was Clyde B. Ambrose, agent of the Department of Justice.

Coroner Spears said tonight that the Solicitor had decided that the inquest would be held in public and the witnesses examined by the Coroner, his jury, and by the Solicitor.

Mr. Clement had a conference with Mrs. J. B. Foraker, who has been here for several days. Afterward he said that the woman did not know anything in connection with the death of Mrs. King so far as he could ascertain, and it was therefore not necessary to issue a subpoena for her to appear at the inquest. Mrs. Foraker accordingly started for New York tonight, where she is to have a conference with District Attorney Swann. She said, however, that she would return here next Monday.

The order issued today by Federal Judge James E. Boyd at Greensboro, citing Gaston B. Means to appear on next Tuesday and show cause why he should not be held for contempt of court because of his failure to turn over to trustees a large amount of Mrs. King's money which he is alleged to have, will not have precedence over the Coroner's inquest. If it is necessary to continue the inquest during Tuesday, the order to appear in Federal Court will be held in abeyance until the Coroner has finished.

MRS. HALE IS RELEASED.

Prosecutor Says There Is No Law Under Which She Can Be Tried.

HARTFORD, Sept. 19.—Judgment of not guilty was entered by Judge Edwin C. Dickinson of the City Court today in the breach of the peace cases against Mrs. Annie R. Hale of New York and Alfred E. Whitehead of this city. They were arrested Sunday, following speeches in which the President and the war were attacked by Mrs. Hale at a meeting of the Hartford branch of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace. Whitehead was Chairman of the meeting.

At the hearing of the case yesterday Judge Dickinson suggested that the Prosecutor lay the evidence before the Federal authorities for action. Today the Prosecutor explained that he had taken the matter up with United States District Attorney Spellacy, and after the judgment had been entered he made public a letter from Mr. Spellacy in which the latter stated that he had no legal grounds on which to hold the accused for prosecution in the Federal courts. In the letter Mr. Spellacy said:

"I regret that there is no statute of the United States known to me on which could be based a successful prosecution of Mr. Whitehead and Mrs. Hale for the speeches that were made by them in Socialist Hall. Their utterances bordered on criminality, and were intensely unpatriotic, and to my mind inopportune."

CHICAGO MAYOR ASKS PRAYERS FOR SOLDIERS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—There was profound astonishment in this city today when William Hale Thompson, Mayor of Chicago, in a shift from the course that has caused criticism all over the country, took advantage of the departure of the new army men for the Rockford encampment to issue a proclamation calling on all Americans to stand behind the army and navy in any controversy with a foreign power.

The Mayor did not mention Germany by name. He asked prayers for the soldiers. He recognized that a state of war existed, and he said that nothing was too good for the boys who were going across the sea. He declared it to be "the duty of all patriotic citizens to stand by our country in times of controversy with any other country, and to show in an unmistakable way that the American people stand behind the army and the navy, which represent the majesty of our Government."

City Hall reports were that the Mayor was sincere in his change of attitude. It was declared that the State Council of Defense had led him to see the light.

"The national army has captured the City Hall of the sixth German city," remarked a La Salle Street man when he read the proclamation. It was Mayor Thompson himself who some time ago labeled Chicago the "sixth German city."

"Has the Mayor broken with his anti-war advisers?" was a question that flew around the City Hall. The gossip revealed that certain members of the Mayor's cabinet had been laboring with him in behalf of patriotism.

FOUR DRAFT MEN LOCKED UP

HASTINGS-UPON-HUDSON, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Four of the men drafted for the national army from this village left this morning handcuffed together after spending the night in the lockup. They are Anton Zuk, Louis Matusz, Henry Farmax, and Andrew Malasbuy, and all worked in the munitions plan of the National Conduit and Cable Company here. Yesterday they reported for duty with the district's quota at the Y. M. C. A. building in Tarrytown.

Last evening the four left the Y. M. C. A. and did not return. Suspecting they had deserted, the local board notified Captain Cronnell, and after three hours' search he landed all four, declaring that they had packed up and were ready to leave town.

Locked out by their employers, 600 Newark jewelers may give up their trade for the period of the war and become munitions makers. A representative of a munitions factory addressed the locked out men yesterday and asked for six toolmakers and six lathe hands to try making shells. If they can do the work, the representative assured the rest of the men, they would be hired at from $4 to $6 a day, which is from $1.50 to $2.50 more than they have got at their trade.

Employment agents have already signed up many of the men for Government airplane and shipbuilding plants now starting near Newark. The jewelry manufacturers wanted the men to quit the union or resign their jobs. All but eight gave up their jobs.

Without This Music's Re-Creation Is Impossible

The secret of Mr. Edison's new art in music is contained in his wonderful diamond stylus reproducer. The master inventor spent five years of research and over $1,000,000 in experiment to perfect this feature of the New Edison.

Manufacturers of rival instruments boast that they are able to play the wonderful re-creations of Mr. Edison by substitute methods. But we caution all buyers that it is impossible to secure the results which Mr. Edison intended without the specially designed diamond stylus reproducer.

We invite you to a concert of Music's Re-Creation in our recital hall from 11:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. daily. You will hear Mr. Edison's new art exactly as he conceived it—with that deceiving reality which has baffled the ears of over 500 newspaper critics.

HOW do October sales compare with those of last October? In Total Volume—in Gross Profits—in Net Profits—in Sales Expense—in New Business?

A hundred and one questions like these, relating to every phase of your business, come up all the time. Can you always get reliable, comprehensive answers as quickly as you want them?

You can with the Comptometer.

The reason? It's because the Comptometer multiplies man power. With it, one operator can easily make a high-speed machine job of the work of at least two—often three or more—mental figure clerks.

Proving Postings; Adding Trial Balance; Figuring Inventory, Bills, Estimates, Costs—ALL the figure work of accounting—can be centered on the Comptometer with a sure saving of time and a positive assurance of accuracy.

That means more time for analyzing figure records—time to go beyond the mere routine of everyday accounting.

It will cost you nothing to investigate this idea of multiplied man power. A Comptometer man will gladly demonstrate the Comptometer on any or all of your figure work for the asking.

OFFERS COMPROMISE IN SHIPYARDS STRIKE

Government Would Pay Half of Wage Increase if Profits Are 10 Per Cent. or Less.

BUILDERS WEIGH PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Officials were confident tonight that the strikes in the Pacific Coast shipyards would end soon in an agreement between employers and employes which the Government could accept as permanent. Reports received in the afternoon and evening were so favorable that Chairman Hurley of the United States Shipping Board, who had intended to start for the coast, tonight postponed his trip.

The Government opened a way for possible settlement of the strikes by offering to pay half of any wage increases the companies making not more than 10 per cent. profit on commandeered ships. San Francisco builders, in whose plants a strike of iron workers is in progress, agreed to consider the workers' demands for more pay, on the Shipping Board's cost-sharing proposal.

Agents of the Shipping Board and the Department of Labor in San Francisco reported that the employers and men seemed so near an agreement that the work on the commandeered ships might be resumed within a few days.

Mr. Hurley conferred again today with Samuel Gompers and other officials of the American Federalation of Labor. Tomorrow he will give attention to the strikes at Seattle, Portland, and other Pacific Coast points, and indications were that they might be settled on the basis of the proposal made to San Francisco builders.

The Shipping Board's action is thought significant, inasmuch as it indicates a belief that the workers' demand for higher pay should be granted. The board also emphasizes its determination not to let any difficulties prevent the speedy prosecution of its big shipbuilding program.

To avoid being compelled to pay a proportion of wage increases for companies making big profits on Government contracts, however, the present offer specifies that profits of more than 10 per cent. must be applied to the Government share of the payment. In cases where profits are high the entire additional cost of extra pay grants may be borne by the builders.

The cost-sharing proposal will apply only to vessels under construction commandeered by the Government to hasten their completion, and will not affect ships ordered originally by the Government. Contracts for these cover such exigencies as wage increases, either under a plan to pay cost plus a percentage profit or on a fixed charge basis.

The total cost of the new arrangement is estimated by Shipping Board officials as only a small proportion of the expense incurred in taking over ships under construction.

CALL STEEL PLANT STRIKE.

Jones & Loughlin Men at Pittsburgh Vote for General Tieup.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 19.—Striking employes of the Jones & Loughlin Steel Company at a mass meeting here today voted to call out the workmen in all departments of all the plants and make the strike general. Reports from committeemen said that assistant foremen had joined the strike, and no fewer than 5,000 men were now out.

The strike, which began on Monday, when 400 workers at the Eliza Furnaces left their places because 180 men had temporarily been laid off last Saturday, had so affected the plant today, that only one of the seven blast furnaces was in operation. It also developed that the men had formulated a scale in which they demanded increased wages, an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime and holidays.

FEDERAL OFFER FAVORED.

San Francisco Conferences Bring End of Strike Near.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—The prospect that some agreement might be reached whereby 25,000 members of unions affiliated with the Iron Trades Council would return to work next week at a 10 per cent. increase, pending arbitration of their demands, appeared bright tonight as representatives of the men, the employers, and Federal agents continued their conferences.

The Government's offer to assume half of any wage advances for companies making not more than 10 per cent. profit on commandeered ships was viewed as furnishing the means whereby a speedy settlement might be effected.

NEW PIERS TIED UP IN SHIPPING STRIKE

will call out every longshoreman, cooper and checker working in New York harbor, and do it soon, too."

Mr. Riley added that he was going to attend a meeting of labor leaders last night and discuss the question of hiring a big hall for a mass meeting at 10 o'clock this morning, so that all the longshoremen could be present.

Officials of the steamship lines and the unions were notified yesterday from Washington that a Government official was on his way to New York to confer with them on the settlement of the strike.

It was reported yesterday afternoon that the longshoremen's strike had spread to the United States Army piers in Hoboken, and that several hundred men had gone out. In a statement given out by Major George H. Tobin, in charge of the Quartermaster's Department on the United States Army piers on the Jersey side, he said:

"I have 1,961 employes in the department. They are all working and there is not a sign or intimation that they will stop working. There is not a sign of trouble. The work is going on twenty-four hours a day and the men are working faithfully."

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—Shipping at this port was virtually tied up this afternoon when approximately 2,100 longshoremen struck after the employing stevedores had refused to sign a new contract for increased wages for a term of five years.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES TO AID.

Pledge Support to the President in the Present Crisis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Federal employes in convention here to form a national union adopted resolutions today pledging their unanimous support to the President and Congress in the present crisis.

Indorsement was given the Nolan Minimum Wage bill. Other resolutions indorsed woman suffrage, the granting of equal pay to women doing the work of men, legislation looking to a scientific and equitable reclassification of all Government employes, a satisfactory retirement measure, and the extension of free public education into the higher schools.

Tonight the Washington local Federal Employes' Union tendered a banquet to the delegates, the speakers including Secretary Wilson and other departmental officials.

MURDER WITNESS A SUICIDE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Sept. 19.—There was a startling development in the Condon murder case, in which the Army Surgeon is on trial for his life, today when the body of John Gibson, seventy years old, in whose yard the revolver that is supposed to have killed John V. Piper was found, was discovered hanging from a beam in his attic. Today had been set for Dr. Condon's trial, but it had been postponed.

Pinned to the body was a letter saying that Gibson feared he would be implicated in the murder. The body was found about seven o'clock this morning by Charles R. Moke. Mrs. Gibson, alarmed when her husband failed to answer her call, sent for Mr. Moke, who searched the house.

Gibson had been worrying over the Piper murder ever since the body was discovered last June, and it is believed that his mind had become affected. Hearing of this, Russell E. Watson, counsel for Dr. Condon, called on Gibson two weeks ago and questioned him. Unable to learn anything he promised not to cross-question the old man at the trial, and that seemed to relieve Gibson greatly, but his fears soon returned.

The letter, pinned to his breast, called on God to witness his innocence of the crime, but declared that he was in deadly fear of being implicated in it as a result of the finding of the revolver in his yard. He also besought the forgiveness of his wife and daughter.

Gibson was well known in the community. He lived two doors from the home of Dr. Condon and was one of the persons who heard shots on the night of Piper's disappearance.

GEN. WINGATE REAR GUARD

General G. W. Wingate, of the Marine and Field Club, complained on Tuesday that the loss of his long distance spectacles made it impossible for him to shatter any Apawamis Golf Club records, while engaged in holing out under the thirteenth annual Seniors' Golf Association tournament the thirteenth consecutive success. Yesterday, he tried every set of glasses which had been fitted for his use and decided that it must be his clubs that were out of order, since at the end of this column of type the name of New York's noted boomer of amateur athletics and playgrounds winds up a list of good, better and best achievements at golf made by the first half of the 330 men who entered to play for the annual laurels.

General Wingate, made his first appearance in the tourney and finished last in the field, but he had more fun than did W. E. Truesdell of Garden City who established a low gross score of 86, 86—172 as a mark for the second half of the field to aim at and a gross total which appears now excellent enough to bring Mr. Truesdell the title of seniors' champion for 1917.

Chief Honors for W. E. Truesdell.

The completion of the first half of the tournament, which wound up with a banquet at the Apawamis Club last night at which the incoming seniors who start their thirty-six hole journeys today and the outgoing members of the association who benefited by their communion with nature, sat down to the annual feast, found a satisfied field of golf devotees congratulating the winners of the several cups. Mr. Truesdell, who has been playing golf at Fox Hills and Garden City almost since the sport became popular, divided the laurels of the first half with Judge Henry A. Gildersleeve of Oakland, a 75-year-old youngster who had the best net for the thirty-six holes with a card of 205, 60—145.

Notwithstanding Judge Gildersleeve and Mr. Truesdell were the outstanding heroes of the first division of Seniors, six other prize winners were forced to bow acknowledgment of the cheers. J. P. Anderson of Siwanoy led the Class A youngsters of the assemblage with a net card of 195, 44—149; Wesley M. Oler of Apawamis was the Class B net leader, with 190, 42—148.

Best Net for Judge Gildersleeve.

W. H. Smith of Wilmington, one of the several Smiths who made their presence a welcome addition from Delaware, carried off the banner trophy in Class C with 198, 40—158, and Frederick Correll of Yountakah was the winner of the Class D activities, with 211, 56—155. Judge Gildersleeve really led in Class D, but his best net for all classes keeps him from taking down an extra prize, and anyway, as Mr. Correll declared, Judge Gildersleeve enjoyed a larger handicap than did Mr. Correll.

In establishing the low gross score Mr. Truesdell played consistently, and although beaten by one man by two strokes each day, his opponents could not keep up the top golf for the entire distance. I. R. Prentiss of Mohawk had an 88 on Tuesday, and C. Gilbert Waldo of Brooklawn, champion last year, managed to get home yesterday with an admirable 84, but Mr. Prentiss could do no better than 90 for his second round, and Tuesday Mr. Waldo registered an indifferent 92, which gave Mr. Prentiss second low gross with 274, and Mr. Waldo third, with 276. The winning card of Mr. Truesdell was:

FIRST ROUND.

Out .....6 6 5 5 4 4 5 5 7—45
In .....5 6 4 4 6 5 4 5 4—41—86

SECOND ROUND.

Out .....5 5 4 7 4 4 6 4 7—45
In .....5 5 5 5 5 4 6 5 4—41—86—172

George W. Watts of Pinehurst, had the distinction of making the best low net score for eighteen holes in the two rounds by turning in a card of 90, 19—71 yesterday. Mr. Oler had a 72 net yesterday, while Frank W. Holmes of Siwanoy had 73.

Side Contests Provide Fun.

The side attractions consisting of the putting competition and the kicker's handicap, provided a lot of amusement and brought out many ties. William Gellatly of Cranford, with a 36, managed to gain first laurels among the expert putters. The kicker's handicap found eleven starters tied at 84 net. They were: F. B. Trout of Lancaster, Penn.; E. T. McNeely of New York; William H. Reed of Brookline; Solon C. Kelley of Weeburn; James Clark of Apawamis; I. R. Prentiss of Mohawk; T. P. Anderson of Siwaney; Chas. Harris of Englewood; R. O. Garden of Oakland and C. T. Adams of Forest Park; all of whom were tied.

C. Christ of Forest Park, who startled the players last year by appearing on the links with a musical cutter, continued ingenious by displaying another putter with a secret spring. One touch on the right spot freed a silk American flag waving in the breeze from the end of the putter. Mr. Christ insisted that he may be playing over some Berlin courses soon, and wants to be able to prove his identity quickly.

E. C. Folger of Pawling, president of the Standard Oil Company, finished his long journey with a net score which placed him well down in the Class B list. He remarked that golf was not to be learned over night.

About 150 players are to start this morning in the second half of the field. They will play eighteen holes today and eighteen tomorrow and will have similar competitions as found favor among the first half which have just finished.

SUNFLASH II. IN VAN AGAIN.

Leary's Three-Year-Old Wins Midwood Handicap at Aqueduct.

David J. Leary's imported three-year-old, Sunflash II., gave further evidence at Aqueduct yesterday that he is a vastly improved colt when he won the Midwood Handicap at a mile and defeated in handy fashion a small field, which included performers that have done well in first-class handicap company. Sunflash II. met with sturdy opposition and had to run on the outside of the leading contenders for a great part of the journey. He never left the issue in doubt, however, when once he got his head in front, and at the finish had two lengths advantage over Wm. Starr Wiseman and the Cleveland Stable's Whimsy, which in a stirring battle for place honors just beat out the topweight, James Butler's Paddy Whack.

The two previous victories of Sunflash II. had been scored so impressively that he ruled favorite in spite of the fact that, according to the scale, he was in receipt of weight from only one of the six starters, Andrew Miller's Chief Perry. Paddy Whack was second choice, with Wiseman, a well-played good thing, pressing him close.

With the exception of the opening and closing races the fields were small, but the public was satisfied, as four favorites succeeded. One of the upsets was when the Beverwyck Stable's Sixteen to One galloped home five lengths in front of Thistle, the even money favorite, for the third race.

Another mild surprise was furnished by the defeat of Fragonard, which was played at 6 to 5 in the field of ten juveniles that started in the last event. James W. Corrigan's Royal Ensign showed a return to her early season form and won by five lengths in the fast time of 0:59 4-5 for five-furlongs. A. K. Macomber's recently acquired Paddy beat Fragonard for the place by a length and a half.

Annual Westchester County Show Opens Auspiciously at Gedney Farms.

It was both opening day and J. Campbell Thompson day at the Westchester County Horse Show, which began at the Gedney Farms grounds in White Plains yesterday. Mr. Thompson walked away with four blue ribbons and a red with his entries, which topped the record of any other exhibitor. He would possibly have won a couple more with his novice mare, Nestledown Rosamond, which he esteemed one of the best in his string, but for the fact that while she was being led to the grounds on Tuesday a motor truck ran into her and cut her so badly on the flank that seven stitches had to be taken to close the gaping wound. Rosamond, which was destined for a career at the National Horse Show, is therefore put out of the exhibition class at the very opening of her season.

Mr. Thompson began his winning gait in the class for novice harness horses, in which he showed Nestledown Orphan Boy, which was purchased at the clearing out sale of Judge Moore's surplus stock. He is showy enough for a promising future in better company than he met yesterday.

With Nestledown Tobasco Mr. Thompson won in the novice saddle class for horses over 15.2 and followed it with a victory in the class for novice harness horses 15.2 or over, Nestledown Victoria, mate to his injured mare, taking the event very handily. Nestledown Asthere and Nestledown Victoria were placed first and second in the open class for harness horses between 15.1 and 15.3, thus winding up a fairly perfect day.

BRUINS TAKE FINAL NIBBLE AT GIANTS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 19.—The Giants closed the final engagement of the season in Chicago by dropping today's game to the Cubs, 4 to 3. They found big Jim Vaughn for nine solid blows, but failed to bunch them, and trailed the Chicago outfit all the way. Slim Sallee, usually an effective hurler when opposed to the Cubs, started the game for New York, but retired at the end of the third inning, and was replaced by Anderson.

The Cubs led off with a run in their half of the first inning. Flack opened with a single to left which skipped past Zimmerman. Kilduff advanced him to second with a sacrifice. Flack went to third while Smith was throwing out Wolter and crossed the plate on Zeider's single to right.

The Giants had an excellent chance to tie the score in the second, but failed because they were unable to produce a hit in the pinch. In the next frame they were more successful. Thorpe walked and Kauff pasted a single to right. Zimmerman forced Kauff, Pechous to Zeider, and Thorpe reached third. Fletcher fouled to Pechous, but Smith singled to centre, scoring Thorpe. Zimmerman also attempted to score, but was cut down at the plate on Schick's perfect throw to Elliott.

The active bats of Zeider and Merkle put the Cubs back into the lead again in their half of the third. Pete Kilduff slashed a double to left centre and went to third on Wolter's sacrifice. Zeider then came through with a single to left, on which Kilduff crossed the plate. Rollie died in a vain attempt to pilfer second base, but Merkle drove the ball on a line into the bleachers in left centre for a home run.

In the next inning the Giants came within an inch of knotting the count. Burns walked and took second on a passed ball, and Thorpe struck out. Kauff doubled to left and Burns pulled up at third, after which Zimmerman laced the ball down the left-field foul line. From the stands it appeared as if the ball had struck on fair territory, but Umpire O'Day ruled that it was foul and waved Burns and Kauff, who had raced over the plate, back to third and second bases, respectively. Zimmerman protested strenuously that the hit had been fair and received the verbal support of his teammates, but O'Day was adamant. Enraged, Zim then proceeded to strike out, and Pechous threw out Fletcher.

The Cubs added a run to their total in the seventh. Pechous beat out a slow roller to Zimmerman, went to second when Anderson threw out Elliott, and to third while Anderson and Holke were retiring Vaughn. With Flack at the bat, Anderson let loose a wild pitch, on which Pechous scored.

The league leader moved up one run in the eighth. Zimmerman and Fletcher singled and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Zimmerman scored while Zeider was throwing out Smith.

A brief rally in the ninth gave Vaughn a few anxious moments and was productive of another run. Robertson batted for Anderson and hit the screen on the right-field wall for two bases, and Burns's single to right scored him.

In a Broadway otherwise abandoned to the regular public and the regular stage, the Washington Square Players have come like an oasis—an amateur oasis to be sure, and an oasis that is sometimes a mere mirage in the desert, but none the less an oasis. And in our rapidly developing theatrical life they have achieved their separate public—a public that is pleased with the true waters of artistic refreshment, and only less pleased when they turn out to be limned by an optical illusion in the sky. At least it is the sky and no longer the desert.

In "Another Way Out" Lawrence Langner wrote a one-act satire on the Washington Square pose of moral freedom, and it was really refreshing, thirst-quenching. Now, continuing his interest in methods of egress, he has written three acts about the family exit, and the result is dubious. The unconventional attitude is there, and the light-hearted, intelligent mockery of accepted ideas and standards. But it takes more than a flair for the unusual to furnish forth three acts. One may guess that the play has produced a kink in the organization which has hitherto seemed so united. It is written by one of them and produced by them all, but it is financially "presented" by a newcomer, Edward L. George.

Was it Samuel Butler in "The Way of All Flesh," or was it Bernard Shaw in innumerable works, who discovered the wicked delight of making faces at the sacred ties of family? Perhaps they discovered it independently, and then discovered each other in unison. They have now in their turn been discovered, and their Columbus is named Langner. But it is an intelligent mariner, this. Butler and Shaw garbed their ideas in English life; he drapes his mannikin in American fabric.

It is Peter Vandusen's one object in life to escape his whole fam-damily, and so he goes to Paris and lives with an excellent cook in the Latin Quarter. But after twenty years of pre-marital felicity her good people accept him as one of them, and so he is impelled to escape to America. He is, however, caught in the harbor by the minions of our law. Elise has forgotten the plot while seasick, and has acted quite naturally. So the twain are detained on Ellis Island, and in order to escape, are obliged to marry. This is all to the good. In Paris marriage, or even long-distance domestic association, incurs the dread fam-damily; but here, as it appears at the end of Act I., a marriage such as his routs it. Peter is delighted with America, and in particular with the Mann law.

As a subject for a one-act play nothing could be better. But Mr. Langner has given us a second act, and a third—in the beginning of which Peter is quite happy in the absence of the fam-damily, in the middle of which they swarm on him, and at the end of which they are routed by some new device. It is all very gay and light-hearted, mocking at things American, especially at moralities and proprieties. Occasionally there is a flash of real wit. But the one thing a farce requires absolutely is movement, progress. The one thing it cannot be is repetitious.

If one may judge by "Another Way Out," Mr. Langner's gift is for whimsical, paradoxical exaggeration in character. In a brief compass this is altogether delightful. In this longer play the game somehow palls. Perhaps it takes real people to sustain one's interest. Certainly the characters here seem not people but types, even stereotypes. One gets in the end almost as tired of them as Peter himself. For three acts the family came in and then exit. The audience came in only once, but when it finally made its escape, somewhat before eleven, the occasion was, to some at least, the most spontaneous—the most hilarious—of the entire entertainment.

And yet in retrospect the play does seem different—more intelligent, more sophisticated, on a higher level of idea and of wit. Even in escaping, one was glad to have been there. For the thing one escaped to was a Broadway abandoned to the regular playwright and the regular stage.

The acting was in key with the play—with the freshness of the amateur and also his monotony. David Higgins was Peter, and was a whimsical delight as long as the play was. Frances Ross was distinguished by good looks, and they had the advantage of being as fresh at ten forty-five as at eight forty-five.

MUSIC NOTES.

Two new classes have been opened in the Ballet School, which has grown to be an important element of the Metropolitan Opera Company organization. One is for children from 6 to 14 years of age, and the other for young women. Information may be had from the Directress, Madame Pauline Verhoeven, at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Jeanie Fletcher, Patterson Campbell, Nell Baxter, Elizabeth Merson, and Duncan Robertson are announced to appear with Scottish pipers and the Highland Guards Band this evening at Aeolian Hall. The concert is a benefit for Scottish soldiers and sailors blinded in the war, and among the patrons are Mrs. Carnegie, Miss Theodosia Spring-Rice and the Marquis of Aberdeen.

The Second Canadian Reserve Park's ragtime band, at the front in France, has found new music hard to obtain over there. The Montreal boys' appeal for help after two years is forwarded by Mrs. W. H. McKeen, who with Dr. W. G. Cope, of their home town, will send any gifts of music to the soldiers.

Band concerts have been continued on the Mall in Central Park, where the lights arranged by Claude Bragdon for the Community Chorus festival attracted crowds this week. The concerts were extended by the Park Department through the Mayor's Defense Committee and Chairman McCook.

The Beethoven Orchestra, led by Henry Lefkowitz, gave a concert to celebrate the Summer term's end at Evening School No. 25. Principal Goldberger, in announcing the Fall term, opening Oct. 1, said students from the foreign-born population had shown admirable loyalty to their adopted land.

HOME FOR FRENCH PLAYERS.

One of the new ideas which will be introduced in connection with the Théâtre du Vieux Colombier, which Jacques Copeau will direct here this season, will be the housing of a number of the French players together in quarters which have just been obtained. The former residence of R. G. Dun at 261 Madison Avenue will be remodeled for this purpose, and the house will also be used as a gathering place for all who are interested in French drama and art.

To this end there has been organized Le Cercle des Amis de la France, of which Mrs. Philip Lydig is President, and which has among its members Nicholas Murray Butler, Otto H. Kahn, Jacques Copeau, Mrs. August Belmont, Miss Ia Tarbell, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. The Madison Avenue house will be remodeled by Antonin Raymond, who is altering the Garrick for the Théâtre du Vieux Colombier, and will be ready for occupancy in November.

THEATRES TO AID DEFENSE.

The receipts for both performances at the Hippodrome on Wednesday, Oct. 3, will be devoted to the national campaign of the American Defense Society, and a number of other managers have agreed to give a percentage of their receipts during the week of Oct. 1 to the same cause.

Plans for the campaign were made yesterday at a luncheon given by the society at the Hotel McAlpin, presided over by David Jayne Hill. During the week a number of prominent members of the society will make tours of the theatres, and will address the audiences between the acts. Among the managers who have given their consent to the plan are Klaw & Erlanger, Selwyn & Co., A. H. Woods, and the Shuberts.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Winthrop Ames's first production of the season, "Saturday to Monday," will begin an engagement at the Bijou Theatre on Monday, Oct. 1. The piece is a comedy by William J. Hurlburt, "Mary's Ankle," now at the Bijou, will be moved to the Thirty-ninth Street after next week, where it will remain until the middle of October.

Robert Edeson will headline the bill at the Palace next week in "Flying Arrow," in which he will impersonate an Indian.

"Seven Days' Leave," which Daniel Frohman is producing, will have its first performance at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, Oct. 1. The play is an English war melodrama, and the cast is headed by Courtenay Foote, H. Cooper Cliffe, W. L. Abingdon, Alphons Ethier, Galway Herbert, and Ann Andrews.

Arthur Cunningham, well known as a baritone, has been engaged for a role in "Miss 1917," soon to open at the Century.

Ray Cox, who is well known both in vaudeville and on the legitimate stage, will be married shortly to Harvey James Flint, who is connected with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. Miss Cox was last seen here in "Twin Beds," and since then has been appearing in the London music halls.

Marjorie Rambeau has been selected to impersonate America in the Red Cross Rosemary Pageant, which will be given at Huntington, L. I., on the afternoon of Oct. 5.

The first dinner to be given by the Friars Club this season will be in honor of Hugh J. Ward, the Australian manager, and will take place at the clubhouse on the evening of Sunday, Sept. 30.

FIRE NEAR CRIPPLED GIRL.

Carried Unconscious from Burning Tenement in Wheel Chair.

After she had been abandoned on the fourth floor of a burning tenement at 252 Huron Street, Brooklyn, because persons who had her in charge could not get her wheel chair down the four flights of stairs, Barbara Lowe, aged 11, was carried unconscious from the building by Policeman Costello, who went into the building to see that every one had escaped. She recovered consciousness later at the Eastern District Hospital, and it was said by physicians that she would suffer no after affects of the smoke and excitement.

When Mrs. Lowe left the flat yesterday, expecting to be gone several hours, she instructed the younger children to see that Barbara was not left alone more than a few minutes at a time, and neighbors on lower floors of the frame tenement house had promised that Barbara should have attention. But a fire in the leather factory of Frank Hecht & Co., a four-story building adjoining the tenement, attracted the children, as well as the mothers who had promised to take care of Barbara, and she was left alone while her caretakers watched the firemen.

The flames spread rapidly in the leather factory and a second and third alarm were sent in. The arrival of the apparatus occupied the attention of Barbara's caretakers and they forgot her completely until the fire reached the tenement house. Then they tried to take her out, but were driven away by the smoke. When Policeman Costello reached the fourth floor Barbara had been overcome by the smoke and the fire was burning in an adjoining room. A few minutes after Barbara was carried out the fire spread rapidly through the building.

The loss through the burning of the leather factory and tenement caused $100,000 loss.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—The central span of the Quebec Bridge was raised to such a height today that an ocean-going vessel was able to pass under it safely. Today the bridge workers brought the span up fifty-four feet. It now hangs a scant thirty feet from the floor of the bridge, and the engineers were able to announce that only a few hours of uninterrupted work would be required to put it in place, thus completing the structural part of the bridge.

The span has been raised a distance of 120 feet.

Spelter Company Passes Dividend

The Consolidated Interstate Callahan Mining Company, which is one of the largest spelter producers in the country, has passed its usual quarterly dividend of $1.50, according to advices received from Boston yesterday. In explanation of this step, President Percival said: "The Directors decided that the uncertain outlook, due to the war, and the increased cost of production, together with the necessity of providing for heavy war taxes, estimated under the provisions of the statute as now drawn at approximately $300,000, which must be paid out of 1917 earnings, make it desirable for the company to create a strong reserve in order to be properly protected against any emergency. It was decided, therefore, that although the earnings of the company for the third quarter were approximately $460,000, equivalent to about $1 per share, and the outlook for the fourth quarter is even more promising, no dividend will be declared at the present time."

NEW CRUGER INQUIRY TODAY

Extraordinary Grand Jury Will Begin Police Investigation.

Assisted by Special Assistant District Attorney James W. Osborne and Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley, the Extraordinary Grand Jury convened at the direction of Governor Whitman will commence today their investigation of alleged police dereliction in the Ruth Cruger case. Although a previous Grand Jury has obtained considerable evidence, the new body will go over the entire case from the beginning. Henry Cruger, father of the murdered girl, will be the first witness today.

In commenting on the case Assistant District Attorney Talley remarked that the first Grand Jury merely scratched the surface. It is understood that the District Attorney has received the aid of several new witnesses who have come forward within the last six weeks.

EXPLAINS MILK INCREASE.

Dealers Place Responsibility Upon Dairymen's League.

In a statement issued yesterday, I. Elkin Nathans, Secretary of the New York State Milk Dealers' Conference Board, called attention to the increase in price which the Dairymen's League was asking for October and November milk, as compared with the September figures. Mr. Nathan said that in the near future the milk question in New York City was likely to become a matter of public concern, inasmuch as the farmers were demanding a raise of 75 per cent. for milk this Fall over the price received in 1916.

Mr. Nathans asserts that the increase in price made by the Dairymen's League to the dealers has been greatly in excess of that charged by the latter to consumers.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPT. 20, 1917.

RUSSIA'S HONOR.

The best news that comes from Russia, the best for Russia, the best for the world and for civilization, is the declaration, now many times repeated, that no separate peace will be made with Germany, that Russia will loyally keep faith with the Allies and fight to the end against the Imperial power. These assurances are to the advantage of Russia, the keeping of them will be immeasurably to her advantage, because her honor is at stake. The Russian Government pledged its faith to the Allies that peace would not be made until it was a common peace made by all the Powers fighting against Germany. Russia cannot fail to keep that pledge without dishonoring herself.

It is useless to urge the point that the pledge was given by the Government of the Czar, now overthrown. The Governments of nations may change, but they are not thereby absolved from national obligation; other nations expect that the nation will keep its pledges. The treaty guaranteeing the neutrality and independence of Belgium was signed by Prussia in 1839. Thirty-two years later Prussia became a State in the German Empire, but that did not free her from the binding obligation of the treaty. It became Germany's treaty and the German Chancellor was forced to acknowledge that the invasion of Belgium was a crime against international law; it was a violation of the treaty. But for the Kerensky Government, or any other Government now established in Russia, to have any decent ground for justifying a withdrawal of the pledge to the Allies it would be necessary to show that continuance of the war until Germany is defeated would be to the disadvantage of Russia. It is impossible to show that, for the direct contrary is true. For Russia to lay down her arms before Germany is defeated would be not merely dishonorable, but dangerous; it would lay her open to execution of Germany's designs for her enslavement.

Russia could never hold up her head among other nations; she could not expect to be treated with consideration as an equal by other nations if she should now prove false. Provisional President KERENSKY has the sound view of Russia's interest—she must fight to the end. In the execution of his resolve to keep faith with the Allies, to reorganize the army and fight valiantly against Germany, he will have the determined opposition of the Bolsheviki. They have got control of the Petrograd Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, who are supporters of the policy of "no annexations, no indemnities," which really means knuckling down to Germany. They favor immediate peace, with dishonor. For this and for countless other reasons KERENSKY will sooner or later have to use a firm hand with these persons. The Bolsheviki, demanding that all representatives of the middle and upper classes, all save the proletariat, shall be excluded from the Government, enable us to judge of the reasonableness and practicability of their aims. They would establish a government for nonexistent beings in an unreal world. Like our I. W. W., they would substitute pure class selfishness, ignorance, unreason and violence for the teachings of all human experience. No nation, no part of this world, can be successfully governed on their plan, and even should they triumph over KERENSKY and the forces of order, the Government established by them would march straight through anarchy to destruction.

For the preservation of himself and of Russia KERENSKY must put these men down. They are already growling among themselves. It was the cause of some misgiving that the Bolsheviki, rather than the Constitutional Democrats, the men of soberness and understanding, the great middle class, who will be the strength of Russia in the future, rejoiced at KERENSKY'S easy triumph over the ill-judged adventure of KORNILOFF. The differences arising out of that revolt will be sooner healed if the demand of the Radicals for the infliction of severe punishment is disregarded. That would leave rankling resentments and might lead to further division. There is a better feeling about Russia, more confidence in her capacity to solve the great problems before her, in her stability, in her future, than there was a few days ago, but KERENSKY'S difficulties are not by any means all solved. It is essential to his future and to the future of the State he is attempting to establish that Radicalism should be subordinated to reason and that Russia shall respect and faithfully keep her pledges to the Allies.

MR. MITCHEL'S NOMINATION.

That Mayor MITCHEL should have won his renomination at the hands of the Republican Party by so small a majority is an unwelcome proof of the extent to which unreasoning partisanship still exists in this city. It is true that those who voted are a minority of the Republican Party, and that they comprise all those who are blind partisans and by no means all who have broader conceptions of their civic duties. That is, all the politicians go to the primaries, but not all the voters. It is also true, in one aspect, that Mayor MITCHEL'S nomination by however small a majority, in a primary attended by all the politicians and only a few of the voters of the Republican Party, is a sign that we are living in better times than we once did. Not many years ago the idea of a Democrat carrying a Republican primary, with a Republican running in opposition to him, would have been impossible. That even a slender majority of Republicans, or rather a slender majority of those Republicans who attend primaries, should have chosen a Democrat, would then have been hailed as a miraculous portent of better things.

But the smallness of the majority is unwelcome because it proves, not that we have not progressed, but that we had not progressed as far as we thought we had. It is beyond debate, and it is not seriously denied, that Mayor MITCHEL is the best Mayor New York ever had, that his administration has been for the behoof of no party, but solely for the interests of the city. The candidate against him was a man so slight that he would not have been considered for a moment in any city convention under the old system. The men who nominally voted for him did not really vote for him. They did not really vote against Mayor MITCHEL. They voted for a Republican against a Democrat. That is the discouraging thing to men who had believed that the conception of a city ruled for the city's good, not for the pecuniary benefit of partisan officeholders, had come to be the governing thought with every large body of voters in New York.

Of course there were many who voted for Mr. BENNETT who did not have this partisan reason. The Mayor has been an active and pronounced American, and he is feared and hated by those who are not. There are other underground forces that he has displeased. But all these together undoubtedly did not make up half the array that gave the good name of the Republican Party this unintentional blow. It was given by men whose conception of the relations of party to city is essentially, though they are Republicans, that of Tammany; that not the city, but the organization, comes first.

These men, however, do not represent the true Republican Party. It is the curse of our primary system that the active political minority outweighs the careless majority. The Republican Party, as a whole, stands for the same conception of good government in the city that Mr. HUGHES and Mr. ROOT do, and will prove it on Election Day.

STRIKES ON GOVERNMENT WORK.

The strikes against the contractors on Government work in various parts of the country are not so serious as they seem, and for the very reason which gives them prominence. The fact that the Government is one party in interest is assurance that the workers will be treated generously. With that certainty, the strikers cannot hope for that support in public sentiment without which strikes on a considerable scale are seldom undertaken. Even before the announcement of the Pacific Coast strikes the Government was revising its scale of pay for that sort of labor, and an increase of 10 per cent. was agreed upon by representatives of both labor and Government departments. That increase may be given to the Pacific shipping strikers, or it may serve as a standard for increase by the Government contractors. The country will assume that a standard of pay settled in that manner is reasonable, and will have no tenderness for the notion that labor can set its own wages and enforce them by strong-arm methods.

Only a few months ago the Government humbled itself to accept from labor leaders a license to conduct its business in San Francisco. Conditions were such under the local government control that the Federal business could not have been transacted without such a safe-conduct for the workers. The promptness with which Government forces checked a disposition to resort to similar methods in the shipping strike is fair warning that the shipworkers will be asked for no such privilege as was accepted from the San Francisco longshoremen last year. Government will pay fair wages, and will see that fair wages are paid on Government work by private contractors. That being done, Government will see that its work has right of way over edicts of law-breaking combinations contrary to the general interest.

It is necessary to speak boldly as well as fairly, because the strikes now pending are an inheritance from the half-settled strikes of 1916, in which issues were compromised that ought to be uncompromisable in peace, and should be settled peremptorily rather than politely in conditions of war. For example, in the present strikes, as in last year's strikes, the Pacific Coast unions are seeking a monopoly of work and wages for themselves. When they have no grievance of their own they are striking against the use of materials provided for them, because not made by affiliated workers. In Portland the employers say that the issue thus disguised is plainly declared in a demand that their shops shall be closed against nonunionists. If the shops were closed against unionists the demand that they should be opened to them would be right; that is the demand now made on behalf of all workers. Another ground for the strike is the assertion that the profits of the Government contractors are excessive. In that case it would be better that the profits should be reduced than that the wages should be raised. But the profits are reasonable, according to Government authorities, and in either case there is no relation between profits and wages, unless workers will share losses as well as profits.

It is not long since workers received their pay while employers were tending toward the poorhouse. Now employers are prosperous to such an extent that there is a demand that profiteering shall be checked. The workers demand instead that their wages shall be raised 50 per cent. out of Government resources, that is, out of taxpayers' pockets. The debate upon that should be short and conclusive.

"I cannot believe the San Francisco men realize that they are a part of the war machine and they must do their full duty," said Chairman HURLEY of the Shipping Board. "They must do their part." That expresses the general sentiment. The country is prepared to pay the price necessary to produce the labor, provided that the labor market is free and fair. It is Government's first duty to make and keep the market fair, and then to meet labor's just demands. Otherwise there would be no limit to the increase of the cost of shipping necessary to win the war for democracy.

GUESSING AT THE EXCESS PROFITS TAX.

Washington dispatches say that there is a disposition to revert to a tax on invested capital as the basis for the excess profits tax. The trouble is that "the definition of invested capital subject to taxation still is in dispute." The attempt to make a valuation of railways as a basis of regulating their rates and profits proves that. For years the railway valuators have been at work, and just now are asking for $10,000,000 more for their labors. The net result thus far has been to determine in the case of some half dozen roads that one man's guess at values is as good as another's.

The railways and their valuators have not been able even to agree upon the principles upon which the valuation should be made. On actual values they are anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent. apart. The law itself, in the opinion of those who proposed it, and who are trying to administer it, is as easy to understand as it is to recite the Chinese alphabet backward. If that is the result of experience with an attempt to value a mere twenty billions of capital, what would be the result of an attempt to find the capital investment of all corporations subject to the excess profits tax?

The task is different from the valuation of railways in more than amount. It makes no difference when the valuation of railways is completed. There would be no tears shed if it never were completed. It is different with the excess profits valuation. The Government must have its taxes year by year and the capital investment must be settled before the tax can be calculated. It is proposed to order this, although it is not possible to put the idea into words. The Treasury will find some way through the muddle, of course. A short way will be found, with no excessive niceness whether it is right or not.

THE PEACE MASK.

Wilhelmstrasse may deny that it has indirectly communicated its peace offers to the United States or has sent any trial balloons in this direction. It is, however, sending them out in the well-drilled German press. They are trial balloons, but not peace offers. Their purpose is not to affect the judgment or the actions of the Government of the United States, but to confuse the minds of the people of the United States and of the other allies as well. The German Government must know by this time that it cannot bribe or wheedle the enemy Governments. It still thinks it can fool the enemy peoples.

There is art in the very confusion and unsubstantiality of the German peace rumors. Is Belgium to be relinquished? One organ thinks it is, another that it is not. Out of the mist only one impression is to remain—that Germany wishes peace and that the Allies will not grant it to her. That impression is expected to deepen in the minds of the enemy peoples during the Winter, and Germany will help to deepen it occasionally by more strategic moves like the one she made last December.

The opinion that these rumors are circulated only for the effect at home is unfounded, if the Amsterdam dispatch speaks truth when it assigns the origin of them to Foreign Secretary KUEHLMANN. Dr. KUEHLMANN'S business is not with the German people, but with outside nations. He said at the beginning of his incumbency of that office that it was well to study "the psychology of neutrals." He is studying also the psychology of belligerents. His study inclines him to the belief that there are enough stupid or thoughtless people in the belligerent and neutral nations to be swayed by an artful propaganda which, without the least substance behind it, vaguely intimates that an honorable peace is to be had from Germany for the asking. He knows that if there are enough such people they can exert an influence on their Governments during the Winter, and the detachment of even one of the Allies would be a great diplomatic victory for him.

How little the world really has to hope from even the most liberal terms Germany is disposed to offer is sufficiently illustrated by ERZBERGER'S speech to his constituents on Sunday. ERZBERGER is the man on whom gullible Americans are counting most to present a sincere opposition to the German extremists. Here is a glimpse of what this moderate man, this conciliator, means when he talks of a peace of "reconciliation":

> Germany's position in the east is secured by an alliance with the Kingdom of Poland. Our work of freeing the subject nations of the east will remain. An independent Kingdom of Lithuania will be set up, and a similar solution will be found in Courland.

Germany is not to "annex" any countries, only to set up dummy kingdoms under German Governors bearing the title of King and acting as German drill-sergeants. This leader of the no-annexation party means by "no annexations" simply "no annexations in name." He would have Germany repeat NAPOLEON'S method in the Consulate days, when he invented nations, the Cisalpine Republic and the like, and detailed henchmen to rule over them in name, ruling them himself from Paris. This, we learn from ERZBERGER himself, is what the Reichstag meant when it passed its resolution against annexations; no annexations except of the kind patented by NAPOLEON. If this is what we are to expect from the Kaiser's devoted Opposition, what are we to expect from the Kaiser himself?

PATRIOTS AT ST. PAUL.

The patriot economists of the Non-Partisan League have assembled at St. Paul from North Dakota and way stations. Their convocation is or was to be called a Conference on the High Cost of Living. It is also spoken of as a Convention of Producers and Consumers. They want the Government to take away everybody's profits but those of the laborer and of the non-partisan farmer, who rebels at the thought of selling his wheat at the Government price.

The monarch of the Non-Partisan League and the St. Paul congress is Mr. A. C. TOWNLEY. He is a Socialist. If he has not opposed subscriptions to the Liberty Loan and the Red Cross, North Dakota newspapers have misrepresented him. He assumes to be a great patriot at present. Last Summer he believed that "our young men are going to France "to bleed for the profits of the "damned pirates." The "cry for "war came from the men who control "the trusts." Of course the present convention is not for the purpose of embarrassing the Government and hindering the prosecution of the war. It is a means of supporting the Government. Mr. TOWNLEY invites the Department of Justice to investigate the league. A league of farmers is sacred. Mr. TOWNLEY is not a farmer, but he is a sacred character in the league.

If anybody could doubt the strong patriotic feeling of the Non-Partisan League, he would be convinced of his error by the knowledge that it is to be addressed by Senator BORAH, Senator GRONNA, Senator LA FOLLETTE. Could the People's Council, had Minneapolis been kinder, have offered a richer patriotic and anti-pacifist treat?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Venice Is a World Possession.

As there is no denying that Venice is an Italian naval station, with dockyards and an arsenal of real value from a military point of view, the Austrians have some excuse for sending out flocks of airplanes to bombard it—an excuse which is entirely lacking when the Germans attack in the same way Summer resort towns on the English Coast and barely colorable in the case of London. But Venice is so little a naval station, and so much a unique and beautiful monument, perpetuating in worthy form the memory of one of the most romantic episodes in recorded history—it is so much a shrine and a place of pilgrimage for all the civilized world—that in endeavoring to destroy it the Austrians seek for themselves an advantage which, if obtained, would be no more at the cost of Italy than at that of every other country with an appreciation of what that wonderful city really is.

Such an assault upon Venice as the one so vividly described in yesterday's dispatches from a special correspondent of THE TIMES produces, therefore, a feeling of anger as fully justified, though in a different way, as that experienced when reading of the women and children killed by the aerial raids on England. If anything of military relevance or importance had ever been effected by the bombing of Venice—if there were any reasonable expectation that aviators flying at night, and dropping high explosives with what in the conditions cannot be definite aim, could measurably decrease the efficiency of the Italian Navy—complaint would not be so bitter or indignation so hot. On this occasion, however, as was the case with all its many predecessors, nothing of what might be called legitimate damage was done.

And that there was strangely little damage of any kind done by a rain of bombs lasting three hours is a fact that somehow increases, rather than decreases, the inclination to condemn as criminal and abominable the course of the Austrians. It shows the lengths they are prepared to go in offending the sensibilities of the world on a mere chance, and a chance demonstrably minute, of hurting an enemy. The raids on Venice are therefore as stupid as they are vicious.

Apprehension Proved Unfounded.

Careful reading of the presentment in regard to soap-box orators which the Grand Jury was at last permitted to hand down, and so make public, fails to reveal that it fires a single bullet into the backs of our soldiers in the trenches, nor does it provide any trace of explanation why the District Attorney took pains to remind us that the foreman of this particular Grand Jury was born in Austria. The fact that we haven't as yet any soldiers in trenches at whose backs bullets could be fired need not be emphasised; that inaccuracy was merely technical and temporal, as some of our men are already so near the trenches and so soon will be in them. Much more important is it that if doubts were raised in any minds by the references made to Mr. KONTA'S lineage they must have been all removed by the sound and sturdy Americanism preached from the beginning to the end of this document.

There is in it not a word to give aid and comfort to any of our enemies, and so as far as it makes revelation of anything, it is less "the infirmities of the law" than that, in the opinion of the jurymen, there has been, if not exactly a weakness in the execution of the law, at least an interpretation of the law by more than one class of its executors, that was unnecessarily narrow and literal. On that point, of course, the decision of the jury is not final or even authoritative—it may even be wrong. It is, however, the decision of intelligent and patriotic men, not previously influenced in any way by political or partisan motives, and to all seeming inspired by an honest and earnest desire that means may be found, and promptly, to end an abuse of free speech the seriousness of which is realized by all good citizens.

That the jurymen are not very definite in their advice, and that the difficulties in prosecution and conviction which they recognize and admit may not be as easily overcome as they believe—these things are unfortunately true. They are quite right, however, in insisting that treason and sedition are not the less dangerous because they are veiled in crafty sentences; and there is sound sense in their contention that it is the general tone of a speech, and the intended and produced effect on its hearers, not the innocence or tolerability of its separate sentences, that should determine its character.

A Portrait Drawn to the Life.

When THEODOR WOLFF, writing in the Berliner Tageblatt, says, or is made by the cable to say, that Count von LUXBURG, Germany's suddenly famous representative in Argentina, is "a very mobile man," the characterization is so nearly meaningless that one suspects the accuracy of the translation in which it appears. No such suspicion arises, however, in regard to the rest of his description as received, for not only is it beautifully lucid, but it is instantly recognized as lifelike—as a true picture not only of the man who sent the "spurios versenkt" message, but of the whole class to which he belongs.

For we, too, have seen something and read more of Prussian officials, diplomatic and other, who have "a way of rather underestimating the rest of the world and emphasizing lordly principles." We can appreciate, also, the sarcasm in the statement that the Count's manner "would oscillate between a certain patronizing superciliousness and the harsh self-assertion that has made for us so many friends."

The veracity of this portrait, like that of all painted by real artists, demonstrates itself, and is not dependent for verification on the observer's personal acquaintance with the living original.

But Herr WOLFF probably demands the impossible when he insists that Germany should send abroad men who "do not have fits of thinking themselves representatives of a higher order of human nature." As the having of such fits, and having them in such rapid succession as to be practically continuous, is the natural and inevitable result of the laborious efforts of German educators, extending through many, many years, it is distinctly unjust to condemn Count von LUXBURG for being thus convulsed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial columns of Sept. 10 commenting on the statement of the Berliner Lokal-Anzeiger that the first procedure of the Reichstag will be to send a "fitting answer to Wilson," it is stated that the Hamburger Nachrichten complains that "Wilson has apparently hypnotized" the Ersberger majority in the Reichstag Main Committee, which strongly opposes the German policy of answering arguments with epithets. It states this in order to argue that the Ersberger majority is really a minority so far as the opinion of the German people is concerned.

It is interesting at this point of their awakening to contemplate what Thomas B. Macaulay says in his "Science of Government," which he defines as an "experimental science which is usually in a state of progression."

> But time advances; facts accumulate; doubts arise. Faint glimpses of truth begin to appear and shine more and more unto the perfect day. The highest intellects, like the tops of mountains, are the first to catch and to reflect the dawn. They are bright while the level below is still in darkness. But soon the light, which at first illuminated only the loftiest eminences, descends on the plain and penetrates to the deepest valley.
> First come hints, then fragments of systems, then defective systems. The sound opinion, held for a time by one bold speculator, becomes the opinion of a small minority, of a strong majority, of a majority of mankind.

POLITENESS IN WAR.

A Disadvantage Americans May Be Expected to Overcome.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of Gertrude Atherton in THE TIMES of Sept. 13, on "More Tact Needed in France," sounds a note which one might confidently have expected to hear even earlier. It is unnecessary to question the good faith of Gertrude Atherton in the matter, but it has a wider application than appears on the surface.

Critics, claiming knowledge of America, people who have taken up residence in an alien land to avoid the crush and din of their native country's ceaseless productive effort, are common throughout Europe. More than the guileless enthusiasm of the tourist or of the fresh millionaire, it is these people who have helped to create the myth of American boorishness and crudity. It is the usual daughter-and-mother combination who have abandoned the Iowa town where father toils and whence their remittances come; the neurasthenic and senemic refugees from an American atmosphere of overkeen competition, and the individuals who find in European indifference a balm for injuries sustained in transgressing the more rigid social conventions of America, who are mainly responsible. The school teachers, the college boys, the rich travelers, and the whole enthusiastic tribe of occasional American visitors have gone to Europe in an attitude of admiration and reverence which is often almost pathetic. The meekness of these transients and the mockery of the expatriates together created the bogey of American boorishness.

The disadvantage under which America has labored by this stigma will, however, probably be removed in the course of this war. The myth of American impoliteness may linger as a cloak covering more profound dissatisfactions, but if, after shedding our blood and spending our treasure side by side with the allied armies, we persist in the same ideals of material disinterest with which we have set out, no sane European can question our real possession of that spiritual generosity and considerateness of which outward politeness is expected to be the visible symbol.

Of course, we must not overdo the rôle of savior. The few American troops now in France are of even less consequence in themselves than was England's "contemptible little army." But authoritative utterances reflecting the sound knowledge of responsible leaders in Europe assert that we hold it in our power to save the Allies and civilization. This first contingent is sent for no punitive border war, and only war-wrought sensitiveness could suppose that the American officers and men, either those already in France or those about to go there, imagine so. The fact is we can save Europe, we must save civilization, and the unreserved pledge of our wealth and ourselves testifies that we will save both.

Therefore, small talk about politeness in itself is somewhat ill-timed. The girded strength of America and her vigorous imagination have come to grips with the great problem, and as we have never yet failed so we shall not fail now.

It has been well said that French society is organized politeness. American society by the same token is idealistic opportunism made effective. In America long peace and great prosperity, the fact that our wars have been waged always for principles sometimes almost quixotic, rather than because of economic or political rivalry, have all colored our nationalism. This is different from that of any other country, with a universal breadth and impartiality, probably due to the intensely religious and protestant character of its antecedents. This is the kind of nationalism which, backed up by superior resources and power to employ them, will overcome all lesser post-Napoleonic kinds. And this is more than politeness. In it our former pacifism and present enormous military preoccupation are harmonized.

As for the tact and skill of our diplomats, when we view the performances during the last few years of Europeans most carefully trained in what was thought the best tradition, Americans need not apologize for nor mistrust the success of our somewhat unprofessional representatives. AMOS PHILLIPS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, Laurence La Tourette Driggs, in his letter in which he seeks to show the superiority in the air of the German airmen over the allied aviators appears to have lost sight of the purpose of aviators in a modern armed force. If the aviators were engaging in battle for the sole purpose of destroying the enemy and his machines, we might acknowledge, if we accept Mr. Driggs's figures as authentic and reliable, the superiority of the German airmen. But we must not lose sight of the primary object of airplanes and aviators at the front, which is to keep watch of the enemy's movements behind his lines and to conceal from the observation of enemy airmen our movements behind our lines. Superiority in the air is measured in terms of success or failure in attaining this object. Mr. Driggs's own statement that the German airmen bring down most of their aircraft behind or within their own lines is very significant of the success of the allied airmen in keeping the enemy airplanes from observing the movements of the Allies and at the same time of observing every movement of the enemy. Of course, the losses are greater on the side of the Allies, for they are pushing the air battles into the enemy's territory and keeping them there. In so doing they put out the eyes of the enemy's artillery and force him to fight in the dark.

How London Saves Coal.

> Having been appealed to by the Coal Controller, the directors have decided that the most effective way of saving coal will be by closing on Saturdays during the Autumn, Winter, and early Spring months.
> By this means there will be a very substantial saving not only of coal but also gas and electricity.
> No reduction will be made in salaries or wages as a consequence of this curtailment of the working week.

A PLEA FOR THE MEN OF '98.

You say that the load is heavy,
You say that the road is long,
So you look to the youthful levy—
They that are hale and strong.

Yes, years are a bar, in reason,
And youth must be served, we know,
Yet, make it an open season
For those who would strike a blow.

There's some of us not so jaded
But that—if it need be done—

We're eager as colts for action—
A Colt 45 can bite—
And let us chip in on the fight!

They answer—ten million strong—
But we—oh, our hearts are heavy—

ADVERTISING THE NEW LIBERTY BONDS.

The Plan Offered to the Government by the National Advertising Advisory Board.

By HERBERT S. HOUSTON,
Chairman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There was more than a million dollars of paid advertising devoted to the sale of the first Liberty Loan, a fact which your editorial in THE TIMES of the 13th overlooks. Every line of it was paid for—but not by the Government. In six great bound volumes, examples of this advertising, from every one of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts, were brought together and presented to Secretary McAdoo in Washington by the National Advertising Advisory Board, which had been constituted by the Associated Advertising Clubs, to serve the nation throughout the war without pay. In telegrams, in letters, and in person Secretary McAdoo stated to the Advertising Board that this paid advertising had been of "immeasurable value in making a market for the Liberty bonds"; he gave it as his judgment that it stood second in service only to the direct personal work of salesmen from banks and bond houses.

Many columns of this advertising appeared in THE NEW YORK TIMES and in other leading papers throughout the country, and the papers were paid their full rates for it. And the Government didn't pay for it. Patriotic bankers, merchants, and other business men contributed space in the papers for which they had contracted or they bought and paid for additional space; advertising clubs bought space; the New York Stock Exchange carried through a notable campaign of paid advertising; the billposters of the country, the street car and electric sign advertising interests, the foreign-language newspapers generously contributed paid space—the total cost of space for the entire campaign was in excess of a million dollars. Advertising writers and illustrators, largely under the direction of the National Advertising Board, prepared the copy and designs—and all without a dollar's cost to the Government.

In fact, here is the distinction that was made: the Government bought the paper on which the Liberty bonds were printed, (at least it has never been announced that paper manufacturers contributed it,) but the Government did not buy the paper space on which the advertisements of the bonds were printed. As I have stated, that space was paid for by business men and by business organizations. In a word, a small part of the people did what all the people, through their Government, should have done; for we surely believe, in waging a war for democracy, that the people are the Government—not some of them, but all of them.

There are two points strongly urged in your editorial which seem impressive, almost conclusive, but they appear far less formidable when looked at in the light of all the facts, some of which THE TIMES could hardly have known. The first is your own point that "it is not going to be necessary to promote the sale of bonds by paid advertising." In the first Liberty Loan, paid advertising was used, and Secretary McAdoo bears vigorous witness to its great value. It certainly would not be of less value in the forthcoming loan. And it happens that the high degree of value which paid advertising rendered the first loan was fully demonstrated. In Rochester, Detroit and Cleveland, where the advertising was most efficiently done, the number of bond buyers secured, in proportion to population, was far beyond the normal ratio for the country. For example, over 60,000 individual buyers were obtained for the bonds in Rochester, equivalent to a buyer in every family. This remarkable result, far in excess of the average for a city of the size of Rochester, was clearly due to the advertising. The Rochester newspapers gave as much editorial and news support, on which THE TIMES properly lays much stress, as did newspapers in any city, the Rochester bankers and business men were as generous of their time and as efficient in using it as men in other cities—but there was something in and through and behind all these efforts, the advertising, with its insistent and continuous call for action. That is the place and function of advertising—on the broad background of news and editorial comment supplied by the press it focusses the mandatory appeal to action. Hoover found this out in his work for Belgium. News and editorial space gave information, but the final spur to action was the advertising. This has been demonstrated again and again. The experiences of Rochester, Detroit, Cleveland, among larger cities, and of Joplin, Mo., and Muncie, Ind., among smaller cities, on the Liberty Loan, are only fresh demonstrations. Bonar Law made the same demonstration in England. The press of Great Britain was as patriotic as ours, and gave as much attention in news and editorial columns to the various Government loans; but the Chancellor of the Exchequer, beholding the success of advertising in raising the Kitchener army, made an experiment of advertising in floating loans. The result convinced him so completely of its efficiency and economy that he put advertising, in the eyes of all the world, to the greatest test, probably, that it has ever met. He gave it the supremely difficult task of making a direct public market among the people for the Victory Loan of $5,000,000,000, and that at an interest rate of 5 per cent., when the leading bankers in London gave it as their combined judgment that the rate should be 6 per cent. Every one knows that the Victory Loan was oversubscribed by more than five million people at the 5 per cent. rate, thus saving the English Government $50,000,000 a year for the period of the loan. The exact cost of the advertising I have not been able to learn, but the best available information is that it did not exceed $2,000,000, a much smaller selling cost than had ever been known before on a bond issue. What has been done in England can be done here, with an effective, controlled campaign of paid advertising; probably even a greater result can be obtained. For the whole world has long done us the honor to say that our advertising is better done than elsewhere, and that the American people read and are influenced by advertising as are no other people.

The second point on which your editorial lays stress is the statement of Secretary McAdoo, which he made to our board, that the Government, if it advertised at all, would have to advertise in everything. That at first glance seems to be an irrefutable argument. But it assumes that the Government is unable to discriminate. In fact, as we all know, the Government discriminates constantly. It doesn't buy shoes and blankets and steel from all manufacturers, but only from those who can meet certain conditions of price and quality and delivery. These conditions are determined by experts who discriminate constantly among manufacturers in deciding whether or not their products meet the conditions established. The same thing can be done with advertising. It is a commodity with a definite market value. Highly trained men devote their careers to a thorough study of the relative values of different forms of advertising to accomplish definite results—such as the sale of clothing, of automobiles, of bonds. There are 17,000 men and several hundred women in the various fields of advertising embraced in the membership of the Associated Advertising Clubs. From among this great number, following a careful principle of discrimination and selection, the twenty-five members of the National Advertising Board were chosen. Their services were offered to the Government without pay for "the duration of the war." It has been their privilege to serve, each member meeting his own expenses, on the first Liberty Loan and on the Red Cross campaign. They stand ready to continue to serve on the same basis.

Now the board foresaw at once the difficulty Secretary McAdoo has pointed out, and it met it squarely by proposing the same plan of action in buying advertising that the Government follows in buying all other commodities. Indeed, it went further and developed a plan for the selection and discrimination among mediums by which those who had absolutely nothing to sell the Government should decide what the Government ought to buy. A Committee on Plan and Scope of the board was made up of seven national advertisers and seven national advertising agents, able men who bought millions of dollars' worth of advertising every year for themselves and their clients, and who had no advertising to any medium to sell. In the printed plan which the board submitted to Secretary McAdoo on May 3 it was proposed that this committee would place all of its experience and knowledge, without cost, at the disposal of the Government in selecting mediums for any advertising that might be decided on. Here is a fair and clear-cut way for meeting Secretary McAdoo's difficulty. It would unquestionably work without embarrassment to the Government. No publication or medium would care to appeal from the decision of a committee possessing such knowledge and experience and representing the whole advertising world, as well as the authority of the Government. To appeal would be to advertise the fact that a publication had not been selected by men who had nothing to sell the Government and who were undertaking to buy for the Government space that would give the greatest results; and it would be as flout the judgment of men who annually place millions of dollars' worth of advertising, a fact which would not be without influence. The board submits that no plan, fairer and better calculated to safeguard the Government, is in force today that excels this one. Moreover, the official representatives of all the great fields of advertising have expressly stated that the plan was absolutely fair, and that they would abide by it.

The same issue of THE TIMES which contains this editorial carries a dramatic news story from Washington about the successful motor that has been invented for our great aircraft fleet. Secretary Baker announced that this triumphant result came from the co-operation skill of able engineers. Some day the Government will learn that advertising and selling have developed from the dark age of haphazard and guess work and become so grounded on knowledge that the can be practiced most skillfully by those who know the most about them. Then carefully co-ordinated plans of selling and advertising will be carried out that will effect so many economies that a bond issue will be floated at one-half the cost in money and time required to float the first one. In the meantime, the National Advertising Advisory Board, as it has told Secretary McAdoo, stands ready, with its twelve district boards and with the thousands of advertising men it represents, to serve the Government, without cost for its services, in every possible way.

I remember in November, 1874, getting up very early in the morning and going to see the delivery of THE SUNDAY TIMES as one of the sights then worth seeing in New York. I stayed at the New York Hotel, Broadway, which was kept by an Irishman, and he employed Irish waiters, who marched in in single file with the dishes, to the signal of a small bell. They waited with their hands on the covers for the second tinkle and then raised them aloft, and turning with their faces to the door, lined up and marched to the tinkle of the bell. All through the dinner the game went on, the waiters looking as solemn as judges. They marched in and marched out to the tinkle of the bell. A dozen of us had just landed from a voyage of twelve or thirteen days on the Cunard steamer Algeria, and I think we laughed more than we had ever done before. I have crossed many times since and have stayed at your magnificent hotels, but nothing could equal the entertainment we had at the New York Hotel.

The sanitation of New York at that time was terrible and the pavements of the streets were atrocious; it required those old fashioned coaches, hung on straps, which were then plying for hire, to make driving even safe, for jogging over the holes in the road was enough to dislocate some part of one's interior. What a price they charged! I remember old Captain Judkins of the last paddle wheel steamer, the Scotia, belonging to the Cunard Line that crossed to New York, saying that he knew of a family paying $5 to get to their hotel. I should have liked once again to have crossed the Atlantic to see the few remaining old friends of New Orleans, New York and Boston, and I am looking forward to your coming in millions to end this war, and give freedom to the world before I die, but you must hurry up or I shall not be here to see it.

Two Kaisers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I suppose it is hopelessly late to protest against the all but universal practice of applying the title "the Kaiser," which is simply the literal German equivalent of our word emperor, exclusively to the Hohenzollern Kaiser, entirely ignoring the older and no less valid claim of the Austrian monarch to the same title. That by the Kaiser one should understand Wilhelm II. when no comparison is involved is, in the present circumstances, natural, but statements that "Kaiser and Austrian Emperor confer", or that "the Austrian Empress appeals to the Kaiser" when the appeal is not simply a common one, are a misuse.

C. P. BEADLESTON TO WED SOUTHERN GIRL

MISS SEDGWICK BETROTHED

Several engagements of interest to society have been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. George White Baxter of Knoxville, Tenn., announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Miss Eleanor Baxter, to C. Perry Beadleston of New York.

Miss Baxter is a graduate of Miss Spence's School, and has been spending the Summer at East Hampton, L. I., where her parents have a Summer home. She comes from one of the most prominent families in Tennessee. Her maternal grandfather was Judge John Baxter of the United States Circuit Court, and her maternal grandfather, Charles McGhee, was a financier of note.

Mr. Beadleston is the son of the late William H. Beadleston of New York, and resides at 500 Madison Avenue. He was graduated from Yale, class of '08, and his clubs are the Meadow Brook, Racquet and Tennis, Piping Rock and Rockaway Hunt. He is a well-known polo player.

Miss Sedgwick was presented to society two seasons ago by her mother, and since then has been largely identified with the younger set, taking part in the entertainments given by the Junior League, of which she is a member.

Mr. Taylor is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Taylor of 908 Park Avenue. He is at present in training at the United States naval aeronautic station at Bay Shore, L. I., and may shortly go to France.

From Cincinnati comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Shillito, daughter of Stewart Shillito of that city, a member of one of the oldest Cincinnati families, to the Rev. Frank Herbert Stevenson, son of Mrs. William F. Ramsey of San Diego, Cal.

Miss Shillito is related to several families of New York, being a niece of Mrs. Wallace Shillito of the Plaza Hotel, and also of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pendleton Rogers. She is a cousin of John S. Rogers of Tuxedo Park, who married Miss Catharine A. C. Dodge, and of H. Pendleton Rogers, who was wed to Miss Gladys Pell.

The Rev. Mr. Stevenson is a Princeton man, and is pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant in Cincinnati.

MAY WED DUKE IN LONDON.

ROME, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburg of New York, who is engaged to marry the Duke of Oporto, brother of the late King Carlos of Portugal, has arranged for a passport for London, but is uncertain, however, whether the Duke will be able to obtain a passport for the British capital. Mrs. Van Valkenburg visited the American Embassy today to ask Ambassador Page to assist her in arranging her marriage there.

"Really, it is a love match," Mrs. Van Valkenburg told friends here.

Mrs. Van Valkenburg and the Duke of Oporto have met with difficulties in arranging their marriage in Italy. Several days ago Mrs. Van Valkenburg was informed by the American Embassy that her marriage preferably should be arranged to take place in London, as it would be impossible to have a religious ceremony performed in Italy, as she is a divorcee.

Mrs. Elisabeth Severance Allen, widow of Dr. Dudley P. Allen, was married to Francis F. Prentiss of Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday at noon in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church, the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires officiating. John L. Severance of this city gave his sister in marriage.

Only the immediate relatives of the two families and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by an informal wedding breakfast at the Ritz-Carlton, where the bride has been living.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss left later for the White Mountains on a motor trip, and will be at home at Glenallen, Mayfield Heights, Cleveland, about the middle of October.

The wedding of Miss Marian S. Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry De Forest Baldwin of 533 East Sixty-fifth Street, and Captain Perry Dunlap Smith of Chicago is to take place on Friday, Oct. 12, at the Church of the Ascension. It will be a quiet affair for the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends, and there are to be no attendants. Captain Smith is stationed at Camp Sherman, Rockford, Ill. Miss Baldwin has just returned to town with her parents from Lenox, where they spent the Summer at Glendale, their country home.

101 AMERICANS HELD CAPTIVE IN GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—American prisoners of war being held in German prison camps total 101, according to an official announcement issued today dealing with plans for provisioning these men, but which did not give their names. Five of the prisoners are enlisted men of the United States Navy who were captured when the steamer Campana was sunk by a German submarine. They and Merchant Captain Oliver of the Campana are being held at the German prison camp at Brandenburg.

On May 26 last, after war had been declared between this country and Germany, the State Department issued a statement to the effect that there were then seventy-four American prisoners of war in Germany. They had been taken from merchant vessels, and were all the American war prisoners then known to be in German hands. Since then some at first were at the German camp at Dulmen, seven at the Huvelberg camp, five at the Karlsruhe camp, and one at the Rastatt camp, in Bavaria. The names of these seventy-four American prisoners were made public by the State Department on May 29.

Through the Committee on Public Information, the Government issued this statement regarding the provisioning of the captives:

"German Prisoners of war in Germany will be furnished enough food for their subsistence independently of rations provided them by the Germans. The American Red Cross, through arrangements with the British Central Prisoners of War Committee, is doing this for the American prisoners in Germany, of whom there are now 101, and a committee of the American Red Cross has been established at Berne, Switzerland, to do this work in the future. This committee will work directly under the American Red Cross and will take over all the work of provisioning American soldiers and sailors who may be held in Germany.

"The Food Division of the Surgeon Generals office has assisted the Red Cross in the preparation of a table of food to be included in each food kit so that sufficient nutriment may be put within the prescribed weight to take care of a soldier until the next package arrives for him. A total of nine to ten pounds of food will be put in each package and the weight of the package kept under eleven pounds, as required by international agreement. These such packages for each soldier will be sent each fortnight. The German authorities have agreed that each American prisoner shall personally sign a receipt for this box. This receipt is permitted outside the amount of correspondence allowed to each prisoner.

"The food for these 'food kits' will be sent in bulk to Switzerland, where the American Red Cross Central Committee for Prisoners Relief will make up the packages. This method will save shipping space and there is, furthermore, no parcel post agreement between the United States and Switzerland. In order to fulfill the natural desire of families to send food to relatives who are prisoners, arrangements will be made later for boxes to be sent to Red Cross headquarters in Switzerland to be repacked there and sent to the prisoners for whom they are intended."

GERMAN SPY WORK PERSISTS IN PARIS

HEEDLESS TALK PERILOUS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Recent disclosures in the Bonnet Rouge affair have attracted public attention to the danger of German agents in Paris.

It is stated on good authority that the German spy system works on the following lines: Each agent sends a report of any information he can gather that strikes him as likely to affect the political, economic, military, or moral conduct of the war.

Central bureaus operating in neutral countries connect and check up all this data and pass it on to the intelligence department in Germany. The latter then considers the collection of information and draws deductions therefrom. Thus an apparently trivial fact may prove an important link in the chain of reasoning.

Herein lies the real danger to any one who talks to chance acquaintances. It is just the fact that they may think is harmless which may be of essential value to the enemy.

Such persons infest in particular the so-called American bars in the neighborhood of the opera, in some of which the American entry into the war is still being celebrated with surprising relaxation of alcohol restrictions. These persons belong generally to three classes: First, loungers of fairly reputable appearance, who frequent first-rate establishments, and a corresponding class of seedier individuals of inferior places; second, "guides" who hang around doorways, eager to aid the stranger with their knowledge of French and the seamy side of Paris life, and third, women of the undesirable class, who, though barred from first-rate bars, are admitted by others.

To cite examples of spy work. In one bar the narrow space between the counter and the wall is packed with a dense mass of khaki-clad figures, not all Americans, red-faced, jostling and all talking loudly, quite regardless of civilian listeners here and there among them. Naturally the conversation turns chiefly on the doings at the front. A Briton describes an action in which he took part to an interested group of Americans, whose questions elicit details which the enemy perhaps would sacrifice lives to know.

If one advances further one sees in the wider back part of the room rows of tables, at each of which sit girls, some alone waiting, some deep in conversation with officer, private, aviator, or sailor. Women of this class are widely utilized by German agents.

On going out into the street one may see, as I saw recently, a little party of American naval officers with a "guide" of more or less unsavory aspect. In this instance I knew the man to be dishonest and untrustworthy, if nothing worse, and pretending the need of a match, I communicated my suspicions to the officer, who seemed to be the senior. His reply was typical: "We never saw the fellow before today. We are here only forty-eight hours, do not speak French and need some one to show us around. What else can we do?"

He then thanked me and said that he would warn his companions to keep a careful guard on their tongues. As he rejoined them I heard the guide say in a voice that showed that English was certainly not his native tongue: "I betcha he spoke about me. Some chaps always want to spoil your bit of sport."

In another bar near a large hotel especially patronized by allied officers the tactics are somewhat different. Here the appearance of the men is fairly good, though women are not excluded. This place is a haunt of the doubtful "agents d'affaires" as the French call persons who propose marvelous get-rich-quick schemes to young and unwary officers. Should the victim bite, it develops that the scheme involves his using his influence or knowledge in facilitating deals with the Government. In some cases, perhaps, these people, either as principals or intermediaries, actually have something to sell, but whether that is so or not is all the same to their unfortunate young "partner."

Once he has lent himself to furthering their plans he is completely in their hands, and money blackmail is only another of the perils to which he is exposed. Unless reports on the subject err greatly, more than one promising young soldier, including a prominent French aviator, has been thus ruined in such places.

SAYS U-BOAT EFFORTS FAIL.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The London Times naval correspondent, analyzing the latest Admiralty return of shipping losses, says:

"The continuance of the drop in the number of heavier vessels destroyed is an encouraging feature of the week. At the rate of loss which has ruled for the first two weeks of September there is absolute certainty that the victory so confidently anticipated by the Germans earlier in the year cannot be achieved."

At the same time the correspondent warns against undue elation over the figures. He says:

"While the cumulative effect of these losses, particularly in vessels of heavier tonnage, continues to deprive us of shipping more quickly than it can be replaced the situation must be regarded as dangerous. When necessary corrections have been made, it is shown by the figures of this week's return that the number of large ships sunk was eight, which is the lowest yet. If, then, the submarines have really concentrated their attention on vessels of heavier tonnage, they do not appear to have accomplished their purpose to anything like the extent which followed their earlier efforts. Circumstances do not support the claim of the enemy to be employing more U-boats now than formerly."

IMPORTS OF COPPER DOUBLE DURING WAR

WAR TOTAL IS $246,778,205

With production throughout the world greatly stimulated by war demands, imports of copper into the United States in the fiscal year 1917, which ended June 30 last, broke all previous records. They were more than double the value and volume of entries into this country in the fiscal period of 1914, immediately preceding the outbreak of hostilities in Europe. Figures prepared by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce showed that the total value of copper in all forms brought into the United States in the fiscal year 1917 reached the unprecedented value of $126,562,129, compared with $54,506,254 in 1914.

During the three full fiscal years covering the war, 1915, 1916, and 1917, the smelters, munition factories, and other manufacturing plants of the United States consumed a grand total of foreign copper estimated on the basis of values prevailing at place of shipment at $246,778,205. As much of the copper imported in 1914 was available for munitions at the outbreak of the war, it was thought probable that the total amount of foreign copper actually consumed in this country in the entire war period was valued at close to $301,284,459 at the ports of shipment. Before reaching the munition factories it was substantially doubled. The foregoing figures are exclusive of the large quantity of domestic copper also utilized in the turning out of shells, munitions, and other articles for military purposes.

An interesting feature of the Government statistics relating to copper is the big gain recorded in the entries here of ore. The value of ore receipts in 1917 was $10,785,974, against $10,137,244 in 1914. In the latter year Germany was a factor in the American import trade to the extent of 4,192,217 pounds, representing a value of $395,085, the empire's shipments besides copper in ore, including matte, regulus, and concentrates. German shipments here in 1915 showed the effect of home war requirements, for they fell to 1,281,443 pounds, worth $159,626. No Teutonic imports of copper were recorded in the fiscal years 1916 and 1917.

Counting copper in the forms of ore, matte, regulus, concentrates, and coarse metal, this country's imports in 1917 reached 332,576,082, while in 1914 similar imports were returned at a value of $135,096,984. The chief contributing countries in 1917 were Mexico, $9,340,830; Chile, $7,427,078; Cuba, $6,394,570; Canada, $5,469,226; Spain, $254,477, and "other countries," $5,630,601.

Copper imports in a manufactured or unmanufactured state totaled $93,703,230 in 1917. Copper returned under the Government classification as "all other" brought the grand total to $93,986,047.

Chile and Peru, both of which have enormously increased their production of metal since 1914, were this country's leading sources of supply in 1917, the Chilian entries of copper in various forms other than ore totaling 188,483,296 pounds, valued at $38,856,706, while Peru sent 86,300,862 pounds, worth $20,706,232. Other contributing countries were Canada $15,434,910, Mexico $15,084,086, Japan $2,304,018 and "other countries" $1,312,067. The United Kingdom which, "before the war, figured as shipper of the commodity to the United States, made a poor showing in 1917, as copper receipts from Britain were down to 20,686 pounds, valued at a mere $3,211. Australia, which in other years figured in the entries of certain of their citizens, and said he would offer a resolution censuring those who were responsible for the imputation.

Group Discussion In Afternoon.

The afternoon was given up to group discussions of the function of commercial organizations during the war. Fuel conservation and the better use of freight cars and terminal facilities were discussed by one group, before which A. W. Shaw, Chairman of the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense, said that the basis as to how far the war would extend Government control of business was directly up to the individual business men.

"The decision for or against the continuance of the democratic system to which Americans are accustomed does not really depend on the Government," he said. "It depends on the way you and I and other business men carry on our private enterprise during the crisis. Insist on your right to use men and materials as you choose and to feather your nest regardless of the country's need, and you throw your weight against the very conditions which have enabled your business to exist. Forget your technical and temporary rights and self-interest and you help to preserve for yourselves and your children the individualistic system in which we all believe."

Edward A. Filene of Boston spoke of the part that business could play in the reconstruction of the world after the war, and, acting on a suggestion from Parisian business men, proposed that the Chamber of Commerce of the United States appoint a committee to consider the question of the reconvening of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce at the earliest expedient time.

Creation of a great war committee of business men representing all branches of industries to deal directly with the Government in war purchases was proposed in a resolution adopted today by the manufacturers section. A central Government purchasing agency to take over the functions of the war industries board and the purchasing departments of the army and navy also was recommended.

Bonus acerbity was occasioned in one of the group meetings by the statement of Alfred Koch of Toledo that 50 per cent. of the retail dealers did not realize that the country was at war. Bentley P. Neff of Duluth declared that to his personal knowledge 40 per cent. of them realized it to the extent of having contributed their sons to military service.

Tomorrow's meetings will deal with the readjustment of business to conditions after the war, and in particular with the functions which foreign trade can fulfill in promoting national interests during and after the conflict.

BELIEVES PEACE FAR OFF.

America Has Not Yet Awakened, Head of British Admiralty Says.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 19.—Belief that the end of the war is yet far off and that America has not fully awakened to its seriousness is expressed in a letter written by Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the British Admiralty, to George E. Ecker of this city. Mr. Ecker was West Virginia manager for a Pittsburgh lumber company at the time the present head of the British Navy as a boy of 19 or 20 was tallying logs and inspecting lumber at Nicoletta, near here. The letter, in part, follows:

"I think we are a long way from the end of the war. I think that America is finding it a little difficult to realize—just as Great Britain did in the early days of the war—that it is a long way between declaring war and putting your whole back into it; and that both determination and sacrifice are called for if the nation is going to acquit itself with credit, but I have no doubt at all that eventually America will do so.

"President Wilson is a great man, and realizes what is wanted, and when the nation understands, as it does not yet understand, I have no doubt it will respond. It is a disadvantage which all democratic and peace-loving people who have never planned for a big war, such as Great Britain and the United States suffer from, that they realise slowly what war means. We realised it slowly even with the help of our heavy casualties in our small army in August, 1914, but perhaps, with the national imagination to help them, which is much stronger with you than with us, America may realize it more quickly."

GERMAN TEXTBOOKS BARRED

Cincinnati to Cut Those Which Strengthen Fatherland Ties.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—The German Textbook Censoring Committee of the Cincinnati public schools announced at a meeting today that it had recommended to Superintendent of Schools Condon that the books "Im Vaterland" and "Von dem grossen König" be immediately eliminated in their entirety. It added that a number of other German books would undoubtedly be taken out of the schools. Prohibition of the following is intended:

"Anything that seems to strengthen the bond between the Fatherland and Americanized Germans rather than between Americanized Germans and the country of their adoption.

ginning of this harvest the lowest in our history, and many of us have been under the keenest anxiety lest we would face absolute shortage. This anxious period is now happily passed.

"The demand in many commodities during the coming year is beyond our capacity to furnish if we consume our normal amounts. The necessity of maintenance of the Allies is our first line of defense, and our duty to humanity in feeding the neutrals demands of us that we reduce our every unnecessary consumption and every waste to the last degree, and even then the world is dependent on us much for its protection. Owing to the limitation of progress we must confine our exports to the most concentrated foodstuffs, grain, beef, pork, dairy products, and sugar.

"The large question of the hour is price fixing, for the suspension of the law of demand and supply as an equitable, economic law is forcing our hand in every direction. We will find as we go on with the war and its increasing economic disruption that first one commodity after another will need to be taken into control. We will, however, profit by experience if we lay down no hard and fast rules, but if we deal with every situation on its own merits. So long as demand and supply have free play in a commodity, we had best leave it alone.

"The Food Administration powers to fix prices lie in export buying, the power to buy and sell certain commodities. The further power to enter voluntary agreements with producers. One illusion in the mind of the public I am anxious to get clear. The Food Administration, through its own authority and the co-operation of other Government agencies, can accomplish a great deal, but it is limited absolutely to that area of commerce between the producer and the retailer. We are stopped in law within this area. We can only use influence on both the retailer and producer, and depend, upon their patriotism. In this area we can only regulate the flow of trade and hold it to moderate profits and excise speculation. This is an economic step short of price fixing, though by means we can accomplish it by indirect means I have quoted above. In the Food Administration we intend to confine ourselves to the ten or twelve fundamental staple or basic food commodities that make up the basis of life.

"It is true high prices reduce consumption, but they reduce it through the methods of famine. There is no national conservation in robbing our working classes of the ability to buy food. Real conservation lies in the equitable distribution of the least necessary amount, and in this country we can only hope to obtain it as a voluntary service, voluntary self-denial, and voluntary reduction of waste, by each and every man, woman, and child according to his abilities. If we are to have ascending prices we must have ascending wages. But as the wage level rises with inequality is the door leading to strikes, disorder, riots, and defeat of national efficiency. The verdict of the world's experience is in favor of price control as the lesser evil.

"The total experience of Europe has demonstrated that methods of price control such as maximums and minimums are a fallacy, but one formula has remained, and that is the fixed, specified price for every stage of a given commodity based yearly as may be on the cost of production and a reasonable return for capital.

"The constant dominant thought in price must be the stimulation of production. The result of price fixing in wheat and flour has reduced distribution and distribution charges so that there is a $5 per barrel increase to the farmers and a decrease to the consumer. It appears to us that no right-minded man wants profit from the war. If he does he should be branded with the brand of Judas for selling the blood of our sons for profit."

The garden pier was crowded tonight, and hundreds of persons were turned away, disappointed in their desire to hear Mr. Hoover and Lord Northcliffe, head of the British War Mission.

Lord Northcliffe followed Mr. Hoover. He praised the Food Administrator and told of the magnitude of the British organization of England and France in the war.

Lord Northcliffe said that the United States, he did not doubt, would come to a realization that the individual business enterprise, and that the country must draw on its best resources in chemistry, engineering, transportation, manufacturing, and distribution.

"Almost all of the industries in our country," Lord Northcliffe said, "have been remade by the war. One of the first practical things done in Great Britain to assist in winning the war was to lengthen the day by adding an hour in the morning and dropping an hour in the afternoon. You will require vast refrigerating stores for the preservation of meats and other foods for your armies. At this time six months from now you will probably have between 800,000 and 800,000 men in France. The task of the refrigeration machinery that must be established.

"This war is the greatest business the world ever knew, and in our country we are doing nothing else. Let me tell you that you will have to furnish between five and six pairs of shoes a year in the earliest parts of the lines at the front and twelve pairs at the hard parts for each of the 700,000 or 800,000 men you will soon have on the front."

Lord Northcliffe pointed out that the average life of a rifle was six weeks as one instance in addition to those already cited of the amount of business organization which must be created in the United States on account of the war.

A. C. Bedford Speaks.

The morning session of the conference was devoted to consideration of problems of transportation. A. C. Bedford, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, talked on the gasoline situation.

The conservation of the present supply by the economical use of automobiles for pleasure purposes, and the speeding up of production by financing companies to drill new wells is needed to give the Government the necessary petroleum and by-products supply to carry through its war program, Mr. Bedford declared. He added that, with other oil fields closed by the war, the Allies now looked upon the United States for the supply for war machines, ship and air craft, which placed the additional burden here because of the war program for increased merchant marine and airplanes.

Raymond B. Stevens of the Federal Shipping Board warned the meeting that the pinch in shipping was likely to come in the next six or eight months, recommending that every effort be made to tide over the emergency, and that the restriction of coastwise trade to American vessels be suspended for the period of the war.

Hoyt A. Wheeler, former President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, pleaded for Government aid to the railroads, predicting that Federal control of the railroads would be brought ten years nearer by the war.

In discussion following the addresses in the morning A. E. Winter of Green Bay, Wis., declared that the people of that State "deeply resent the shadow of disloyalty" which had been cast upon them by the activities of certain of their citizens, and said he would offer a resolution censuring those who were responsible for the imputation.

Group Discussion In Afternoon.

The afternoon was given up to group discussions of the function of commercial organizations during the war. Fuel conservation and the better use of freight cars and terminal facilities were discussed by one group, before which A. W. Shaw, Chairman of the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense, said that the basis as to how far the war would extend Government control of business was directly up to the individual business men.

"The decision for or against the continuance of the democratic system to which Americans are accustomed does not really depend on the Government," he said. "It depends on the way you and I and other business men carry on our private enterprise during the crisis. Insist on your right to use men and materials as you choose and to feather your nest regardless of the country's need, and you throw your weight against the very conditions which have enabled your business to exist. Forget your technical and temporary rights and self-interest and you help to preserve for yourselves and your children the individualistic system in which we all believe."

Edward A. Filene of Boston spoke of the part that business could play in the reconstruction of the world after the war, and, acting on a suggestion from Parisian business men, proposed that the Chamber of Commerce of the United States appoint a committee to consider the question of the reconvening of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce at the earliest expedient time.

Creation of a great war committee of business men representing all branches of industries to deal directly with the Government in war purchases was proposed in a resolution adopted today by the manufacturers section. A central Government purchasing agency to take over the functions of the war industries board and the purchasing departments of the army and navy also was recommended.

Bonus acerbity was occasioned in one of the group meetings by the statement of Alfred Koch of Toledo that 50 per cent. of the retail dealers did not realize that the country was at war. Bentley P. Neff of Duluth declared that Velvets Selling Freely Here.

The cool weather earlier in the month is held responsible for the snappy demand for velvets and velveteens at retail that is reported here. The darker shades especially have done well, though the call for the brighter ones is by no means limited. For the time being the movement of corduroys is not so brisk as it might be, but better things are expected of these goods as the season advances. The paucity of supplies of the finer velvets, including those from the other side, has resulted in higher over-the-counter prices, but this does not seem to have affected the buying very seriously. Brocades are reported active at retail also, though a good part of them, it is said, is being used for linings. In certain quarters a retarded retail movement of black silks is reported, but this by no means appears to be general.

Cloaks and Suits Sell Readily.

Large stock houses in the cloak and suit trade, to whom retailers are wont to go for their immediate requirements, report a very satisfactory volume of activity for this time of year. Retailers, even in those sections of the country not touched by the recent cool spell, are taking merchandise very readily in any style that accords with the latest fads. The black velvet coat, one of the novelty features of the season, apparently is being well received by the buying public, local jobbers and wholesalers having taken many substantial reorders for this type of garment.

Ribbon Novelties Are Popular.

Ribbon manufacturers of this city, particularly those making a large variety of novelties, are reported to be experiencing so far one of the best Septembers in their history. Gros grains and wide fancy ribbons are widely sought, the latter particularly due to the popularity of large knitting bags of this material. Jacquard effects seem to be the most favored designs, though two-tone satins also are reported as being very well taken. The ribbon novelties featured at the recent style show in Chicago are said to have been particularly large, but it appears to have been more regular and put through with more confidence than previously."

New Practice In Export Trade.

A number of export firms shipping goods to foreign countries, and particularly South America, have recently adopted the practice of instructing manufacturers of staple goods with whom they place orders to fill the order in question "unless the price has advanced beyond 25 per cent. within the last six months, or since the last previous order, without further consultation." It was pointed out by a prominent exporter that the delays in communicating either by mail or by cable were such that often, before confirmation of an advance in price could be obtained, there was still another increase. It was costly to the foreign buyer and not infrequently resulted in business being lost altogether. The new practice is expected to prove advantageous to all concerned.

To Aid in Cotton Shipping.

With a view to revising the present methods of shipping cotton, so that a prompt and economical movement of the present crop may be assured, a meeting will be held in Washington on Friday, Oct. 5, at 10 A. M., under the auspices of the National Council of American Cotton Manufacturers and with the approval of the Department of Commerce and of the Railroads' War Board of the Council of National Defense. The conference has been made necessary by the shortage of foreign and coastwise shipping growing out of the war, as well as the need of conserving rail freight space to the fullest possible extent. Cotton, the announcement of the meeting points out, rarely reaches the weight capacity of the cars in which it is shipped, because of its bulk, and any changes that will result in placing a larger number of bales in a car will aid materially in solving the problem. Cotton growers, ginners, compressors, shippers and carriers, representatives of cotton exchanges, and cotton manufacturers are among those invited to be present.

Drug Buyers Mark Time.

There have been few important changes in prices of drugs lately, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today. Buyers are reluctant to replenish stocks, owing to high prices and the uncertainty regarding shipments from abroad. The scarcity of stock, however, has had the effect of restricting speculation. The week's most important advances were on cocaine hydrocloride, Russian cantharides, morphine and certain essential oils. The principal reductions were on arnica flowers, mercury, menthol and shellac.

Sheetings Do Pretty Well.

In view of the recent slowness in the coarse fabric end of the local gray goods market, little fault could be found with the movement of sheetings here yesterday.—Contract sales of four-yard 56-60s were made at 12 cents. There were reports of November-December sales of 36-inch 48-square five-yard goods at 9 cents, but most sellers were said to be asking 9¼ cents for them. In the wide goods, 9½ cents was paid for 40-inch 4.20s for nearby delivery, while quick shipments of 8.75 sheetings in the same width brought 10¾ cents.

Printcloth Sales Fairly Large.

A pretty fair business in printcloths was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday. Sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made from first hands at 9 cents for shipment in January and February of next year, while spots of this construction sold from second hands at 9¼ cents. With these sales, however, came the virtual cleaning up of the lots available for any nearby delivery under 9¼ cents. Nearby sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made by both first and second hands at 10¼ cents, while the mills sold October-November deliveries of 39-inch 72-76s at 12¼ cents. Eight cents was paid for nearby shipments of 38½-inch 60-48s. Dimity checks were about the most active of the so-called specialties. Printcloth prices, first hand, closed this way:

39-inch, 56-44s	7¾@	38½-inch, 60-48s	8@

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Trade conditions in the Boston wool market improved considerably during the week, and sales of 7,500,000 pounds took place. Large transfers of territory wools and of fine noils are reported both to the Government and to mills direct, besides sales of other lines generally.

"As long as large Government buying exists in the woolen goods market, it is unlikely that manufacturers will be forced to keep any machinery idle. Producers of woolen goods are making every effort to deliver the goods required by the Government, postponing or canceling entirely certain civilian contracts. Prices are not likely to be much lower, although few expect any radical increase.

"The cotton goods market appears to have reached the balancing point for the present, and it is felt that buying will be larger and that prices have partly, at least, discounted the conservatism in general distributing conditions. Buying during the week has not been particularly large, but it appears to have been more regular and put through with more confidence than previously."

WOMEN TO AID BOND SALE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Under the auspices of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee, of which Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, is Chairwoman, an effort is to be made to enlist every woman in America in the second Liberty Loan campaign. A conference for the purpose has been called for Sept. 27 and 28 in the Pan American Building in Washington. Secretary McAdoo will be among the speakers, the list of whom includes other Government officials and prominent financiers as well as members of the Women's Committee.

The delegates will include the members of the Woman's Committee of the National Council of Defense, and the Chairwomen of their State divisions, Chairwomen of the twelve Federal Reserve districts, and State Chairwomen appointed by the Women's Liberty Loan Committee, and the heads of all women's organizations of nation-wide membership who are members of the Advisory Council of the committee.

"This conference of the woman's Liberty Loan forces of America," said Mrs. McAdoo today, "will inaugurate plans of national scope for the sale of the second issue of Liberty Bonds. We recognize that united effort of the women of the country is as essential to success as the united efforts of the men, and that when a nation calls for help it calls upon the women as well as upon its men. It is our aim that there shall be a liberty Bond in every home."

Syndicate Offers Gillette Stock.

Stock of the Gillette Safety Razor Company is now being offered to the public at $80 a share by a syndicate composed of Jackson & Curtis, Curtis & Sanger, Chase & Co., James L. Marten & Co., Aldred & Co., and Cassat & Co. The underwriters' announcement says that it is proposed that dividends at the rate of $7 a share per annum shall be paid, in which case investment in the stock will yield 8¾ per cent. Of the 100,000 shares of stock purchased by the syndicate, about 60,000 shares have been withdrawn from sale. A $6,000,000 issue of five-year 6 per cent. gold notes of the company was announced last week. The notes are offered at 95, yielding 7.20 per cent.

Uniform Fabrics Well Sought.

Local mill agents and wholesalers report continuing activity in the demand for olive drab serges, gabardines and heavy overcoatings from those clothiers and military supply houses catering to the soldiers' wants. Rumors of price cutting in the retail market apparently are not having any effect as yet on the call for these fabrics. "That an imperative demand will continue for some time to come," said an authority in the trade, "is evident from the plans being laid by the War Department in Washington for further increasing this country's military forces, and from the practical certainty of war continuing for another year at least."

For Well-Dressed Women

The Fashion Section of The New York Times, Sunday, October 7th, will publish photographic reproductions by rotogravure of new designs in women's wear for Fall and Winter by the leading French dressmakers and milliners. There is no abatement in richness, beauty and originality in these wonderful creations of new gowns, wraps, hats and furs, which will be de rigueur during the next few months in every line of social activities—the reception, the ball, the theatre, and the promenade. These creations of the masters of the dress art can be utilized by those whose means do not run beyond moderately priced materials, thus giving all women the opportunity of appearing in latest styles. Articles by writers of wide knowledge and authority accompany the designs.

Sunday, October 7th.

A factor of direct influence in yesterday's developments in the securities markets was apparently the decidedly easier tone of the money market. Whereas traders in stocks had met with disappointment on Tuesday in regard to an immediate effect of especial banking oversight of money rates, they had reason to be more cheerful when time money slipped down from 6 to as low a figure as 5¼ per cent. for some loans yesterday, while demand money was reported plentiful in the afternoon at 2½ per cent. The money movement was accompanied by more active buying of stocks than had been witnessed in several days, with consequent net gains running from 1 to more than 5 points.

The breadth of the market attracted comment, as did the fact also that railroad issues profited nearly, if not quite, as much as the popular industrial and mining shares from the improvement of sentiment. Canadian Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Delaware & Hudson, Reading, and Union Pacific were conspicuous for their upturns of two points and more. Delaware & Hudson's gain may have had its roots in the excellent statement for August, showing a surplus above fixed charges of $970,076, compared with a total no greater than $254,147 in the same month last year. In the eight months ended with August, 7.08 per cent. was earned on the company's stock, against 8.45 per cent. in that period of 1916. At the same time, the course of the other rails and many industrials indicated that the trading community was in better spirits than before, a condition difficult to trace to any particular influence outside the softening of money. Steel scored the usual advance of three and one-quarter points, with increases as large or larger recorded by many of its compatriots.

Permission was granted by the Treasury Department for gold exports to an amount slightly in excess of $1,000,000 to South America and Japan. This procedure was chiefly significant because of the proof supplied that the discretion of the Government authorities in respect to the gold outgo is not to be exercised to the complete cessation of exports. It stands to reason, however, with the vast needs for funds which the country faces in carrying on the war, the supplies of gold money in the nation's vaults will be zealously conserved. It is not impossible that the external drain upon the gold will be closely limited to shipments necessary for the payment of merchandise purchased for importation into the United States.

The situation of silver, as well as of gold, was the subject of fresh interest by reason of another extraordinary advance in the price, amounting to fully two cents an ounce. The quotation of $1.05½ cents per ounce, based on the equivalent quotation in London, showed a gain of nearly seven cents in a week and of about thirty-seven cents in a year. In the opinion of some students of market conditions silver is reflecting the reduction of supplies resultant from the long continued slackening of mining operations in the copper districts.

The brighter aspect of stock prices checked critical discussion of the price-fixing program at Washington, which had supplied matter for gloomy contemplation on other days of the week. Steel trade periodicals hinted that a decision in regard to steel quotations was expected before the end of the week.

LONDON MARKET IS INACTIVE

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The stock market was inactive with a generally good undertone today. Russian, Japanese and Chinese bonds were the firmest in the gilt-edged section, while Java rubber and silver and tin mine shares were strong features in the miscellaneous department. Argentine rails recovered slightly. Home issues were dull.

Money and discount rates are quietly firm pending developments in the New York money market and the effect on exchanges of America's shipments to neutrals.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 61 francs 15 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 15 centimes.

BIG JUMP IN COTTON

Net Gain for Day of 16-91 Points Due Partly to Unfavorable Crop News.

Highly unfavorable weather and crop reports, short covering and some increased export buying yesterday sent the market on the New York Cotton Exchange forward even more strongly than on the preceding day. March contracts, for example, at one point sold at 21.54c, 91 points above Tuesday's closing price, and some of the other months showed comparable advances. The result of the sharp advance of the morning was a large amount of profit-taking in the early afternoon, which brought about the usual temporary reaction of 35 to 40 points. There was a very firm undertone to the market throughout, however, and the closing prices were not far below the highest reached in the morning. The net advance on the day was from 15 to 91 points.

Peace talk had a part in the advance, but the weather report dominated the day's session. There was even talk of a reduced crop indication from the Government next month as a result of the unfavorable advices of the day, which were virtually general throughout the South. Labor shortage was also reported from several sections as likely to have an unfavorable effect on the crop.

The action of the market during the entire day suggested the presence of a very nervous short interest and a more bullish average of sentiment around the ring. The market opened firm at an advance of 12 to 53 points, with active months selling 77 to 91 points net higher before the end of the morning. About half this advance was lost during the early afternoon, but January closed at 21.16c, compared with 21.36c, the high level of the day, and 20.48c, the final price of Tuesday.

The weekly report of a Memphis authority read very favorably as to crop conditions, but was overshadowed by the weekly report of the Weather Bureau and Montgomery advices estimating the yield of that State at only 650,000 bales. The next Government report will be published on Oct. 2, giving the condition and indicated yield as of next Wednesday. Liverpool was a very active buyer again yesterday morning, either to undo hedges or to cover short sales. There were no exports yesterday so far as reported. Southern spot markets as officially reported were generally ¼c to ⅜c higher.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Advices from Liverpool said that supplies of wheat for the season are now assured and that it is now a question of getting the tonnage for its transportation. Receipts at Western points continue to increase, the total being 1,182,000 bushels, compared with 1,821,000 bushels for the corresponding day last year. Reports from Minneapolis denied the rumors that mills are not able to secure wheat for grinding, and stocks of wheat at that point have increased 64,000 bushels during the last four days. Cash prices here are quoted on the Government basis at $2.27 for No. 2 red and No. 2 hard and $2.30 for No. 1 Northern Duluth.

CORN.

The corn market moved feverishly within a range of about 2c a bushel, and the tone was heavy with active selling on the bulges. It was evident, however, that shorts are not disposed to take much punishment, and when prices started upward there was a general rush to cover, which left the market firm, with net gains of ¼c to ½c. Cash corn in the West was firmer, with prices in the leading markets ranging from ½c to 3c above Tuesday's quotations. Argentine corn is being offered here in fair volume, but buyers are inclined to await arrivals to ascertain the quality. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.17¾ and No. 2 mixed at $2.15¾, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was influenced more or less by the action of corn, but, while at one time prices were somewhat above the previous close, final quotations were ¼c to ⅜c net lower. Evidence that export buyers were out of the market temporarily, at least, seemed to take the edge off prices, while, moreover, the movement at interior points was liberal, aggregating 1,514,000 bushels, compared with 1,211,000 last year. The local spot market was steady; standard quoted at 68¾c; No. 2 white, 67c; No. 3 white, 66c; No. 4 white, 65@65¼c; fancy clipped white, 67@70c; ordinary clipped white, 66@67c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was moderately active and firmer, prompted by continued strength in the hog position and the small packing for the week, which was placed at 363,800, against 482,000 last year. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 14,000; estimate for Thursday, 17,000. Kansas City received 6,000 and Omaha 5,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was strong and higher, closing with net gains of 22 to 26 points. Total sales were 35,700 barrels. The buying was prompted by the action of the bard and cotton markets, while sentiment was also influenced by the strength in the spot position and the evident good demand for oil for consumptive purposes. COFFEE.

An early advance in the coffee market yesterday was attributed to a more optimistic view of peace prospects, with the demand coming largely from brokers with cotton trade connections. This buying, however, was of comparatively small proportions, and after showing a net advance of about 5 to 6 points, prices sagged off under scattered realizing. There also seemed to be a little trade selling, probably to undo hedges, with the market closing net 2 points higher to 1 point lower. Sales were reported of 27,250 bags. The interior was said to be showing more interest, both in cost and freights, and the local spot market, which closed steady at 8¾ for Rio 7s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

There were no fresh developments in the market for raw sugar and the small balance remaining unsold is in strong hands and offerings are not being pressed. Some September shipment Cubas were available at 5½ cost and freight, but found no buyers, refiners having no authority to make further purchases until they are in possession of the full working plan of the Government control proposition. Spot prices were nominally unchanged as follows: Centrifugal 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c; cost and freight, 5¾c. There was a better demand for refined sugar at list prices, it being the belief in the trade that distributors are poorly supplied for October wants, but the situation promises to become acute, as refiners are very short of raw supplies, one large refiner shutting down, and it is not at all improbable that others may have to close down their plants sooner or later unless the situation is promptly relieved by action at Washington.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,528 packages. Under some pressure to sell prices were somewhat lower yesterday and the market had an easy tone. Most receivers have some surplus stock which they are urging for sale. The weakness, however, is confined to the better grades of creamery; other qualities moving up fairly well. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 44¼@45¼c; extras, (92 score,) 44@44½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 43@43¾c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 41@42¼c; thirds, 40@40½c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 45@45½c; extras, 45¼@45¾c; firsts, 43¾@44¼c; seconds, 41½@43c; State, dairy, tubs, finest, 43¾c; good to prime, 41½@43c; common to fair, 38@41c; renovated, extras, 42½@43c; firsts, 41½@42c; lower grades, 38@40c; imitation creamery, firsts, 39@40c; ladles, current make, firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 37½c; lower grades, 36@37c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 37½@38c; No. 2, 36¾@37c; lower grades, 36@36c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 9,663 cases. With the Jewish trade on hand again the market showed a little more sign of life, but the demand is still moderate and selective. High qualities are called for and are rated steady to firm. Good value cheap stock, including dirties and checks, in pretty good demand and steady. Medium grades still very quiet and in liberal accumulation. RESERVE BOARD FOR LIMITED GOLD EXPORTS

Since the issuance of President Wilson's proclamation prohibiting the exportation of coin, bullion, and currency without a license from the Treasury Department there has been considerable uncertainty with respect to the policy the Federal Reserve Board in Washington would adopt in determining what shipments, in their opinion, are "compatible with the public interest," and applications for which should be granted. Although the board has not made any public announcement on the subject, it was learned yesterday that the board was disposed to approve only those applications for permits which showed plainly that the exportation of gold coin or bullion was required in payment of specific purchases of merchandise.

It is understood that the board will not, for the present at least, approve any applications which show that the prospective exporter plans to ship gold out of the country for the purpose of a foreign exchange transaction. When the President issued his so-called gold embargo proclamation the question was raised whether the Government would sanction the shipment of gold for the purpose of settling artificial trade balances that had been created, or might be created, as a result of the shifting of sterling, franc, and ruble credits to this market. On account of the depreciation in British, French, and Russian exchanges, some of the neutral countries and Japan have been selling foreign bills in New York, and have indirectly converted their sterling, franc, and ruble credits into American currency, and have managed to export gold from the United States. Bankers have felt that gold exports arising from such transactions should not be allowed, and they are generally pleased with the attitude adopted by the board.

The application forms which must be filled out by prospective shippers in triplicate, and filed with the Federal Reserve Bank, require that the object of the shipments be plainly indicated. These applications are considered by the Reserve Bank, which forwards its recommendation to the Federal Reserve Board, which finally passes on them, and requests the Treasury Department to issue the licenses in meritorious cases.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank has received in the last ten days a great many applications, but thus far only about six licenses have been granted. These have applied to coin, bullion, and currency shipments to South America, Japan, Spain, Canada, and India. Among the shippers receiving permits are the Bankers Trust Company and the Mercantile Bank of the Americas, the latter forwarding $1,000,000 of gold to one of its South American branches. There was withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury yesterday gold coin to the amount of $250,000, but the destination was not made public.

The Reserve Bank announced that the Treasury Department had issued a ruling to the effect that shipments of Canadian silver coin and paper currency might be made to Canada without license, the exporter being required only to advise the bank of his shipments.

SILVER AT $1.05½ AN OUNCE

The price of silver continues to advance and new high records for the present movement are established daily. Silver was quoted yesterday at $1.05½ per ounce, a rise of 2 cents from Tuesday's level. With the exception of a brief period in 1890, yesterday's price is the highest since November, 1879. In London the price of silver moved up another penny, selling at 53⅝ pence.

The price of $1.05½ compares with 68⅝ cents a year ago, with 86¾ cents a month ago, and with 98⅝ cents a week ago.

The upward movement in silver is due mainly to the increased demand of the metal for currency purposes, and also to the suspension of mining operations in Montana and in Mexico on account of labor troubles.

Accountants for War Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The American Institute of Accountants, in session here today, decided to take a war census of all accountancy students and recent alumni of schools of accounting who may be of service to the Government. The Institute has already provided several trained accountants for responsible positions in connection with the departments at Washington and in charge of the cantonments throughout the country. W. Sanders Davies of New York was re-elected President of the Institute. Other officers chosen were George O. May of New York and Waldron H. Rand of Boston, Vice Presidents, and Adam Ross of Philadelphia, Treasurer.

Dividend-bearing stocks bid and offered in The Annalist every Monday by reputable firms in the Open Security Market. The stocks and bonds on sale are not listed on any Exchange. Times Square, New York.—Advt.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

United States Steel common closed on the Consolidated Stock Exchange at 108⅝. This was its best price for the day. Throughout the day Steel led the market upward. Its action exerted a very favorable influence upon trading sentiment. The market for Steel was a broad one. In fact, as prices improved, trading in the entire list evinced a tendency to broaden out.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States, District of Connecticut.—In Equity.—THE BILLINGS & SPENCER COMPANY, Complainant, vs. HOPKINS & ALLEN ARMS COMPANY, Defendant.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance and by virtue of a decree in the above entitled cause of the above entitled Court, Honorable Edwin S. Thomas, Judge, dated September 17, 1917, I, the undersigned, one of the Receivers therein, will sell at public sale to the best and highest bidder at the office of Hopkins & Allen Arms Company, No. 128 Franklin Street, Norwich, Connecticut, on Wednesday, the 17th day of October, 1917, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., all the right, title, interest, and equity of redemption of the defendant in the following described properties:

Two certain tracts of land, with the buildings thereon, located in the City of Norwich, Connecticut, the first tract being on the southerly side of Willow Street and the westerly side of Franklin Street at the southwesterly corner of said streets, and fronting about seventy-nine (79) feet on Willow Street and about seventy-one (71) feet on Franklin Street, the second tract being bounded easterly by Franklin Street, southerly by Willow Street, westerly by Chestnut Street, and fronting about three hundred forty-six (346) feet on Franklin Street, about two hundred nineteen (219) feet on Willow Street, and about five hundred seventy-five (572) feet on Chestnut Street, the northerly line of the second tract being about three hundred fifty (350) feet in length and running from the easterly side of Chestnut Street in a southeasterly direction to the westerly side of Franklin Street, the premises being particularly described in the deed to be aforesaid to which reference is herein had.

All right, title, and interest of Hopkins & Allen Arms Company under a certain lease to said company of date July 1, 1915, of certain lands and buildings in said City of Norwich, known as the "car shop."

All the tangible personal property of said Hopkins & Allen Arms Company located on or upon the above described premises, including said car shop, and including all machinery, supplies, engines, boilers, shafting, countershafting, gearing, saws, hangers, belting, tools, jigs, fixtures, motors, furniture, all stock and material, raw, wrought, and in process, and also all machines, tools, jigs, fixtures, and appliances of every kind, and all unfinished arms and parts, and also all rifles in process of manufacture and finished rifles, and all manufactured parts of rifles, and all other like and similar articles upon said premises.

Four hundred shares of the capital stock of the Norwich Housing Company, said property to be sold as an entirety in a single parcel, but subject, however, to all liens, incumbrances, easements, restrictions, and covenants of record, and to any liens for taxes against said property upon the assessment list of October 1, 1917, no bid therefor to be received for a less sum than $65,000, and the sale thereof to be for cash except as hereinafter otherwise provided, payable as follows: Not less than $25,000 to be paid upon the sale being made, within ten (10) days from the date of the confirmation of such sale by this Court as hereinafter provided, any sale to be subject to such confirmation and to be reported to this Court by the undersigned; the purchaser at such sale to be entitled to have applied in partial satisfaction of his bid any Receivers' certificates held against the said Receivers in said cause under order of said Court, such certificates to be received at their face value and accrued interest; all of said property to be sold, and the possession and control of said Receivers until confirmation of sale and payment in full of the purchase price, and upon such confirmation and payment in full said Receivers to execute and deliver to the purchaser in due form of law a sufficient deed or deeds, or instrument or instruments of conveyance and assignment of all the property so sold, and to deliver to such purchaser full possession thereof.

Dated at Norwich, Conn., Sept. 17, 1917.
EDWIN W. HIGGINS, Receiver.

NEW JERSEY—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

STATE OF NEW YORK
38 ACRES OF LAND
situated at Forest Hill, Newark, New Jersey.

This property, part of the assets of the Excelsior Building and Loan Association, in liquidation, under the jurisdiction of the New York State Banking Department, is within 15 minutes' ride from Broad and Market Streets, Newark, N. J.

It is situated in a fine residential section, 30 minutes from New York, and 5 minutes' walk from the Forest Hill Station of the Orange Branch of Erie Railroad.

The property is excellent for suburban development, being located on Montclair Avenue, Verona Avenue, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th Streets, and just North of the beautiful "Branch Brook Park."

It is to be sold as one parcel, and is free and clear of mortgages.

Sealed bids will be received by the Superintendent of Banks, at his office, No. 61 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, until 12 o'clock noon, September 29th, 1917.

Bids must be in writing and accompanied by certified check to the extent of 5% of the bid. The highest bid will be accepted and unsuccessful bidders will have their checks returned.

GOVERNORS SEE HOW TO IMPROVE HARBOR

WILL ASK GOVERNMENT AID

Both States Will Work Together to Relieve Congestion of Storage and Shipping.

Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York and Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, accompanied by members of the New York-New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission, made an official tour of inspection yesterday of all the waterways of the metropolitan district to learn the possibilities of increasing the shipping facilities of New York Harbor. The Governors and their party made a trip which covered more than 100 miles of waterway with the varying conditions for shipping and transportation that have been developed on all sides of New York Harbor. Boarding the steam yacht Alicia, chartered by Arthur Curtiss James, at Pier A, North River, the expedition started down the bay at 10 A. M. A stop of about an hour was made at the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, after which the party went aboard again and the yacht encircled the whole of Staten and Manhattan Islands.

The tour was in charge of General George W. Goethals, chief consulting engineer of the New York, New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission. The party included William R. Willcox, Arthur Curtiss James, William Leary, Spencer Smith, De Witt Van Buskirk, Frank R. Ford, C. A. Ruhlmann, Julius Henry Cohen, Controller A. K. Bugbee of New Jersey, Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, Major Gen. David C. Shanks, Edward Anderberg, Major F. L. V. Hoppin, Colonel Myron Robinson, Captain Howard S. Borden, B. F. Cresson, Jr., W. L. Kuehnle, C. D. Mayhew, and C. W. Staniford.

Passing through the Arthur Kills, after traversing Lower New York Bay, the observers found great stretches of waterfront on both sides that could be effectively improved for storage and shipping. It was admitted by both Governors that this part of the harbor development could not be accomplished without the co-operation of the United States Government. A brief excursion was made into Newark Bay, where they saw the new shipbuilding plants.

The expedition then proceeded through Kill van Kull and up the North River as far as the Ship Canal. From there the Alicia passed through the Harlem River into the East River and back to the point of departure, stopping at the foot of East Twenty-third Street, where both Governors and their staffs left the yacht.

"Congestion is the main trouble with this port," said Governor Whitman, "and it would seem that this can be relieved by co-operation of carriers and help from the National Government. As I understand it, the absence of this co-operation is causing a considerable loss of available bottoms for the movements of goods. In the meantime, inasmuch as New York has become the leading channel through which goods are shipped to our allies, it is of the utmost importance to the entire nation that New York and New Jersey should co-operate to immediately increase its shipping facilities."

Governor Edge said in part:

"For the first time New Jersey has gone into partnership with New York in an enterprise that must promise the greatest advantage to both States. New Jersey has, of course, occupied a very important place in the shipping system of New York, but owing to our own lack of initiative we have had little to do with the development of the port. But now in this national crisis, when New York necessarily becomes such an important centre of shipping, we come to realize that the Port of New York is a national institution, and that we should all take active part in its improvement.

"It is now our business, after our engineers have reported to us what can be done, to approach the Federal Government and ask for a partnership in the prosecution of the great work. We must then get the co-operation of the local transit facilities, of the railroads, and of the warehouse owners, and we must all work hand in hand. The commission itself can only inform the peoples of New Jersey and New York what should be done. The problem divides itself into three parts: first, the necessity of relieving congestion through the building of tunnels, &c.; second, the passage of legislation encouraging capital to utilize and develop shore property by building warehouses thereon, and, third, the co-operation of the various railroad lines in the general improvement of harbor conditions in order to bring about cheaper transportation."

The lighterage problem over which New York and New Jersey have been waging so much warfare was declared yesterday to be one which could be settled better through co-operation than through litigation and competition. The commission, it was said, has already taken under consideration several suggestions to centralize the whole lighterage system in a manner that would prevent waste and facilitate the easy flow of shipping.

SANE NOW, SAYS MRS. DONA.

Seeks to Have Her Brother, M. B. Claussen, Removed as Committee.

A commission in lunacy began taking testimony before a Sheriff's jury yesterday in an application by Mrs. Ida Claussen Dona to have her brother, Matthew B. Claussen, removed as committee of her property on the ground that she is now sane and knows the value of money. She told the Commissioners, Wilbur Larremore and Dr. C. B. Oberndorf, that she was living at 336 West Seventy-second Street and had been well and happy since her marriage to Francis A. G. Dona.

Mrs. Dona told the Commissioners that she received $423 a month from the trust property left to her by her grandfather, Matthew Byrnes, before her brother was appointed her committee, but since then she has got only from $50 to $90 a week. The remainder of the income has been applied in the payment of judgments which she says were obtained against her without her being permitted to appear in court to oppose the suits.

Mrs. Dona denied that she had any feeling now against Colonel Roosevelt, Governor Whitman, or Charles Strauss, President of the Board of Water Supply, who in times past, she said, were conspiring against her. "I don't think Colonel Roosevelt cares anything about me and I don't care anything about him," said Mrs. Dona.

Dr. Edward S. Hodgkin of 522 Second Street, Brooklyn, testifying as a lunacy expert for Mrs. Dona, said he had examined her four times and found her mental condition normal.

Dr. E. J. McNamara testified that many persons have recovered their full mental faculties after having delusions, and in reply to a question said: "There are many dangerously insane people going around, and some who are not sane are even holding public office."

The hearing will continue today.

CONSIDER RED CROSS PLEA.

School Board Refers Junior Call for Funds to Committee.

President Wilson's proclamation asking school children to join the Junior Red Cross follows an appeal by that society to New York school children to pay 25 cents each to become members.

President Wilcox of the Board of Education has called attention to the appeal and the matter has been referred to its Committee on Special Schools and War Service for report.

Isadore M. Levy, whose district includes a large part of the lower east side, said that many children there could not afford to pay 25 cents. The money, he said, was sadly needed for necessaries of life. Each child, however, he said, ought to do all that the others did and would beg, borrow, or even steal the 25 cents to join the Junior Red Cross if it should be established in his school.

FIND BODY OF CHILD DROWNED BY WOMAN

Signed Confession Says That Crime Was Committed to Punish Father.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE FAILS

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 19.—Near the spot in the Passaic River where Mary Cattone had said she had drowned the child, the police found today the body of Mary Rose, the 8-year-old daughter of Charles Rose, a loom fixer, of 91 Market Street, this city. Although Miss Cattone, who is 22 years old, pleaded not guilty in court, she gave the police a signed confession of her crime. In it she made a charge against Mr. Rose, and said that she had killed the child to punish him. She added that she had intended to drown herself also, but was not able to do so.

Miss Cattone signed the confession after being questioned by Police Captain John Tracey and Detective Charles Piroll. She was hysterical and cried out repeatedly that she had tried to kill herself, but could not keep her head under the surface of the shallow water.

"I also tried to lie down in the water, but I always came up again," she said in explanation of her failure to end her life.

Miss Cattone said that she and her brother Louis came to the United States from Italy six years ago following the death of their parents. She and her brother had lived for five years at Hackensack, where they were employed in a silk mill. They then came to Paterson and obtained employment in a silk mill here. Later, she said, her brother found employment in a mill where Mr. Rose was employed as a loom fixer, and she became acquainted with him through her brother. Mr. Rose, she added, often visited the Cattone home at 2 River Street, frequently bringing his wife and two children with him. Several months ago, she said, Mr. Rose found work for her at the mill where he was employed and she remained there until five weeks ago.

Miss Cattone asserted that she decided to end her life on last Monday, and met Mary Rose on Market Street. She invited the child to accompany her, and the two took the boulevard along the Passaic River until they came to Sixth Avenue, where she picked up the child and threw her into the river. It was reported yesterday that her first story on being found in the river had been that she had held the child's head in the water until she was dead, but she made no mention of this in her confession today. "I threw her in, and she didn't come up again," she stated.

Miss Cattone, who wept while telling of the crime, said that she then waded into the river herself, but found that the water was only about four feet deep. After several futile attempts to hold her head under the water, she waded about aimlessly, muttering to herself and crying. It was while she was walking about in the water that she was found by Anthony Ferere of 600 River Street and William Weisman of 229 East Twenty-fourth Street, Paterson.

The two men said yesterday that Miss Cattone said something about the "baby being in there," but they thought she was insane. They took her to the Paterson police station, where she was held until an ambulance arrived from the hospital. The police had, in the meanwhile, received a message from Mr. Rose, telling of his daughter's disappearance, but did not connect the two cases until they had questioned Miss Cattone at the hospital. The girl was too hysterical, however, to tell a connected story until today when, upon being questioned again, she signed the confession. The river was at once dragged under the direction of Captain Tracey and Detective Piroll, and the body of the girl was found about fifty feet from the spot where the two men had found Miss Cattone.

The woman was then arraigned before Recorder William Young, where she entered a formal plea of not guilty. She was locked up without bail pending action by the Grand Jury.

Mr. Rose was informed by the police of the story told by Miss Cattone, but indignantly denied that it was true.

FARMERS APPEAL TO UNIONS

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 19.—The National Non-Partisan League made an effort to win the labor element to its standard in today's program of the High Cost of Living Conference.

Representatives of organized labor were present from many States. They were represented on the program, and league speakers took occasion to emphasize the common interests of labor and tillers of the soil.

J. P. Coughlin, President of the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn, spoke at the afternoon session. He seconded the appeal of the league that labor and farmers unite for a solution of the common problems.

William Langer, Attorney General of North Dakota, in a talk in the morning, informed labor that the league was the political salvation of unionism. He urged trades organizations to affiliate with the organizations.

Amos Pinchot, following a pressing invitation to participate, sent a telegram, which was read by Governor Frazier. The telegram said:

"Figures furnished by competent statisticians indicate that American profiteers will net between three and four billions of dollars out of the war over and above the average net earnings during pre-war period from 1911 to 1913. I hope conference will urge congressional investigation of profits made by companies whose officers, directors, and stockholders are members of the Advisory Committee on the Council of National Defense."

Senator Gronna of North Dakota in a speech today said:

"What I can't understand is why this farming industry should be the only one singled out for this sacrifice of war. When the Food Bill was before the Agricultural Committee of the Senate iron, steel, copper, and all other products were placed in it for regulation as well as wheat. We had oil in. But poor old John D. might have to go hungry, so we had to take oil out. We had powder in the bill. But duPont powder with its $80,000,000 of war profits had to be taken out."

Bills Against Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements and Joseph Buda.

As the result of further investigations into the activities of a gang of men and women who, it is alleged, have been conducting a "diploma factory" where it was possible to purchase Regents' certificates, college diplomas and even licenses to practice medicine and other professions, the Grand Jury yesterday filed additional indictments against "Dr." Nicholas Clements, the alleged head of the "factory," and his wife, Rose Clements. Joseph Buda, who, according to Assistant District Attorney Tompkins, was implicated in the scheme was also indicted on a charge of grand larceny.

The evidence against Buda was obtained from Morris Tobias, who alleged that for the sum of $1,600 Buda furnished him a diploma showing that he was a graduate of a medical institution of high standing in Vienna, Austria. On the strength of this diploma Tobias admitted to Assistant District Attorney Tompkins that he obtained a license to practice in this State.

Irving Reinfeld, whose address was withheld, testified that he gave "Dr." Clements $1,500, for which he received a Regents' qualifying certificate, a diploma from a dental college, and a license to practice in this State.

NATION PLEDGES AID FOR ARMY LIBRARIES

COUNCIL COMPLETES PLANS

Slogan for Next Week Is "A Million Dollars for a Million Books for a Million Soldiers."

Members of the Library War Council appointed by Secretary of War Baker held their final meeting at the New York Public Library yesterday in preparation for the campaign to raise $1,000,000 by popular subscription to build and equip libraries at the thirty-two cantonments of the national army. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the money needed will be raised in New York City. Details of the campaign, which starts on Monday and will last one week, was discussed at the meeting yesterday by prominent persons from various parts of the nation and New York State.

Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank and Chairman of the Library War Council, was summoned to Washington just before the meeting was called to order. Before leaving he sent the following telegram to Secretary Baker.

New York, Sept. 19, 1917.

The Library War Council met today in the New York Public Library to formulate plans for the raising of $1,000,000 for libraries for soldiers and sailors. The success of this campaign seems to be assured. The campaign has resulted in a patriotic outpouring seldom witnessed before. Fifteen State Governors have issued proclamations proclaiming Library War Fund Week, which begins Sept. 24. Other Governors have appointed State and City War Councils to lead in this campaign. All States will do their part, and one Governor has telegraphed that his State will furnish the subscription quota if he has to make an appropriation out of State funds. The various States and cities have established goals showing broad vision and firm determination. There is no doubt but that the $1,000,000 asked for will be subscribed. You can be assured that the Library War Council will at once proceed with its task of building and equipping libraries for our soldiers and sailors. It is probable that the first actual building will be erected at Camp Meade. The leading authors, publishers, and librarians of the country have patriotically united with your Library War Council to carry this movement to a success.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

Dr. John H. Finley, New York State Commissioner of Education, presided at the meeting. It was attended by the members of the New York State and New York City Library War Councils, who met separately at the library earlier in the afternoon. Among them were P. P. Claxton of Washington, United States Commissioner of Education; J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., of Boston; James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus; Morgan J. O'Brien, Frederick B. Pratt, David A. Boody, Herbert F. Gunnison, Joseph A. Mulry, Olin J. Stephens, H. G. Heyson, Charles G. M. Thomas, and George W. Pople of New York.

"A Million Dollars for a Million Books for a Million Soldiers" was adopted as the slogan of the campaign. Frank P. Hill, a librarian at Brooklyn, announced that libraries probably would be established also in American training camps in Europe, with branches on transports, at hospitals and near the fighting fronts.

Reports were received from several cities that have promised to support the campaign. The amounts to be raised by them are:

Baltimore	$30,000	Duluth	$5,000
Boston	50,000	Memphis	25,000
Brooklyn	100,000	Minneapolis	20,000
Buffalo	50,000	Pittsburgh	50,000
Chicago	100,000	Seattle	25,000
Denver	20,000	St. Paul	12,500
Des Moines	5,500	Spokane	10,000

Although the campaign will last a week, the "big day" in New York will be next Thursday, when special efforts will be made by its promoters to obtain the quota assigned to this city.

SAYS 'TIPPERARY' IS HERS.

Miss Alice Jay Adds She Showed Her Manuscript to Its Author.

Supreme Court Justice Goff decided yesterday to appoint a referee having musical ability to decide an application by Miss Alice Smythe Burton Jay asking the court to determine that the chorus of "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary" has been pirated from the refrain of a song she wrote in 1908 and showed to Harry Williams, one of the authors of the song alleged to be based on her composition. Miss Jay is suing Chappell & Co., Ltd., publishers of the Williams song, for $100,000 damages. Miss Jay's application was not opposed.

Miss Jay alleged she wrote a song in 1906 at Green River, Hot Springs, Wash., which was sung by twelve girls the next year at a church entertainment at North Yakima, Wash., under the name of "Yakima." The chief feature of the song was the "Booster Chorus." She said that at the Alaska-Yukon fair she had charge of the sheet music booth and after Innes's Band had played her composition in march time she showed the manuscript to Harry Williams and other musical people. The manuscript, she says, was stolen from the booth that night and she never knew what became of it. Miss Jay said that while in Honolulu in 1915 she was awakened one night by the strains of her "Booster Chorus" sung outside her window. The next day she asked one of the singers the name of the song and was told it was "Tipperary," the most popular song of the day in the States. She bought a copy and found, she says, that the chorus was practically identical with that of her composition, both as to theme and harmony, note for note. She then had her song copyrighted, but because of its similarity to "Tipperary" it is still unpublished. She submitted to the court her manuscript with a copy of "Tipperary," showing the likeness between the choruses of the compositions.

Henry W. Hodge Safe in France.

Word was received at the office of the Public Service Commission yesterday that Henry W. Hodge, formerly a member of the commission, had arrived safely in France, where he is to serve as a Major on the staff of General Pershing. Major Hodge is one of the foremost American engineers in bridge building and it is understood that he will devote himself entirely to engineering work. It was suggested that before long he might be throwing a bridge over the Rhine. Major Hodge will receive $5,000 a year for service in the army, $12,000 less than he received as a Public Service Commissioner.
